Force Costly Refunding For Premier's Pledge

H. Lee Briggs, general manager of the B.C. Power Commission, today charged the provincial government with prostituting the 80,000 customers of the commission to fulfil political promises.

H. L. BRIGGS
. . . bitter attack.

In a dramatic, emotion-charged press conference, he appealed to the public to step over the heads of the government and stop it from forcing the power commission to refinance some of its loans so that Premier Bennett can claim by 1960 that he has paid off the direct debt of B.C.

Mr. Briggs charged that the financial plan will cost the commission $215,000 a year and this will have to be paid by its consumers.

It was one of the most sensational interviews ever given by a public official in the history of the province.

As he neared the end of reading his 3,000-word statement Mr. Briggs broke down, turned and looked out of the window of his office.

He wiped tears from his eyes, then took control of himself and resumed the conference.

He announced he doesn't intend to resign his post, which he took four years ago, but if he is fired he will make a non-political tour of the province to stump the platforms and tell the people the "rancid things" that go on in electric power matters.

Commission Forced Into Losses

In addition to his charge that pressure is being put on the power commission to do the refinancing, Mr. Briggs declared twice previously the government has forced the commission into losses, once for $60,000 and another for $115,000.

This came about when the government was floating power commission loans but invested a lot of government money in them. Instead of buying the bonds directly from government funds, the government floated the loans through bond houses and paid the necessary commissions, which could have been avoided.

"My objections got nowhere,' Mr. Briggs declared.

But his main concern is the Premier's plan to refinance the original issues put out by the government between 1945 and 1952 to set the power commission up in business.

These borrowings were made directly by the government. The money was turned over to the power commission, which undertook to pay all the sinking funds and interest. But the bonds are direct government bonds.

(Since that time, loans for the hydro have been put out as power commission bonds with government guarantees.)

It is the rearrangement of these original bonds, at higher rates than were obtained at the time of issue, which will cost the power commission the money, he said.

"Quite obviously the chief objective of the bond rearrangement is to implement a political promise by the present government, namely to 'wipe out all the province's direct debt by 1960'. All other possible reasons for such action have been analyzed, but without result," he said.

Placed His Whole Career on Line

Mr. Briggs, in effect, placed, his whole career on the line in his statement condemning the government's actions as "unworthy of public responsibility and trust."

He declared: "I will not stand idly by while those charged with the administration of the financial affairs of this province prostitute the 80,000 customers of the B.C. Power Commission to fulfill political promises."

Mr. Briggs made it absolutely clear that what he was doing was solely on his own responsibility and knowledge, that his action was unknown to the members of the power commission itself, or any of the staff.

When he invited reporters into his office he also had a power commission public relations man, L. H. Whittaker, and his own assistant, Phil J. Croft, in the office. He asked each one of them specifically if they had any idea what his statement was about. They each replied that they did not.

Mr. Briggs' statement disclosed that heated arguments and correspondence have been going on between the government's financial advisor, Dr. J. V. Fisher, and the power commission on the proposed refinancing.

The question is not yet finally settled and that is why he has appealed to the public over the head of the government. But at the moment, he said, it is clear the plan, if forced through, must cost the power commission an extra $215,000 a year.

He also made reference to a "news leak" which

LIFE OF MACKENZIE KING

Early Success At University

Serialization of this new and official unpublished biography of Mackenzie King began last Saturday in the Times Weekend Magazine. It will continue daily Monday to Friday in the news columns of the Times and in Saturday's Weekend Magazine.

By ROBERT MacGREGOR DAWSON

In the autumn of 1891 Mackenzie King enrolled in the Faculty of Arts at University College in the University of Toronto. He was not yet 17. A year later he entered the honor course in political science, and was awarded a Blake Scholarship in political science and history.

For the next three years his studies were mainly in politics, economics, constitutional history, and law, in most of which he stood at or near the top of his class. He graduated in 1895 with first-class honors. In 1896 he received the degree of bachelor of laws at Toronto.

King

A few days after Willie appeared on the campus, The Varsity, the student paper, reported a conversation between someone referred to as "Rex" and another student, in which the naive freshman had introduced himself as the son of "Senator Rex" of Berlin.

The incident, which had apparently been somewhat distorted in the telling, is obviously of little consequence save to indicate the impression King made on his fellow students and his extraordinary ability to attract attention and to make the most of his opportunities.

'Surprised Them'

For he brought the matter before a meeting of his class (1895)—presumably on a plea of parliamentary privilege—and, he said, "explained the whole affair to (them) who listened without one interruption for about eight minutes. I was not a bit nervous and I think that kind of surprised some of them. I asked them in closing that I hoped they would not believe any such report and thanked them for their kind attention. Then when I sat down they cheered for about five minutes and called out, 'What's the matter with King, he's all right.' The president and lots of the others congratulated me after the meeting." The nickname of Rex remained, however, and he shrewdly added to the account he gave his parents the comment that if the whole affair "has done anything, it has done me good because now I know nearly every man in the college, or rather they all know me."

He found to his delight that the boyish pranks of the high school were reproduced on a grander scale at Toronto, and his first letters home tell of the "great time" he had had at the Autumn Convocation and at the Opera House.

Police Called In

Fifty chairs were smashed on the first occasion, and the police were compelled to interefere on the second, which ended up with the usual serenade in front of one of the girls' schools. This sportive trait persisted for years.

In 1893 Rex and five others appeared before the University Council on a charge of tearing down an old shed on the campus at Halloween. They were fined $15 each, an act which led to an indignation meeting, a Glee Club parody in their honor, and a student subscription to discharge the fine. On the next Halloween King was chosen by a mass meeting of students to take charge of all arrangements for a theatre night and he quite lived up

Russ to Stay In E. Germany

BERLIN (AP)—Premier Otto Grotewohl indicated today Russia might be ready for a one-sided withdrawal of its troops from Germany, then suddenly backed down on his announcement tonight.

It appeared Grotewohl had been told by the Kremlin to make it clear Soviet troops will stay until Western armies get out of West Germany.

The East German premier earlier had told a press conference that his regime expected to open talks soon with Russian Premier Khrushchev on the withdrawal of Russian troops from the satellite nation.

Under questioning from Western reporters, he added that Russia "perhaps" would also stick to its old proviso calling for simultaneous withdrawal of Russian and Western troops from Germany.

Tonight an official correction was issued on the transcript of the press conference.

The correction changed the "perhaps" to "naturally" in the Grotewohl statement. This meant that the East German premier now was admitting that any withdrawal of Russian troops from his land depended on Western forces leaving the Bonn republic.

The West repeatedly has rejected this in the past, insisting that Russia first must agree to German reunification through free elections.

Grotewohl's first statement followed weekend demands by Khrushchev that the Western powers withdraw from Berlin.

Grotewohl denounced as "sensational" western speculation that the Communists might be planning a new blockade of West Berlin.

"Berlin," he said, "is one question, but it is not the biggest question."

The biggest question, he said, was peace and German unification.

New Wengren Plans Told By Mainwaring

VANCOUVER — Advanced engineering and cost studies for the huge Wenner-Gren power development in the Peace River will go ahead next year, to be completed by December, 1959.

They are expected to show that power from the area can be brought to the lower mainland cheaper than any other hydro sources, which will mean the huge project will go ahead.

This was disclosed at a press conference here today when the full list of directors for the new Peace River Power Development Company, Wenner-Gren subsidiary, was announced.

W. C. Mainwaring, retired vice-president of B.C. Electric, was named president of the new $20,000,000 company.

More than 8,000,000 horsepower can be generated by a huge earth-filled dam built on the Peace River in northeastern B.C. Mr. Mainwaring said.

He said:

"Engineering already completed indicates a dam yielding 4,000,000 horsepower can be built on he Peace River for the same order of costs as a dam yielding only 2,000,000 horsepower near Mica Creek (in southeastern B.C.).

"Another 4,000,000 horsepower can be developed even

'Economic Domination' Aim Of BCE, Wenger-Strachan

Disclosures by B.C. Power Commission general manager Lee Briggs indicate Premier Bennett's government is involved in "a grand plan to have the B.C. Electric and Wenner-Gren dominate the economic life of this province," CCF Leader Robert Strachan said at noon.

Speaking from his home at Cedar, Mr. Strachan said the Briggs statement speaks for itself.

"It bears out the statements the CCF has been making in the House for years. Now it appears the government and Mr. Bennett are involved in a grand plan to have the BCE and Wenner-Gren interests dominate the economic life of the province and saddle our people with high-cost power."

He added: "I certainly commend Mr. Briggs for his public spirited attitude and absolute honesty in releasing the statement. B.C. cannot afford to lose such a man."

Complete Text of Statement by Power Chief

Following is the complete text of the statement issued today by H. Lee Briggs, general manager of the B.C. Power Commission, charging interference in commission financing for political purposes:

"I will not stand idly by while those charged with the administration of the financial affairs of this Province prostitute the 80,000 customers of the B.C. Power Commission to fulfill political promises.

"This refusal has no relation to the control which the Legislature and the Government of this Province must properly exercise over the major policies of the Power Commission. Such overall directional control is an unquestioned necessity, it is essential to the long-term interests of the people of British Columbia.

"But long years ago it was well and truly said: 'Who keeps the truth from the people stands in the way of God.' That striking statement applies to Premier W. A. C. Bennett. It applies to one Lee Briggs. It applies to the most humble witness in the land.

"In the early years of the Power Commission (1945 to 1952), its permanent capital funds were provided by the sale of bond issues standing in the name of the Province. By Orders-in-Council the then governments assigned both the proceeds and the obligations of these issues to the Power Commission. They made the Power Commission wholly responsible for all interest charges, and for all sinking fund installments such as would provide completely for eventual repayment.

"When the Premier and his advisers propose and continue to insist with increasing pressure that this permanent financing be almost totally rearranged, and thereby impose large extra annual and total costs which can only be paid for by each and every one of the Commission's customers, it is indeed time that these people be made fully aware of the circumstances. These people will then pass their own judgment on what is right and what is wrong.

"Quite obviously the chief objective of the bond rearrangement is to implement a political promise by the present government, namely to 'wipe out all the Province's direct debt by 1960.' All other possible reasons for such action have been analyzed, but without result.

THE INSTRUCTIONS

"A meeting in the Premier's office last September 22 was attended by the Economic Adviser, the three Power Commissioners, and myself. The Commission was in effect asked by the Premier to go through the motions of paying up its 32 million dollars in bonded debt carried in the name of the Province. No matter that some of those bonds carried very low rates of interest, and with few exceptions had many years still to run. The entire group carried an average interest rate of 3.1%, whereas the current market rate for new issues of similar character is 5.1%.

"At that meeting it was proposed to the Commission in most decisive fashion that it must select between (a) reborrowing in the open market at current rates of interest or (b) reissuing a new series of 4% bonds, to be taken up by other sinking and trust funds of other governmental agencies as their funds become available.

EXISTING BOND ISSUES NOT TO BE CANCELLED

"Although the Power Commission is to be pushed into higher costs for its customers to carry, there is to be no change in the status of the original bonds either as to ownership or as to their rate of interest. The scheme is to turn over now to the Sinking Fund Trustees, the equivalent value of all future sinking fund payments so that these, together with the interest earnings thereon, will be sufficient to provide for all future interest charges (still at 3.1%) and in addition, discharge fully the original obligations when they come due for payment at the normal time.

"Thus the direct obligation of the Province for these bonds would be transferred on a fully paid-up basis to the Sinking Fund Trustees. The direct obligations of the Province would in effect be extinguished now.

"As far as the Power Commission is concerned, the main catch in the scheme is the instruction to go on the open market now, or else to issue 4% bonds with some attraction to other Provincial trust or sinking funds.

"The proposal was thereupon taken back to the Power Commission offices where it was put under careful study.

NEWS LEAK

"From some unknown source a few days later there was a highly unfortunate leak of information to the 'Vancouver Province' newspaper. Several persons in the Finance Department had been involved in preparing or printing the information, and several persons in the Power Commission had been engaged in analyzing it. I was highly mortified by this occurrence. We did our best to track down the source of the leak, but without avail.

"If the news accounts are correct, the Premier issued several emphatically violent denials of the bond rearrangement plan which he had in fact set in motion. The strong emphasis to and the threatenings included with his denials, indicate clearly his full appreciation of what is right and what is wrong.

"It would be interesting to learn why, a few days later, the 'Vancouver Province' retracted the entire story in every particular.

"Rearrangement negotiations proceed.

"On October 8 the Commissioners delegated the General Manager to try to persuade Dr. Fisher (Dr. J. V. Fisher, B.C. Government Economic Adviser) to amend the Government's declared course of action. Our extended discussions on October 8 and 9 ended in an inconclusive draw. I followed by writing him in careful detail on October 14, to which on October 16 he replied in vehement vein.

"I feel that my own intelligence, the intelligence of Commission accounting people, and the intelligence of the people of British Columbia has been insulted by the insistence of government officials on the following, as indicated by the discussions and the correspondence:

"That a 4% or a 3¼ % interest rate is really no more costly than a 3.1% interest rate if the term of the sinking fund payments are extended to a greater number of years.

"That total annual interest payments of $975,750 on the existing issues are almost no different from the total annual interest of $976,253 on the proposed new issues (the former being on $32,025,000, but the latter being on only $26,306,072).

"That in their books the Power Commission officials could extend the figures of the estimated years of life for their plant equipments, and thereby reduce the yearly depreciation payments from which the sinking fund moneys are taken.

"That, for example, it is really in the best interests of the Power Commission to refinance now, at 5.1% or 4% or 3¼ %, an issue which presently carries an interest rate of 2¼ % and does not mature until 1968!

"That it is no business of the Power Commission how its permanent financing may be arranged or rearranged.

"To quote Dr. Fisher's letter: " . . . in . . . answer (to) your suggestion that the proposed arrangement adds $260,000 to your costs—a suggestion to which I take extreme exception, and which in my opinion and that of the Comptroller-General is invalid, and could not be considered on any ground."

"Fortunately this whole pressure play is completely documented throughout. At the time of writing, the proposed interest rate of the new bonds would be 3¼ %, and the additional annual cost of the rearrangement to the customers of the Power Commission would be to the tune of about $215,000 each year at the present time.

"Our resistance to this rearrangement of bond issues has undoubtedly been embarrassing to the Premier. As a result, he has instituted an investigation into high costs in construction carried out by the Power Commission. Certainly such a course is his privilege and indeed his duty, should there be honest doubt regarding our performance.

"Let no one imagine that the Power Commission has not had its share of high-costing projects in these last three difficult years. Definitely, yes we have struggled with some excessive-costing installations in the same way that the owners of Kemano, Kitimat, Duncan Bay, Alberni, Crofton and the Dease Island tunnel and Mr. John Q. Public have had to struggle with some or many inflated and unreasonable costs.

"If ever the Government or the people of this Province wish to comb through Power Commission projects, they would be well advised to do it adequately and properly by the appointment of some nationally-respected firm of consulting engineers, with whom should be associated some nationally-respected firm of chartered accountants. The sifting process will be costly and a great consumer of time, but I would welcome it gladly for the result it must produce—an abundant disclosure of fantastic work demands on a small group of devoted key people, of difficulties they have overcome, and of the accomplishments which have been achieved in our success to provide electric power in time to meet the needs of the people we are privileged to serve.

EXPECT DENIALS

"When all this information becomes public knowledge, undoubtedly forceful denials and expressions of nothing but good intentions or lack of knowledge will come forth. Nevertheless, the records will remain. These will continue to speak for themselves of the intentions and of the determination with which this infamous course of action is being pushed even at the moment of writing.

"No camouflage explanations can conceal the fact that through higher interest rates, the B.C. Power Commission was to be required to accept an additional yearly cost of about $215,000.

"And the battle is still in progress.

NOT THE FIRST TIME

"The action of the General Manager of the Power Commission, in placing this matter directly before the court of public opinion, is perhaps highly unusual. It obliges him to go on to say that Power Commission customers are already bearing certain improper costs as a result of the fiscal practices of this present government.

"In July of 1955, the Power Commission floated through its lawful fiscal agent (the Minister of Finance) a bond issue of $10,000,000. The syndicate of investment dealers which was awarded the issue required in its bid a fee of $9.23 per thousand dollars of issue, all quite proper and usual. But it was later drawn to our attention that no less than $6,550,000 of the issue had been taken up, I believe at the outset of the offering, by either the Department of Finance itself directly in behalf of various governmental trustees, or with the knowledge or upon the advice of the Department of Finance for the trust funds of various Provincial Commissions and Boards. Yet, at the fee rate stated above, the Power Commission had nevertheless to pay more than $60,000 to the outside syndicate for the purchase of our bonds by Provincial agencies.

"The matter was enquired into, but without any satisfactory explanations.

"Again in September, 1957, the Power Commission floated a $30,000,000 issue. I am informed that Provincial agencies took $10,000,000 of this, largely through the planned conversion of Dominion of Canada bonds. In this instance, the fee of the investment syndicate was $11.50 per thousand dollars. Again, and on this occasion, the Power Commission was charged $115,000 expense re the bond takings of the Provincial agencies. My objections got nowhere.

"When such a practice as this has been called to the direct attention of the responsible public officials, as it has been, and when such a practice is later repeated upon an even grander scale, then it can mean either one of two things.

"Either it signifies gross ineptitude on a grand scale or else it signifies a planned design.

"In my books, to be tagged with either gross ineptitude or design, establishes the clear fact that any man responsibly associated therewith is completely unworthy of public responsibility and trust.

"It is for such reasons that because of my own position of public trust, there seems no sufficiently fast relief other than by a public disclosure of the circumstances.

"In public business there is no substitute for full and complete integrity. And there are no relative degrees of integrity.

"Right now I am in this signed statement calling upon the people of this Province for their help.

"Signed,
H. L. BRIGGS."

PREMIER BENNETT

DR. J. V. FISHER

TARGET of blistering attack by H. L. Briggs, power commission general manager, today, were the premier, and Dr. Fisher, his economic and financial adviser, who conducted correspondence with Mr. Briggs regarding power commission financing.

BRIGGS GIVES REASONS FOR ACTION

"I have been asked why the release of this distressing information is being made in this manner.

"It is because the time remaining for corrective action has almost run out. Thus far the more ordinary corrective processes have failed to work.

"No member of the Power Commission staff is in any way implicated in these releases. Nor is any aware of more than detached portions of these stories, the responsibility for which is entirely my own.

"The Commissioners are quite unaware of my decision to release this information. They are therefore in a position to deal with this matter and with myself as in their judgment the circumstances may require.

"Since I am doing not one whit less than my duty to the customers of the British Columbia Power Commission and to all the people of this Province, I will not voluntarily resign.

"Last week after a number of disturbing developments at the office and almost a loss of hope, I spent a restless night. After getting up at daylight, I felt unable to do other than on my knees to ask Almighty God for His strength and guidance in dealing with the burden of knowledge whose full significance and implications were growing to such tremendous proportions. I knew then that regardless of personal risk, the matter had to be taken through as rapidly as possible to the tribunal of public opinion.

"After the first pattern of depth charges has been released, I suppose that one could not expect the newspapers to carry a red-hot torch indefinitely, or the radio stations to continue their reiterations. After all, they have to live too.

"If I am discharged from my present position, I have every intention of stumping the platforms of this province until the next election, to let the people know the rancid things that go on here in electric power matters which affect most of the people so vitally. But it shall be done without political affiliation.

"I have no political ambitions whatsoever. I do not propose to run for public office. My whole working life has been in the engineering and the management of public utilities, and I ask for nothing better than to have it remain that way.

"I came to this Province four years ago to inaugurate and to develop a single effective management for the B.C. Power Commission. The time has flashed by, but not without some small measure of success. More than anything else there has grown up an expanding conviction that the way must be found to give the people of this Province a far squarer deal than the great majority of them have yet had from their own power resources.

"At the moment, however, I do now challenge the daily newspapers of British Columbia to carry these statements now released, verbatim and in full.

"Yours faithfully,
H. L. BRIGGS."

Troubles Plague Power Body

Two major upheavals have occurred in the B.C. Power Commission over the past four years.

The first was on March 12, 1954, when the three-man power commission and its chief engineer resigned following investigation of $1,000,000 damage done by mudslides at the Whatshan hydro installation on Lower Arrow Lake in August, 1953.

They resigned after a finding of negligence on their part by Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne, a royal commissioner appointed by the government.

Chairman S. R. Weston, Maj. Gen. W. W. Foster, CMG, DSO, VD, and Forrest L. Shaw, OBE, proferred their resignations to the B.C. government as a matter of form after the report was released and these were accepted.

Chief Engineer A. W. Lash handed his resignation to the commission and this also was accepted.

A few days later T. H. Crosby was appointed chairman in succession to Mr. Weston and he has served ever since.

Mr. Justice Clyne was commissioned in September, 1953, to seek the causes of the Whatshan mudslides. After hearing 25 witnesses in 22 days of evidence, and visiting the slide area, he ruled that the three commissioners and the chief engineer knew, or should have known, that the plant was in danger for two years before the slides.

S. R. WESTON
. . . quit over slide

He found that they had failed to try to avert them.

Subsequently Premier Bennett said in the legislature:

"Accepting these resignations is the toughest job I have had since I became premier."

He said the resignations were made voluntarily.

Mr. Weston, born at Upper Gagetown, N.B., in 1899, became chairman of the B.C. Power Commission, with a salary of $12,000 a year, in April, 1945. He was formerly chief engineer of the B.C. Utilities Commission.

. . . BRIGGS

occurred late in September when the Vancouver Province published an item hinting at the transfer.

The Premier had made violent denials at that time. (In fact a suit for $1,000,000 was threatened against the Province by the Premier.)

"It would be interesting to learn why, a few days later the Vancouver Province retracted the entire story in every particular," Mr. Briggs said.

He explained that in the early years of the power commission (1945 to 1952), the provincial government borrowed by sale of bonds sums of money to finance the new power development and distribution program. Mr. Briggs established this amount as $32,025,000.

Proceeds and obligations for repayment were transferred to the power commission.

Now, said Mr. Briggs, the premier and his advisors propose this set up be completely re-arranged. The power commission is asked to make new borrowings to turn over to the government an amount equal to the unrepaid portion of the original loans.

The increased interest charges now demanded by bond markets would mean the increase of $215,000 in expense to the commission.

This will ". . . impose large extra annual and total costs which can only be paid for by each and every one of the commission's customers . . ."

He said, at a meeting in the premier's office Sept. 22 the commission learned the refinancing would mean payment of interest rates of 5.1 per cent, whereas the interest rate still being paid on the original borrowings averaged 3.1 per cent.

The commission was given a choice of reborrowing in the open market or re-issuing a new series of 4 per cent bonds to be taken up by other government agencies, ". . . as their funds become available."

At the same time, the original bond issue would still claim interest payment by the commission. The new borrowings would be used to establish a sinking fund which would counter the original debt on a balance sheet, and in effect wipe out the provincial obligation.

Mr. Briggs mentioned while this was under study the news leak occurred and the denials were issued by the premier.

"The strong emphasis to and the threatenings of his denials, indicate clearly his full appreciation of what is right and what is wrong," Mr. Briggs added.

He said the power commission asked him, as general manager, to try to persuade the government financial advisor, Dr. Fisher, to amend this course of action. Talks ended in "an inconclusive draw."

They brought a letter from Dr. Fisher in "vehement vein."

As a result, said Mr. Briggs, "I feel that my own intelligence, the intelligence of Commission accounting people and the intelligence of the people of British Columbia, has been insulted . . ."

The government asked, he said, that people believe 4 or 3¾ per cent interest is no more costly than 3.1 per cent interest.

The government asks the figures on estimated life of plant equipment be extended to decrease yearly depreciation payments, and claims refinancing at higher cost would be in best interests of the power commission.

Dr. Fisher told him in a letter, the suggestion the refinancing would add $260,000 to current BCPC costs is invalid and "could not be considered on any ground."

But Mr. Briggs replied, "Fortunately, this whole pressure play is completely documented throughout . . ."

Mr. Briggs said that because this is embarrassing to the premier, the premier has launched investigation into high construction costs in commission projects. The general manager admits to high costs but said they are general.

He said an investigation would be welcomed, but he asked it be done by a nationally known firm of consulting engineers and a firm of chartered accountants.

He felt it would disclose ". . . fantastic work demands on a small group of devoted key people," and accomplishment.

Mr. Briggs said it wasn't the first time he has objected to provincial financial policies which affect the commission.

He said in July 1955 the commission floated a $10,000,000 bond issue. A syndicate of investment dealers was awarded the issue with a bid fee of $9.23 per thousand.

The department of finance or other government agencies took up $6,550,000 of the new bonds. The commission had to pay $60,000 to the outside syndicate in order that other provincial agencies could purchase the bonds.

"The matter was enquired into but without any satisfactory explanations."

In September 1957, a $30,000,000 bond issue by the commission was authorized and provincial agencies took $10,000,000. The syndicate was paid $11.50 per thousand, the BCPC paying $115,000 to private firms for use of provincial government money.

"My objections got nowhere."

He said when responsible public officials ignore such things, "it signifies either gross ineptitude, on a grand scale, or else it signifies a planned design.

"In my books, to be tagged with either gross ineptitude or design, establishes the clear fact that any man responsibly associated therewith is completely unworthy of public responsibility and trust."

He added, "There is no substitute for full and complete integrity. And there are no relative degrees of integrity. . ."

Prairie Woman's Death Mourned By City Survivors

Mrs. Mary Suffern, who died recently at St. Joseph's Hospital, Mackiin, Sask., is survived by three children in Victoria—Mrs. Rose Medland, Mrs. Edith Laughren and Fred Suffern.

Mrs. Suffern, aged 76, was born at Battleford, Sask., and married John A. Suffern in June 1901. They had eight children. Mr. Suffern died on July 26 last.

Funeral services for Mrs. Suffern were held in Senlac United Church, Sask., last Tuesday followed by interment at Hatley Memorial Gardens, Victoria, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Suffern gave many priceless relics of Saskatchewan' early days to the museum at Battleford, among them a picture of Fort Garry painted by a young Indian boy around the beginning of the century.

College Cadets Form Guard At War Memorial

QUALICUM BEACH — The Qualicum College Cadet Corps provided the guard of honor at the War Memorial for the Remembrance Day service on Tuesday, and paraded along with veterans and other service groups.

For the first time NCO's of the corps were in Scottish uniform, and a donation by the local Legion branch will aid in outfitting the corps in kilts.

The corps is affiliated with the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's).

MANY HONORS CAME TO BRIGGS

Top Scholastic Record

Herbert Lee Briggs was appointed general manager of the British Columbia Power Commission, Feb. 1, 1955.

The post of general manager was recommended by a royal commission in 1954.

Mr. Briggs came to B.C. from Winnipeg, where he was general manager of Winnipeg hydro-electric system.

He had an outstanding record in the scholastic and utility field in his native province of Manitoba.

Born in Killarney, he was awarded the Governor-General's Medal when he graduated from high school in 1919. After taking a first-year arts course at Wesley College (where he won the Memorial Scholarship), he worked for 2½ years in a bank, then took some Normal School training and taught public school for a year.

After receiving scholarships each year at the University of Manitoba, he graduated in 1928 with a degree of Bachelor of Science in electrical engineering, magna cum laude, and was awarded the university gold medal in electrical engineering.

He joined the staff of the Winnipeg hydro-electric system on graduation and progressed steadily through the engineering, construction and operating divisions of that utility.

In 1952, he became general manager.

The following year, he was appointed a member of the City of Winnipeg finance committee's advisory group.

Mr. Briggs is a keen Rotarian and snaps near-professional 35 mm color pictures, which are always in demand for showing to employees, whenever he is on tour of the far-flung B.C. Power Commission system.

He is married and has three children, two sons, who have also pursued engineering careers, and a daughter, at college.

Socreds Unhurt By Bribe Case Bennett Claims

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier Bennett returned from an Arizona holiday Tuesday and told interviewers here there is no need for a general election in British Columbia.

The Social Credit premier said the result of the Sommers bribery-conspiracy trial has strengthened his party's position with the people.

Mr. Bennett also said he thought it "very wise to have an immediate byelection in Rossland-Trail," the seat left vacant by the resignation of former lands minister Robert E. Sommers, who stands convicted of conspiracy, and accepting bribes.

In Mr. Bennett's absence the provincial cabinet set Dec. 15 as the date of the byelection.

When asked what effect Sommers' conviction would have on the Social Credit party, Mr. Bennett said "If anything, it has strengthened us."

Mr. Bennett said: "When the people know everything we have done on this case, they'll realize we have a government without fear or favor.

"Once they thought there was a law for cabinet ministers and a law for the people who sweep the streets."

Premier to Meet Dief on Columbia

He also disclosed that he will meet with Prime Minister Diefenbaker in Ottawa Dec. 20 to "press for expedition on negotiations pertaining to Columbia River hydro development."

He said he was confident "we'll get both the Columbia and Peace River development now. The Peace is the best chance for B.C. and Canada to get a good deal on the Columbia. The U.S. might think we're bluffing but we're not."

He added: "We want development in both the Kootenays and the north, in all areas of the province. No area must lag behind another. That is why we want the earliest possible decision on the Columbia."

Canada and the U.S. have not reached agreement on the portion of downstream benefits to be returned to Canada.

Mr. Bennett said that on his visit to Ottawa he will be accompanied by Robert Bonner, in his portfolio as minister of trade and industry, lands and forests minister Ray Williston, Dr. Jack Fisher, provincial government economic adviser, and forestry adviser Gordon Sloan.

"It must be done at a national level, but the benefits we want in B.C. from the Columbia are a share of the new power that the eight U.S. installations would receive, a share of the 'firm' power that would be made firm by construction of Mica Creek dam and compensation for flood control benefits as given by B.C.," the premier said.

'I'm Glad British Money Coming'

The premier said the proposed Wenner-Gren development is "no giveaway."

"What Wenner-Gren has in writing is known to everyone. But I'm glad that so much British money and British people with British brains are coming into this scheme."

The premier continued: "You know the complaints about American money taking over Canada. Well, now the other parties are starting to complain again. They always try to smear the people who are getting things done.

"But if we don't move on the Peace, we won't have the power to see B.C. become the great province it will become. More people are coming here. They will need power.

"We're tied up on the Taku River, we're tied up on the Fraser and on the Columbia. The Peace is our trump card."

Three of Great Britain's leading businessmen are among the directors of the new power company. They are.

Sir Andrew MacTaggart, 70, chairman and managing director of Power Securities Corporation Limited;

Earl Alexander of Tunis, 73, former governor-general of Canada, Allied commander-in-chief, North Africa, Second World War, twice First Lord of the Admiralty;

Lord Tweedsmuir, 47, son of a former governor-general of Canada and president of Commonwealth and British Empire chambers of commerce, 1955. He spent several winters in the Canadian Arctic with the Hudson's Bay Company.

Deputy chairman of the firm is Bernard G. Gore, general manager, Wenner-Gren B.C. Development Company.

Named as directors were: W. W. H. Hill-Wood, London; Birger Strid, chairman Wenner-Gren Foundation, London; Einard M. Gunderson, executive vice-president of Pacific Great Eastern Railway, Vancouver; Brig. W. C. Murphy, director Wenner-Gren B.C. Development Company, Vancouver; Ralph Chantrill, engineering consultant British Thompson-Houston group; A. Bruce Robertson, general solicitor B.C. Electric; George Cunningham, president of a Vancouver drug company; Senator S. S. McKeen, chairman board of Union Steamships Limited and A. F. McAlpine, retired general superintendent Royal Bank of Canada.

Mr. Mainwaring said that preliminary engineering studies indicate the Peace River power delivered at Vancouver will be cheaper than power from any other hydro development in B.C. because of the largest amount of power made available in one installation.

Transmission lines from the dam site to Vancouver, about 550 miles long, will traverse many miles of prairie and light-timbered country and for that reason will not be subject to other than usual maintenance costs, he said.

"If continued engineering studies substantiate preliminary findings, as we fully expect they will, the biggest power project ever undertaken anywhere in the world will result," he said.

Output compares with a total of 2,645,000 horsepower from Grand Coulee and 1,670,000 horsepower from Hoover Dam.

Cassiar Road Pact Signed With Ottawa

OTTAWA (UPI) — Formal agreement was announced today between Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton and British Columbia Mines Minister W. K. Kiernan for the construction of 255-mile Stewart-Cassiar road in interior B.C.

The B.C. agreement was said by officials here to be the first to be signed under the new federal-provincial "roads to resources" program.

Under the terms of the pact both governments will contribute equally to the cost of the highway, which will open to development the resources of a large and hitherto comparatively inaccessible region of northwest B.C.

Exploratory work already carried out by the geological survey of Canada has indicated that the area has a rich mineral potential.

The Stewart-Cassiar road, Mines Minister Kiernan said today, will be of considerable benefit to the existing asbestos mining operations at Cassiar by very substantially reducing transportation costs for equipment moving in and for outgoing shipment of the mining product. The mines minister said the road also will provide access to tidewater for much of the area east of the Alaska panhandle.

Teller Caught After Nightclub Spree in U.S.

DENVER (CP) — Canadian officers have arrived here to take custody of a young bank teller who went on a fling through the West with what authorities say was a fortune in stolen money.

"I went to a lot of night clubs and kept high most of the time on champagne, vodka and beer," said Boyne Johnston, 25, of Renfrew, Ont., charged with theft of $260,000 from the Imperial Bank of Canada branch in Ottawa where he was senior teller.

"I knew I would be caught, but I didn't think much about the consequences," he was quoted as telling Denver officers following his arrest Monday night in Denver's Chez Paree night club.

Inspector Ab Cavan and detective Gordon Lowry of the Ottawa Police Department arrived by air Tuesday night to return Johnston, who said he will not contest the extradition warrant they hold.

RECOVER $230,000

Denver Police Captain C. V. Stanley, who said Johnston signed a written statement regarding the October 24 Ottawa robbery, estimated that "in the vicinity of $230,000" was found in Johnston's room at the YMCA here.

Stanley said the Canadian related he transferred the stolen money from a bank vault to a large canvas sack after the bank closed at 6 p.m., October 24. He and his wife, Bernice, 23, who Johnston said had no knowledge of the robbery plan, then drove to the home of her parents in Renfrew.

Johnston left his wife there, telling her he was going deer hunting. When he didn't return, Mrs. Johnston notified authorities. She later reported finding $7,000 in a bedroom of her parents' home.

The police captain said Johnston told him he flew to Windsor, Ont., stuffed $35,000 to $40,000 in his pockets and took a taxi across the International Bridge to Detroit.

Then he gave the cab driver $20 and waited in a bar for him while he picked up the suitcase containing the rest of the money and brought it to him from Windsor.

Johnston's travels took him as far West as Los Angeles and he also stopped off at Salt Lake City, Twin Falls, Idaho, and Cheyenne, Wyoming—where he made a call to an accountant at the bank but vanished before Cheyenne officers could pick up his trail.

The Canadian came to Denver last week, police said, and was arrested on a tip from two girl employees of the night club, where he was watching a strip-tease act and drinking champagne.

WAITRESS SPOTTED

Police had distributed "wanted" posters bearing Johnston's photograph, and Geneva Jowers, 28, saw one and described it to Ormonde Wynn, 27, who happened to wait on Johnston's table.

Stanley said he doesn't know who might receive a $10,000 reward offered by a Canadian bonding company. He said he understands the company is leaving the question to the discretion of Ottawa police.

The Denver officer described Johnston as a nice-looking fellow who "seems relieved that we caught him." Johnston told detectives: "I just wanted to know what it would be like to have that much money at one time—and I found out."

SYRIA, JORDAN IN NEW CLASH

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Local press reports said today a Syrian customs corporal was wounded in a 90-minute clash on the Syrian-Jordanian frontier on Tuesday. The reports termed the incident "provocative aggression" by the Jordanians.

Labor Retains British Seat; Tory Vote Off

PONTYPOOL, Wales (Reuters)—The opposition Labor party retained a "safe" Parliamentary seat Tuesday in a by-election result that demonstrated a continuing slump in the Conservative government's electoral prospects.

Labor candidates Leo Abse won the Pontypool seat with 20,000 votes, beating Conservative candidate, who got 6,273 votes, and a representative of the Welsh Nationalist movement who polled 2,927.

The last election in the constituency was in the general elections of 1955, when it was a straight fight between Labor and Conservatives. Labor polled 26,372 and the Conservatives 9,800.

TORIES DECLINE

The Conservatives' share of the total votes declined by 5.6 percentage points compared with 1955. The Labor poll also fell by 4.5 points. Socialists noted that the fall in their actual majority coincided roughly with the vote polled by the Welsh nationalists.

The contest was caused by the recent bestowal of a life peerage on D. Granville West, the former Labor member.

Posthumous Award to Noted Square Dancer

The Silver Spur, an award for unselfish service to square dancing, has been made posthumously to the late John Mooney of Victoria.

Mr. Mooney, who died in January, 1957, was largely responsible for laying the groundwork for today's square dancing on Vancouver Island. Nearly 2,000 dancers participated in the Spring Roundup at Memorial Arena.

The Silver Spur plaque was presented to his widow, Mrs. Alice Mooney, by Dai MacLeod representing "Sets in Order," the square dance magazine published in Los Angeles.

Ottawa Denies Douk Request

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government has never undertaken to negotiate with Russia the migration of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect to Siberia, a federal official said today.

He said there has never been a request from the sect that the government negotiate the migration movement.

CABINET DISCUSSES ACTION

Rail Strike Set for Dec. 1

OTTAWA (CP)—Threat of a national railway strike was discussed by the cabinet today.

Acting Prime Minister Green made this known as he entered a morning cabinet session with Labor Minister Starr and Transport Minister Hees.

The railways' 135,000 non-operating employees announced in Montreal Tuesday that they will strike Dec. 1 if wage demands are not met.

Strike notice was served on the railways Tuesday on behalf of 15 railway unions representing the non-ops. The unions threatened to tie up both transcontinental carriers as well as several smaller lines.

Frank H. Hall, chief negotiator for the unions, announced the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways were advised by letter that barring settlement, the strike will start Monday, Dec. 1, at 6 a.m. regional standard time.

RAILWAYS SILENT

There was no immediate reaction from the railways. A railway management meeting was scheduled for today, but it was not known whether this concerned the strike notice.

Settlement of the wage dispute hinges on a board of transport commissioners' ruling on a railway application for a 19 per cent freight rate increase.

The railways promised to settle with the unions if they got the full rate boost—estimated to be worth $60,000,000 a year.

If the impending strike goes through, it would be the second big railway strike this year and fourth since 1950.

LAST STRIKE IN 1950

The non-ops—workers who do not actually operate trains—last went on strike in 1950, to back demands for a five-day week. It was ended after 11 days when Parliament intervened. The firemen's union went on strike against the CPR for nine days in January, 1957, and again for three days in May, this year.

No immediate preventive federal government action is expected on the Dec. 1 strike call.

Informants in Ottawa said the government is almost certain to hold off any action until the board of transport commissioners has handed down its decision on the railways' application for a freight rate increase.

The idea would be to see whether the companies get an increase that would cause them to settle with the unions before the strike date.

The unions have accepted a conciliation board majority report that recommended a 14-cent hourly wage increase in three installments over a two-year contract. When negotiations opened a year ago the unions demanded an increase of 35 cents an hour.

During subsequent negotiations the railways maintained they could not afford an increase without getting an equivalent freight rate increase.

IS IT WORTH IT? ASKS 'TRENCH' EXPERT

'Inland Sea' to Inundate Rich, Habitable Northland

By HAL MALONE

If Premier Bennett allows Axel Wenner-Gren and cohorts to build the "world's largest dam" on the Peace River, B.C.'s rich northland will become an inland sea, lost forever to a potential 500,000 settlers.

Whatever Wenner-Gren interests propose in the way of dams designed to create a giant power source, the Premier should stop "bamboozling" the public. He should reveal "the truth" about the project for all B.C. to know.

This is the considered opinion of hunter, trapper, fisherman, prospector, homesteader, novelist Raymond M. Patterson of Sidney.

If Premier Bennett is an expert on political matters, Mr. Patterson is an expert on the Rocky Mountain Trench—the piece of real estate at which Swedish millionaire Axel Wenner-Gren and four other companies (including the B.C. Electric) have been casting covetous glances. By damming the Peace with the world's largest hunk of concrete they envision a yield of 4,000,000 horsepower.

Is It Worth It?

Mr. Patterson doesn't dispute the yield. But his grey moustache bristles in step with his disposition when he asks, "Is it worth the power to ruin forever the only unoccupied habitable land west of the Rockies?" Without waiting for an answer, he says, emphatically, "NO."

He feels that Attorney-General Robert Bonner, the Premier's echo, erred when he described the 270-mile artificial lake which would be created by the dam as "fantastic."

"He should have said fantastically foolish," Mr. Patterson says.

Every creek, crick, valley and lake in the Trench is as well known to the angular, straightforward Patterson as the tender spots of Robert Strachan and Arthur Laing are known — and prodded — by Premier Bennett.

Knows the Country

Raymond M. Patterson homesteaded 30 years ago in the tiny settlement of North Star, about 80 miles north of the town of Peace River in northern Alberta. Since, he has portaged the rivers of the Peace, Mackenzie, Liard, Parsnip and Finlay. He has gone up and down the Rocky Mountain trench by practically every means possible — on foot, by horse, river boat, airplane.

A man-made lake, created by damming the Peace as the Peace River Power Development Corporation proposes, would not be worth the price —"any price" — its' power would yield.

Why?

"Because the Trench contains timber, minerals and meadowland. Placer gold mining has been going on for years. Hundreds of creeks and small rivers make it a sportsman's paradise. Wild game abounds. Little agriculture has been undertaken but the soil is generally good. An artificial lake would end all that forever."

'Northwest Passage'

His description of the Trench sounds like a passage from the book, "Northwest Passage." It should. He wrote the book, hailed by many as a colorful, authoritative story of B.C.'s vast and unknown northland.

The Trench is a remarkably straight cordillera (mountain range) which "would have made a better route for the Alaska Highway than the present one starting across the Trench at Dawson Creek."

Mr. Patterson says that its valley and the valley west of the conflux of the Liard and Kechika rivers, north of the Peace River, are the only wide remaining areas in the north which could be made habitable by settlers.

"Mr. Bennett doesn't know what he's talking about when he tells people the north is the place to go and then proclaims the Wenner-Gren power proposals on the Peace a momentous thing," says Mr. Patterson.

Can't Have Both

"You can't have both. The only land that would be left for settlement if they dammed the Peace is across the Trench, north of Fort St. John. It's practically all swamp and muskeg. I know. I remember travelling across it once with pack horses. A horse owned by my companion, Angus Beaton, sank up to his neck in muskeg. We pried him out by putting trees under his belly and lifting him, inch by inch. It was in October and we had to work in cold water."

If Wenner-Gren and Peace River Power Development do dam the Peace, Mr. Patterson would like to know where Wenner-Gren's monorail will be built.

"Are they going to hang it from the mountain tops? That's the only place left for it if they create that artificial lake."

Flood Hart Highway

Mr. Bennett may not be aware of it but such a lake would also mean that travellers on the Hart Highway and the Prince George-Dawson Creek section of the PGE would have to don skin-diving equipment.

Sections of the highway and the rail line near McLeod and Trout Lakes are extremely low and would be "drowned" by a man-made lake, he says.

The Trench and adjacent western valleys have "magnificent possibilities" as a recreation area, he claims.

"If the government improved roads from this part of the province into Prince George and beyond it, the whole Trench could become an ideal playground," Patterson says.

AXEL WENNER-GREN

RAYMOND PATTERSON

He scoffed at reports that the dam is projected "in the vicinity of Dawson Creek."

Impossible Site

"That's impossible. The two most likely places on the Peace are at Hudson Hope and just east of the point where the Parsnip and the Finlay flow into it."

The power potential of the Peace is hardly new, points out Mr. Patterson. It was discussed at some length by George Smith, a B.C. land surveyor, at the eighth Natural Resources convention in 1955.

He said a 484-foot dam on the Peace where it crosses the Rockies would develop 1,000,000 horsepower at Giscome Rapids near Prince George. Providing adequate dam sites were available, the water of the Peace developed along the Fraser between Prince George and Lytton could create an additional 4,000,000 horsepower, Smith said. He made the basic surveys for Kitimat and Kemano.

Far-Fetched Scheme

At that time, Emil Bronlund, a mining engineer, described the scheme as "far-fetched." Mr. Patterson concurs. Like Mr. Bronlund, author Patterson thinks northern B.C., representing more than half the area of the province, "deserves more attention from qualified people."

"I know that I could ask the Premier any number of questions about the area and he couldn't answer them," says Patterson.

Well, Mr. Premier?

BEFORE PEACE RIVER PROJECT STARTS—GREEN

Columbia Agreement in One Year?

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Sun says acting prime minister Howard Green indicated today Ottawa will back Columbia River power development before Wenner-Gren interests undertake their Peace River project.

The newspaper also says a federal government power engineer backed up Mr. Green's stand, saying Ottawa and Washington can work out a firm agreement to develop the Columbia within one year.

Mr. Green is quoted as saying the federal government will do nothing to hold up negotiations with the United States.

Mr. Green was asked by the Sun if the federal government would approve a power export licence for Wenner-Gren power, and he replied:

"That is 10 years away. We are anxious to see the Columbia power project started."

The Columbia plan calls for the construction of a giant dam on Mica or Murphy Creek, and controlled water would then be sent to the U.S. The electricity would be developed on the American side, and then distributed to greater Vancouver and lower mainland areas through the northwest power grid. It would not be necessary to build transmission lines to Vancouver.

The Wenner-Gren project would involve a dam on the Peace River, with a potential of 4,000,000 horsepower, at a cost of $400,000,000 to $600,000,000.

THIS WORLD OF OURS

People and Things

BIRMINGHAM, Eng.—A 43-year-old clergyman who began a "lull you to sleep" telephone service confessed today he now is unable to sleep himself.

Rev John Thomas said:

"The telephone is ringing all night and every night.

"I am praying for extra strength and a bedside extension."

He is minister of the All-Nations (Evangelical) Church and tries to send people off to sleep by giving them spiritual advice.

Since his plan was announced last Thursday, he has had 200 calls — 50 for general advice, 50 from would-be suicides and 100 "can't-sleepers."

HOLLYWOOD — Leona Gage, who lost her Miss U.S.A. title when officials found she was married, plans to wed for the third time next Monday.

Miss Gage, 22, now a show girl at the Moulin Rouge night club here, will marry Nick Covacevich, 22, who also dances at the club.

SEATTLE—Australia's Ambassador Howard Beale says he knew all along Americans are helpful people "but I hadn't realized how helpful until I came to Seattle."

The ambassador tells this story:

Arriving here to head his country's delegation at the Colombo Plan conference, he was met at the airport by a limousine sent by Washington's Governor Albert D. Rosellini and a uniformed state patrolman to ride escort on his motorcycle.

As the car drove into Seattle with the patrolman following at a discreet distance, Beale was startled to see another car draw alongside and the driver gesture urgently.

Beale rolled down the window.

"Psst," said the man. "Thought you'd like to know. There's a state cop following you."

AKRON, Ohio — An Akron gypsy was accused Monday of larceny by trick because the daughter he sold for $2,500 under old gypsy custom fled her bridegroom after spending only 15 minutes with him.

Ruby Lupa Cooper, 17, the girl at the centre of the dispute involving two gypsy clans, was in seclusion at the home of her father, Joe Cooper.

Alex W. Golly of Youngstown, stepfather of the disappointed groom, accused Cooper in court of accepting payment for the bride while knowing that Ruby would not stay with the groom, Steven Nicholous, 16. They were married Oct. 27.

POPE JOHN

DISAPPOINTED NO PICTURES AT AUDIENCE

John D. Meets 'Affable, Kindly' Pope

VATICAN CITY (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker had a private 15-minute audience with Pope John this morning and left with praise for the "affable, kindly" personality of the new head of the Roman Catholic Church.

But the Canadian leader expressed disappointment that there was no pictorial record of the event. Through a misunderstanding, the official Vatican photographer took no pictures of the meeting in the frescoed papal apartments.

"I see now why they elected him pope," Diefenbaker said. "He is so affable, so kindly, so paternal that he immediately wins the heart of anyone who has the good fortune to come in contact with him."

CANADIAN PRELATE

The prime minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker, who wore a black dress and veil, were accompanied in the audience by Msgr. William Carew of St. John's, Nfld., a prelate in the Vatican secretary of state's office.

Speaking to reporters of his impressions of the Pope, Diefenbaker said:

"He has a very benign, amiable personality and his dedication is to peace. He is a man of peace and deep humility and tolerance . . ."

The prime minister said their discussion, carried on through an interpreter, dealt with Canada and with world affairs in general.

TALKS POSTPONED

The Canadian leader was scheduled to have a 45-minute talk with Premier and Foreign Minister Amintore Fanfani following the papal audience but a special meeting of the Italian cabinet forced postponement of the discussions until early afternoon.

The Canadian prime minister and his party planned a sight-seeing trip of Rome afterward before leaving for Karachi on the next stage of his world tour.

Engineer Lack Hits RCAF Plans

OTTAWA (CP)—An RCAF aeronautical engineer says the RCAF is unprepared for the guided missile age.

And he adds that it won't be prepared until it gets its share of Canada's graduate engineers.

Sqdn. Ldr. J. H. Woodrow, a Second World War observer, now stationed at Gimli, Man., makes the statement in an article in the just-published 1958 Journal of the RCAF Staff College.

"The recruiting situation for graduate engineers has become so desperate that even our advertising has become misleading," Sqdn. Ldr. Woodrow writes.

RCAF advertisements proclaimed that opportunities for electrical engineers were "unlimited". This was "simply not true".

In the RCAF, technical personnel could act as staff advisers only in their particular technical speciality, but could not have a voice in policy matters.

Sqdn. Ldr. Woodrow says the situation regarding recruitment of engineering officers has become so bad that only one Canadian with a university degree entered the RCAF Aeronautical Engineering School in the 1957-58 fiscal year.

"The service RCAF must be concerned indeed if it is willing to shade the truth in its recruiting advertising," he writes.

". . . The only valid conclusion is that the RCAF is not offering to the young Canadian engineering graduate a worthwhile career in comparison with civilian industry."

LESS PAY

Technical officers now were paid $100 less a month than aircrew officers and the latter, as a rule, did less work. And the only personnel trained for top management jobs were aircrew, especially pilots.

U.S. Attack From Moon Bases Feared by Russia

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The Soviet Union charged today the United States has "nightmarish" plans to set up military bases on the moon to launch massive attacks on Soviet cities.

The Soviet charge came from Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin as the United Nations' 81-nation political committee opened debate on the problem of space control.

Zorin told the committee that the Soviet Union could not agree to any international program for the peaceful uses of outer space unless the United States pledged itself to liquidate all its foreign military bases.

REPEATED DEMANDS

He repeated previous Soviet demands for a ban on the use of inter-continental ballistic missiles and other space weapons as another condition to any co-operation in space experiments such as the United States is urging.

The key to the whole problem, he said, is to adopt measures which will take into account the security of all sides on an equal basis.

Chief U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge said the U.S. position would be set forth in detail later, but he accused Zorin of distorting the U.S. position. He charged Zorin was deliberately trying to mislead the committee.

Shortly after the 81-country committee wound up its discussion of the Korea problem Tuesday with a voting victory recorded for the Western principle of free elections in that divided country, there were reports that American delegation members were meeting privately with the Russians in an attempt to reach some broad agreement on the outspace issue.

By late evening it became apparent that no such preliminary agreement was in the cards, and that the space issue would inevitably be linked with the disarmament question.

A U.S. spokesman told the Associated Press that the Russians apparently were seeking a full-dress UN debate before putting themselves even off the record as being in agreement with the West.

Smith Pledges Canada to Give Full Asia Aid

SEATTLE (CP)—Canada will continue to play a full and active part in new initiatives to speed Colombo Plan development in the economically-backward countries of South and Southeast Asia.

That was the main theme of a message given by External Affairs Minister Sydney Smith, Tuesday, to other ministers of the consultative committee of the plan conceived eight years ago as a bulwark against Communism and to promote the peace of the world by eliminating hunger and want.

In a major speech to the committee, the head of the Canadian delegation reviewed what Canada has done and what it proposes. He saw increased world trade as one result that would be shared by all as the economies of the underdeveloped countries move forward with Colombo help.

But he warned the delegates from the 18 plan nations not to "pass over the setbacks we have met". He noted that in the draft report now before the committee, there was increasing recognition "of the need to ensure that technical skills are developed at a rate sufficient to make the most effective use of the capital and resources available."

"There is increasing recognition too, of the fact that industrial development does not in itself ensure a sound and prosperous economy," the minister said. "Obviously it must be meshed into a well-balanced development program.

"For the example, as the draft report points out, agriculture must in much of the Colombo Plan area and for some time to come, provide the major part of employment and income."

He referred to the decision of the recent Commonwealth trade and economic conference in Montreal to give more impetus to economic development.

He referred too to steps to increase the resources of the International Monetary Fund and the International Bank to mobilize more capital and to establishment of a special development fund by the United Nations.

$2 Million Promised for UN Fund

"In all these initiatives, Mr. Chairman, I report that Canada is playing a full and active part," the minister said.

"We have agreed to contribute our share to the proposed expansions of the resources of the international bank and the international monetary fund. We have pledged a contribution of $2,000,000 to the UN special fund for the first years of its operation.

"And, with specific reference to the Colombo Plan, we have undertaken, subject to the approval of the Canadian parliament, to increase our annual contribution for the next three years by roughly one-half from the current level of $35,000,000 a year to $50,000,000 a year."

Canada also had signified her intention to enlarge her aid program to the West Indies Federation and "to our Commonwealth partners in Africa."

During the current fiscal year Canada voted an additional $35,000,000 in Colombo Plan aid, bringing the total Canadian contribution to more than $231,000,000. This did not include $21,500,000 in grants and $35,000,000 in loan funds made available to Colombo participants for the purchase of commodities.

Mr. Smith said discussions with a number of member countries "are quite far advanced and agreement on projects should be reached in the near future."

Religious Drama Hit By Actor Shortage

Plan by Christ Church Cathedral officials to stage a religious drama next spring to mark the diocese's 100th anniversary may have to be called off because of a shortage of actors.

A spokesman said today, "Some actresses are also needed, and considerable helpers backstage."

"We feel the cathedral should make a big effort to mark the anniversary," the spokesman said, "and we shall welcome help from anyone who thinks he or she has even a little theatrical talent."

Interested persons are asked to call project director Mrs. Flora Nicholson at EV 5-7694 or attend meetings at the cathedral tonight and Thursday at 8 o'clock.

The play, Philip Lamb's "Go Down Moses" will be staged six nights during Passion Week.

PLANE INCIDENT

Jordan Carries Charge to UN

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Jordan has carried to the United Nations its charge of United Arab Republican aggression because Syrian jet fighters turned back King Hussein's plane. No immediate UN action was indicated.

This desert kingdom also sought an immediate emergency meeting of the Arab League Council in Amman to discuss the aerial incident. The U.A.R. has denied the charge.

The two steps were approved by Parliament Tuesday in separate resolutions. Cheering members gave Premier Samir Rifai a free hand to take any action necessary in the crisis that arose Monday.

Hussein was flying toward a 24th-birthday vacation in Europe when two MiG jet fighters turned him back over the U.A.R.'s Syrian province. In a broadcast to his people, Hussein charged that the MiGs sought to kill or capture him and had crossed over Jordan in the pursuit.

U.A.R. officials said Hussein's plane was crossing Syria without proper clearance and was stopped as a routine and legal measure. The incident shattered a recent improvement in relations between Jordan and the U.A.R., whose radio stations often in the past have called for Hussein's assassination.

Rifai told parliament that UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold would be asked to arrange a Security Council debate on the Jordanian charges as soon as possible. A source at the UN in New York said, however, that the charges received there did not mention an emergency council meeting.

The U.A.R. has ridiculed Hussein's account of the incident. Cairo Radio called it "a figment of Hussein's imagination."

New Soviet Bid For Arms Talks

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union sought today to discuss disarmament with the West at a summit meeting, at the Geneva talks on surprise attack and at the United Nations.

The Western powers have on previous occasions opposed the form of talks proposed by Moscow as more likely to produce propaganda than progress.

Russia renewed its off-again, on-again summit conference proposals in a joint communique ending talks between Premier Khrushchev and Polish Communist party leader Wladyslaw Gomulka.

It said a meeting at the summit should "examine and solve the most pressing problems of disarmament."

The Soviet foreign ministry handed a note to the U.S. Embassy here asking that the Geneva talks be "coupled with definite steps in disarmament," Moscow Radio reported.

On a third front, the Soviet Union tried to introduce an aspect of disarmament into a UN debate in New York on peaceful use of outer space. A Russian resolution called for both a ban on using space for military purposes and elimination of foreign military bases.

The Western position has been that advance preparations indicating good results must precede any summit meeting.

Khrushchev broke off ambassadorial talks in Moscow last spring on a summit meeting.

Both at Geneva and in the UN the West contends that disarmament is not part of the business at hand and that its injection only complicates discussions without offering progress toward guarantees of balanced, effective disarmament.

While calling for disarmament, the Soviet-Polish communique also said it is necessary to strengthen the Warsaw Pact, the military alliance of the East European Communist bloc.

What's Wrong With Victoria?

MR. JUSTIN HARBORD IS ONE of those men, uncommon in public affairs, who are willing to admit a mistake. It was indeed a mistake, we think, for him, as chairman of the Community Chest drive, to threaten publicity for those Victoria firms that have failed to make an adequate contribution. But it was courageous for Mr. Harbord to apologize and admit that he had lost his temper.

Well might he lose his temper.

For many months he and his colleagues were preparing for the Chest campaign. For many weeks they have conducted it at the cost of disrupting their business affairs and private lives.

The debt which the community owes to all these men and women can never be repaid — except, of course, by the success of the campaign. They are paid nothing for their work but will feel amply compensated if the charities of this city can get the money needed for essential work.

Unhappily they are not getting that money. The fund is falling far short of its objective. No wonder that Mr. Harbord, after all his efforts, is discouraged. And no wonder he is outraged when some firms and individuals, well able to make substantial contributions, refuse to do so and shelter behind the fund's anonymity.

It is perfectly proper — as Mr. Harbord agrees on second thoughts —that the lists of contributors should be anonymous. In such a voluntary effort we cannot use the weapon of public pressure against individuals.

Mr. Harbord is quite correct, however, in his general complaint that some people and corporations in Victoria, are refusing to accept their responsibilities and leaving others to carry the load. It is a strange and humiliating fact that one of the richest cities in the world, per capita, has been unable so far to raise the very modest sum of $300,000 for good works that somehow must be financed.

What is wrong with Victoria that it cannot match the efforts of other cities throughout the nation, including our neighbor, Vancouver?

Mr. Harbord, having worked so diligently at great personal sacrifice, has every right to ask that question.

Victoria has the chance, even at this late hour, to prove that a prosperous city is also a community with a heart as big as its purse.

More Indians in School

THE INDIAN NEWS, PUBLICATION of the Indian affairs branch of the Department of Citizenship and Immigration, devotes its current issue largely to an encouraging report on school developments for natives.

The issue's main story reports employment of 86 more teachers, establishment of 50 new classrooms and enrolment of 1,000 more students in Indian schools throughout the nation for the opening of the 1958-59 year. This is good news. So, too, is the publication's item on integration experiments in Manitoba and British Columbia.

Indian News cites the example of the Prince George Catholic High School, where 14 Indians attend classes with 76 white students.

It is satisfying to learn that this experiment is succeeding. It will surprise a large number of British Columbians, however, to learn that such an experiment was deemed necessary.

Indian children have the same rights as white children to attend public schools in British Columbia. In several districts, high schools of recent construction have been jointly financed by provincial and municipal authorities and the Department of Indian Affairs. Young Canadians of different origins are offered the same opportunities for education.

Even in cases where Indian children live on reservations they are entitled to attend public schools in adjacent districts on the same terms that apply to other children resident outside any particular school district. Those terms call for the payment—in the Indians' case by the federal department—of the usual fees imposed on non-residents.

The public school program is proceeding in a satisfactory way—so satisfactory, authorities report, that it is no longer considered an experiment.

The situation in the public schools of this province emphasizes the gratifying report from the Indian News that "more Indian teen-agers are stepping into high school courses. More are going into trade schools. More are learning to be teachers, nurses and stenographers. The number of these young people is growing. Their eyes are on the future."

Young Canada's Reading

IT IS SOME TIME SINCE LIbrarians, and others in a position to know, pointed out the fact that television has not replaced books for leisure enjoyment. Actually, by Victoria Public Library statistics, the trend seems the reverse. More people are reading more books than was the case before TV flickered its way into the living-room.

The situation is emphasized during Young Canada Book Week, starting on Saturday. While the library presents special displays of works for the juvenile reader, its officials point to a swelling circulation which reached 154,582 by September 30 this year, compared to 129,215 for the same period in 1957.

The current juvenile total is approximately 30 per cent of all circulation for the year. The gross circulation, in turn, is approximately 50 per cent above the figure six years ago, and the gain in the juvenile section is proportionately larger than in the adult.

A reason for this development is suggested by the library people. They say that in addition to the tried and cherished child classics, modern juvenile books are better—and supplied in larger volume—than ever before. Moreover, on the juvenile shelves, less "junk" is offered than in the senior fiction section.

The purpose of Young Canada Book Week is at least twofold. It seeks to increase the number of young readers and it hopes, also, to show the adult public what is being offered in worthwhile material to children up to 14 years.

The Victoria Public Library displays next week have been arranged with those ends in view.

Hard Yolk in the Egg

WHEN CANADIANS CONsider their geographic position in relation to possible war between the two big powers of the world today, they have a simple idiom to define their status. We, they say, could be the ham in the sandwich.

The analogy suggests an uncomfortable situation. It might be worse. Austria has just received from its defence minister, Ferdinand Graf, its first authoritative postwar analysis of the country's position wedged between rival blocs of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Warsaw Pact members.

The map shows Austria in the middle of a complex including Warsaw Pact states Czechoslovakia and Hungary, NATO states West Germany and Italy, and two neutrals, Switzerland and Yugoslavia.

The combined military strength of these neighbors is "120 divisions, five mountain brigades and an unknown number of rocket regiments."

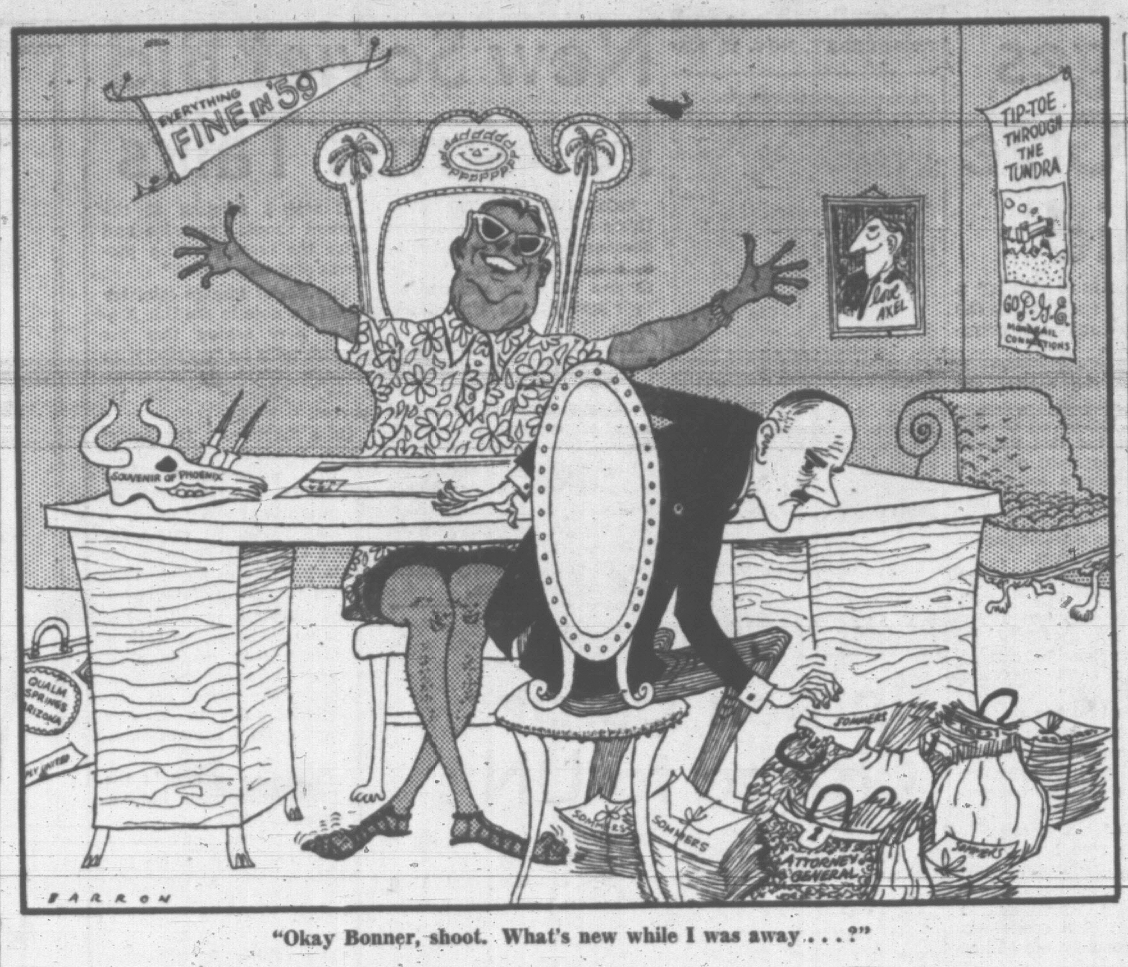

If Canada occasionally feels like the ham in the sandwich, Austria must feel like the yolk in an egg. For the opposing factions, Austria could represent a valuable strategic prize in the case of war.

Austria's recognition of that point is reflected in Herr Graf's determination to see his country equipped with the hardest-hitting army its resources will permit, and to have those forces kept alert and trained in the use of the most modern and effective weapons. Thereby he hopes that, strategic a prize as it might be, Austria will be regarded as too costly an acquisition by any power seeking to gain it by force.

Why, Teacher!

A COGENT COMMENTARY ON the education system of our times was offered recently by a young lady of our acquaintance.

"Our teacher," she said, "must be from Kentucky, or somewheres. She spells 'stallion' with one 'l' and 'Purple People Eaters' with two 't's'. You know, 'eatters'."

"Okay Bonner, shoot. What's new while I was away . . . ?"

Gamblers All

From The Manchester Guardian

THE Government's premium bonds scheme—Mr. Macmillan's version of a State lottery—celebrated its second birthday on Monday with every sign of material success. In two years it has attracted £200 millions of investment—savings or stake money, depending on the point of view—and it has outstripped the football pools in terms of money raised.

It does not seem to have diminished the popularity of other forms of gambling, but then it appeals to a different range of gambling instincts. For a fortune to put one beyond the reach of want (or work)—the dream that inspires the filler-up of pools' coupons—premium bonds are not much of a bet. But for a tax-free windfall ranging from £25 to £1,000, with no risk of losing the stake money, premium bonds offer what is clearly an attractive flutter.

To super-tax payers a block of 500 premium bonds (the maximum holding) provides as good a way of side-stepping the Inland Revenue (wholly legally, of course) as any other way of putting money to work. And for many small savers the chance of a substantial windfall is clearly more attractive than the conventional interest offered by the building societies, the Post Office, and Trustee Savings Banks.

As an inducement to a rather shamefaced form of gambling without a trace of the heroic about it, the scheme perhaps does little harm. But in diverting savings from the building societies and other traditional homes of small investment it is at least arguable that premium bonds have a good deal to do with keeping the interest on mortgage loans for house purchase higher than most home-buyers find comfortable.

DO WE KNOW WHERE WE'RE GOING?

By B. A. TOBIN

Let's Decide Now to Travel on the Main Line

THERE was a suggestion in the Deutsch Report that if this community wants to enjoy a future as a good place to live in, a good place to visit, a centre of educational and cultural activities, it had better begin to do something about it. The point was a little off the main part of Mr. Deutsch's argument, which dealt with other matters, but it was a very important one for all the people of Greater Victoria and particularly for their elected representatives. In a few words, the remark sets up a dividing line, a watershed. On one side we can continue to struggle along encouraging such tourists as we can, trying to attract industries, letting in an improvement now and then and in general going along in much the same way as we have been going.

Tobin

On the other slope of the watershed we would adopt a somewhat different program—or rather we would adopt a program instead of proceeding without one.

We would face up to it, admit our future lies in the direction of a residential, tourist and educational community, agree that nature has gone a long way towards making such a career a big success, and decide to do something along those lines for ourselves.

We would not necessarily discourage industry from coming here. But we would accept the fact that this will never be a great industrial centre; we would quit kidding ourselves that some day, when things have got straightened out, big factories will clamor to open up here.

We would reconcile ourselves to the thought that we have lost a good many industries from here during the past few years, and that our future lies in exploiting our natural attractions rather than bucking the facts of geography and economic law.

Once having made this decision a lot of other problems would be clarified. Having designated the goal we would have a much better chance of reaching it.

For then the things which would contribute to our future could be given the highest priorities; the things which did not help us along the way would be given second place.

But it has to be one or the other. The Butchart Sunken Gardens would never have become world famous if the quarry hadn't been turned into a beautiful display of flowers, trees and shrubs. If an effort had been made to struggle along between two ideas—mining a little limestone on one side of the hole and planting a few flowers on the other side—the place would have been neither one thing nor the other.

Now, among the things which would contribute to Victoria's future as a residential and tourist centre would be such projects as an auditorium, an aquarium, adequate sports fields and indoor sports accommodation. Also implied would be further development of the art gallery, extension of the college facilities to university status with a suitable campus and living arrangements for visiting students.

We would need a much better museum building for proper display of the great wealth of Indian and other material now crowded out of sight. We would want further development of the excellent existing library, encouragement of creative trades such as weavers and silversmiths, encouragement of art schools, music instruction and similar pursuits.

These things would not exclude other activities of all kinds, they would merely be added on to what we have. Through such directed development it would not be long before the community's name would be much better known than it is today.

The Winnipeg Ballet, the Stratford Players, the Banff School of Fine Arts —such undertakings have become known far and wide. Victoria is known for its scenery, but who talks about what Victorians do?

At the moment, we are losing both our Jan Zachs and our roofing companies.

There are many places on this continent and in Europe to which people travel hundreds of miles for special occasions, or exhibits or productions. Oberammergau is only a small village yet it is world famous. Many a small community in the United States has become a yearly rendezvous for thousands of music lovers, art lovers, dance lovers and others because some noted artist or group of artists has made it a centre.

Victoria could do as much, or more.

But the amenities we ourselves provide should harmonize with those nature has already given us. Since the outdoor environment is one of our most valuable attractions, we should co-operate by reserving green spaces, developing parks, saving our greatest asset from destruction through building on land which ultimately would be worth ten times as much to the community as a park or garden.

Saanich at present is considering an admirable proposal by its engineer for the further development of more than a dozen existing municipal parks. Combined with other projects for reserving and improving park property, this program will add greatly to the value of the area as a place to live.

With the main objective clear, there would be no fumbling around year after year on such questions as whether or not to protect such a natural jewel as Christie Point at Craigflower, there would be no talk of subdividing even a little-used part of Thetis Lake Park, there would be no indecision on many of the problems that we have been passing from hand to hand, from council to council for years.

Above all, every suggestion for a new project wouldn't be stymied by counter-suggestions for a dozen other ways to spend the money. It would be known that the long-range plan included all the improvements, and there would not be the stagnating competition among equally worthy ideas.

PATTERN FOR BETTER FIRE PROTECTION

Trained Men to Fight Fires, But Who's Going to Pay?

NOVEMBER'S mud builds up where logging trucks and cars roll by MacMillan and Bloedel Limited's Nanaimo River Operations camp.

Stott

A visitor scrapes it from his boots as he reaches the door of the fire-fighting equipment depot, steps inside and immediately thinks he should have spent more time on the door mat.

The interior is as neat as a tidy housewife's kitchen. That's the way Eric Holman, foreman fire warden, makes it.

Hand-tools — axes, mattocks and shovels with clean red and white handles — stretch in ranks as trim as a chorus line. Hose, cleaned, dried, tested, repaired, is coiled on shelves and marked for pressure. Clean portable pumps, overhauled and also marked for pressure, rest on other shelves.

All the impedimenta that can be packed into the forest both to test fire risk conditions and to fight fire has been reassembled in the storehouse, restored to first class shape and ready for redistribution to logging areas when it is needed.

The outfit knows where its equipment is and what condition it is in. This is good house-keeping and more. It's the sign of efficiency. The same hallmark is evident on the well-kept rolling stock outside, the tested water tanks, with pumps and equipment combined.

All this is the armament of the force which successfully fought the worst fire season in recent history this summer.

Its standard is a measure, too, of the competence of that force, the full woods' personnel whose every member knew his fire-fighting job and had been briefed specifically on methods of fire-fighting under whatever conditions prevailed in the particular location where he worked.

That kind of efficiency saved the company—and indirectly the province—hundreds of thousands of dollars that would have been lost had fires broken away from the crew this year.

And the fire-fighting force did not restrict its activity to company holdings only. Wherever an outbreak occurred in the vicinity of MacMillan and Bloedel workings, the crew rushed to suppress it. In some cases, company men were on the line with equipment battling fire when reports were still being relayed to the government officials concerned.

They were on the job for the best of practical reasons. Anytime fire strikes in or near company holdings it threatens the raw material from which MacMillan and Bloedel makes a living.

The B.C. Forest Service is highly conscious of the service such outfits perform—and other big companies as well as M&B follow similar procedures.

The service appreciates the effectiveness of the big outfits to the point where it will probably expand the techniques of using company loggers on the ground as shock-troops to meet fires anywhere in the vicinity. That, it seems, will be the next extension of provincial protection. To a degree this is an operative practice now.

Good Logic

The logic of the development is obvious. While the forest service can conscript able-bodied men to fight fires wherever they are found when an outbreak occurs, it is hiring a questionable commodity when it doesn't know its men.

With employees of the big logging outfits it has people who know the woods, who are drilled and educated in fire-fighting and very frequently are familiar with the terrain. They are a veteran force in being. They don't grab a shovel or a mattock and stand helplessly around until they're told what to do. Nobody is better equipped than they to cope with the job in hand.

That does not mean that the Forest Service itself does not need more men. A larger staff is urgently required, as the Hon. Gordon Sloan has pointed out emphatically in his royal commission reports. But the province can never create a fire department similar to that of a city or municipality whose sole job is to fight fires. The economics of such a specialized force are impossible. And the territory—the whole forested region of British Columbia—is too vast to cover.

As a result of this situation an important point is raised for Mr. Sloan when he undertakes his investigation into the whole question of fire-fighting in the province. It seems certain that the potential of the logging outfits will be pressed into wider service. That means additional cost. The question is: Who's going to pay?

Enlightened self-interest pushes the big companies into the fray. They cannot log trees that have been destroyed by fire. Where forests disappear, so does their industry.

But they are not the only ones drawing profit from the woods. Since 50 cents of British Columbia's production dollar comes from that source, all British Columbia is concerned—most specifically the Provincial Government which has a vested interest in the preservation of the forests and the returns from its legitimate harvest. So, too, has the Federal Government, which today gives back very little of the revenue it takes from B.C. forests.

The pattern for better fire protection has been indicated. Unquestionably that better protection will be more costly. Who picks up the chit?

Over to you, Mr. Sloan.

From Our Files

Nov. 12, 1898: Kokomo, Ind.: President McKinley has sent Mrs. James Jones a letter of sympathy and $25. Her husband, an artillery man, was killed when a cannon exploded saluting the presidential train.

Nov. 12, 1918: London: Germany has requested the U.S. president to arrange immediately for opening of peace negotiations, there being a danger of famine.

Nov. 12, 1938: Berlin: Germany's remaining 500,000 Jews were uprooted economically today by a $400,000,000 fine for "murder" of a German diplomat in Paris.

As Our Readers See It

'Consistency,' Etc.

As a person gets older, it is reasonable that one should acquire some knowledge as well as increasing years, which brings to my mind a quotation used by my teacher which is not only reasonable but very true., "Consistency, thou art a jewel."

I wonder at the attitude of our shipyard men who, until recently, faced very distressing prospects for work until the decision to build a couple of naval vessels to boost business.

My humble suggestion is: why, in the face of winter and tougher conditions, make conditions worse by being unco-operative, for others have rights too? So set a better example!

Withholding Cheque

I heartily agree with Mr. Dermot O'Kiely for opposing the idea of publishing the names of firms who have not contributed as much as Mr. Harbord thinks they should.

Has Mr. Harbord any idea of the loss sustained by most of the merchants of the city on account of the two strikes in the middle of the season?

I am withholding my cheque (very small I admit) until I know what the Community Chest Management is going to do.

If the names, any names are published, I will give my contribution where I know the need is great, but not to be handled by the Community Chest Management.

UN CORRESPONDENCE

Power From the Sun

NEW YORK—One-third of Canada is covered by desert.

This little-known fact makes UN research on solar energy of particular interest to Canadians. Deserts are the poorest parts of the world, but they are rich in one resource —sunshine—and many scientists are optimistic that eventually this resource will be a major factor in making them productive.

Burke

The Canadian desert covers approximately one million square miles, the one-third of Canada lying north of the timberline. It is the world's northernmost desert. It's also the world's wettest desert—quite literally a desert covered by lakes. Along with the Russian desert, it is the world's coldest desert and this makes energy sources of particular importance.

At the moment fuel for the Canadian desert is carried north at great cost by water or air. Ultimately it's hoped that energy will be supplied by nuclear reactors, by northern oil, or perhaps by solar furnaces.

Stimulation of solar energy research is mentioned as one of the objects behind an American resolution submitted to the United Nations calling for an international effort to speed world development. One of the proposals advanced in the American resolution is for stepped-up scientific co-operation, and American spokesmen pointed to solar energy research as a logical starting point.

Harnessing of solar energy has already progressed past the experimental stage. A publication put out by UNESCO reports that in France solar furnaces are being used to produce 60 kilograms of zirconia daily, a material used in high-temperature furnaces. Under construction is a new furnace with a heat-collecting mirror 11 stories high which will produce 2,400 kilograms daily.

Soviet scientists have plans for a solar energy station powered by five acres of mirrors rolling on 15 circular railroad tracks, one inside the other. The mirrors will roll around these tracks, following the sun, and concentrating its rays on a boiler set on a 130-foot tower. The UNESCO publication reports that Soviet scientists estimate that the 1,300 mirrors will collect enough solar energy to generate 2.5 million kilowatt hours of electricity annually.

In Israel, a solar-powered chemical factory is now being built to produce fertilizers and insecticides.

In the United States, solar-heated homes have been built in both hot, sunny Arizona and in Maine, a state with an essentially Canadian climate.

"Not so many years from now, houses around the world may be heated (or cooled) by a furnace situated some 93 million miles away," said the UNESCO editors, reporting on the American experiments.

Already on the market is a solar-powered portable radio which sells for only slightly more than conventional battery models. When the sun isn't shining, or for use inside, the radio uses conventional power sources.

Like the French, American firms are making solar-powered water heaters and 5,000 have so far been sold in the U.S.

An unusual use for the new power source is to operate distilleries. Solar stills are now being operated by a French firm to turn out man's most important commodity—water. One hundred and fifty solar stills are being operated in the Sahara Desert, where the price of distilled water has been cut to a fraction of its former price.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Are London Papers 'Trivial?'

LONDON—Over the past few months I've noticed a fellow who has been coming regularly into our local coffee shop.

He's an Indian (the sort from India, not from North America) in his twenties, and with him has been a blonde young lady whom I concluded must live somewhere in the area. Judging by his manner and the way he dresses I concluded he must have money. And this was borne out by his car, which he would park outside the coffee shop—a dazzling scarlet-colored Thunderbird.

Reyburn

Apart from noticing these things about him I didn't give him any more thought, just putting him down as a type of Indian you see a lot of around London—they're well-to-do and seem to regard it as a matter of great pride to be seen escorting a white girl, especially a blonde.

Well, now what happens? This young Indian turns out to be Prince Shiv of Palitana and all of a sudden he's the talk of the town.

Reason for this is that after 10 days' acquaintance with him, the four-time married Eva Bartok announced that they are to be married.

Now, an accusation constantly flung at the press of London (the so-called "popular" press, not the serious-minded Times and Telegraph) is that it is preoccupied with the trivial. If ever there was fodder for those who make such an accusation it is this matter of Eva Bartok and Prince Shiv of Palitana.

Over the past few days the newspapers here have been suffering from an embarrassment of riches. Not only has there been a good solid news story of BOAC trying to rush through the setting up of the first Atlantic daily jet service in the face of a crippling strike. There has also been the first visit of a German head of state to this country since pre-First World War days.

As if that wasn't enough to keep the front pages busy, Frank Sinatra hits town and starts dating American-born Lady Beatty. Then along come Eva and her prince. And, by the way of bearing out what those who deride the popular press say, it is little Eva who has been getting the big play.

How does this film actress rate precedence? Her legitimate achievements amount to appearing in a number of films without raising a ripple of excitement from critics or public. Her other achievements amount to having, after the termination of four unsuccessful marriages, a daughter of whom she won't name the father.

Why her new marriage plans come under the heading of a bombshell is that they don't encompass her constant companion, the Marquis of Milford Haven, but instead our friend from the local coffee shop.

It may be merely coincidence, but Hungarian Eva Bartok is just completing her first big British film, which will be released any time now. I understand the producers are resisting the temptation to retitle it "Indian Love Call."

HOME GARDEN

By JACK BEASTALL

Tardy Fall Frosts Call for Decision

What will the weather be this coming winter?

If we knew the answer we could decide whether to risk leaving the borderline plants in the garden and thus save ourselves some work.

Jack

Last fall, remembering previous winters, we took no chances, and some of the things we tried to store through the wet and mild months would probably have done better left in the open garden.

Our problem now is to decide what to do with the dahlias which are still rich in foliage and showing a good number of blooms.

Usually a sharp frost by late October has spoiled their appearance, but few districts have experienced a frost severe enough to leave any imprint.

The great benefit of a fall frost is that it helps us to make the decision. Once the plants are blackened we have no qualms about digging the roots and putting them into storage.

The dahlia fanciers are not troubled in this way. They dig and store the roots every fall regardless of the weather that lies ahead.

If home gardeners are going to follow their example, the top growth of the dahlias should be gradually reduced over a period of two or three weeks, or the plants dug complete with foliage and spread on the earth floor of a frost-free shed until the top growth has wilted.

Flowers should be removed in any case since they use food which would be better stored in the tubers for next year's plants.

'Up to You Now' Douks Tell Ottawa

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three leaders of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect said Tuesday it is up to the Canadian government to start negotiations with Russia for the group's proposed migration to Siberia.

They said the sect has "received the private assurances we want and we are satisfied that the USSR has accepted us." They said a telegram was also sent to Moscow asking the Russian government to advise Canada the Freedomites are acceptable.

The three leaders added: "We have turned in the forms and done everything the Canadian government asked us to—the next move is theirs."

The trio—Bill Moojelsky of Shoreacres, Joe Podovinikoff of Hilliers and Peter Elasoff, Sr., of Krestova—were interviewed in Vancouver.

Moojelsky said he asked Justice Minister Fulton last month in Ottawa to have the federal government approach Russia.

Elasoff said: "If the governments here are being honest and sincere they will approach the Russians."

The sect delivered 2,400 citizenship renunciation forms to government offices in Vancouver Friday to gain a federal-provincial offer to financial assistance in their proposed moves. But spokesmen in Ottawa and Victoria said all negotiations now await word from Russia.

Meanwhile, a new Freedomite communication is on the way to Mr. Fulton and Attorney-General Bonner asking for the release of the 60 children held in the New Denver government school because their Freedomite parents refused to send them to public school.

Seamen's Dispute Involving SIU Studied by CLC

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Labor Congress Tuesday took under advisement charges of raiding made by two of its seamen's affiliates against a third, the Seafarer's International Union.

Complaints by the National Association of Marine Engineers and the Canadian Merchant Service Guild were aired at a meeting here before Claude Jodoin, CLC president.

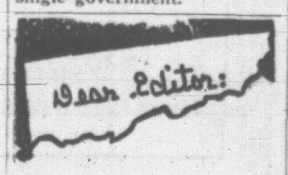

Mr. Jodoin said after the closed meeting the complaints will be processed according to the CLC constitution and a decision announced at a later meeting with the unions involved.

U.S. Rejects South Korea Withdrawal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has rejected new Red Chinese demands for the withdrawal of Allied forces from South Korea. A spokesman indicated that the U.S. feared such action might invite new Communist aggression.

The spokesman, Joseph W. Reap, also said that if the Communists sincerely wanted a Korean settlement they would agree to free elections, conducted under United Nations supervision, to reunite the divided nation under a single government.

CCF Protests CBC Ban On Sommers Case Talk

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia CCF party issued a statement Tuesday night saying it "protests most vigorously the CBC's banning of a radio broadcast by CCF MLA Tony Gargrave, dealing with the B.C. government's handling of the Sommers case."

The broadcast was scheduled to go on the air Monday night over Vancouver station CBU and a province-wide network, said the press release issued by Harold Thayer, provincial secretary of the party.

"This action was taken by CBC officials on the advice of their legal counsel in Toronto before the script was submitted for his scrutiny. Such high-handed action represents a threat to our fundamental rights to freedom of speech and the free discussion of public affairs."

Mr. Gargrave is the MLA for Mackenzie. His speech, said the CCF statement, in no way dealt with the bribery-conspiracy trial of former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers, "but with the way in which the provincial government handled the charges and their effect on the welfare of the forest industry."

8,000 OFFICE WORKERS, ENGINEERS

Chrysler Hit by Strike

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corporation's 8,000 unionized office workers and engineers walked out Tuesday to support contract demands and quickly forced shutdowns of eight plants employing 16,400 production workers.

Chrysler said the strike could spread to a full shutdown of its auto-making operations, but the United Auto Workers union, which represents strikers and production workers, moved to minimize work stoppages.

The UAW ordered white-collar pickets off lines at shift-changing times. Thus UAW members would not violate a long-standing policy against crossing picket lines of fellow unionists.

MERCHANTS AIM FOR LONGER TOURIST SEASON

'British Shopping Week' Urged

Methods of extending Victoria's tourist season from Labor Day, Sept. 1, to Thanksgiving Day are now being studied by the retail merchants' group of Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

Same Lane, proprietor of the Olde English Inn, is urging the merchants to hold a British Shopping Week immediately following Labor Day to attract U.S. tourists to Victoria by advertising British goods at preferential prices.

"This is an ideal season of the year," Mr. Lane told the retail merchants' group meeting in the Chamber building Monday night.

PLEASANT

"At a time when temperatures in Las Vegas are 'way up in the hundreds, we usually have pleasant sunny weather here and there is no reason at all why we should start shutting up shop in September."

Mr. Lane said after Labor Day Victoria's tourist trade falls by about 50 per cent. He believed this could be remedied by advertising.

"By distributing 44,000 leaflets in the United States, we increased our revenue at the Olde England Inn by about $600 last fall. Everyone in Victoria will benefit if we can keep our tourists here longer."

PUBLICITY

Mr. Lane said Recreation Minister Earle Westwood was "tremendously interested" and Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau had promised extensive publicity both for fall holidays and a British Shopping Week if the merchants agreed.

W. A. Landrum, chairman of the retail merchants' group, said Mr. Lane was to be commended on his progressive ideas for improving Victoria's trade. "Sam always seems to be a voice crying in the wilderness where Victoria is concerned, but I am sure he will get lots of support for this scheme."

Allan Leith pointed out that sport fishermen will travel thousands of miles for fishing and he thought Vancouver Island's fishing resources should be advertised in connection with a fall tourist season.

Mr. Lane: "That is a natural. We could get all the fishing resorts to tie in with us."

Late rains cut Norway's grain harvest to 106,800 tons in October, 1958, against 132,900 tons at that point the previous year.

Late Surge Wipes Out Cougar Lead

WINNIPEG — Victoria Cougars are still in third place in the Western Hockey League's Coast Division today because of the alertness of veteran Billy Mosienko.

Mosienko, former National Hockey League star with Chicago Black Hawks, pounced on a rebound and fired his second goal of the game at 8.42 of a sudden-death overtime period to give Winnipeg Warriors a 5-4 win over the Cougars.

Mosienko's first goal came in the second period when he stole the puck from Gordie Haworth and rammed a 20-foot backhand shot into the net.

ROARED BACK

The Warrior captain's game-ending shot sent 5,420 Winnipeg fans home happy after they had watched their team roar back from a 4-1 deficit to tie the game in the third period.

Red Johansen, Pete Kapusta and Gerry Brisson scored the other Winnipeg goals in less than five minutes in the third session to force overtime.

Victoria goalie Marcel Pelletier played a large part in keeping Warriors at bay early in the game, blocking 36 shots all told, several at point-blank range. Ray Mikulan in the Winnipeg net handled 23.

The game was marred by a third-period brawl in which Warriors' Don Johns and Danny Summers tangled with Wilkie and Jim Hay. All four drew major penalties and Nicholson was handed a 10-minute misconduct for leaving the Cougar bench to enter the fray.

Nicholson opened the scoring at 8:24 of the first period, tapping home Gord Haworth's goal-mouth pass. Mosienko tied it at 7.43 of the second.

THREE-GOAL LEAD

Victoria went ahead again less than three minutes later when Wilkie stabbed Carl Kaiser's rebound from a scramble.

Harris and Baliuk shot Cougars into a three-goal lead with third-period counters. Johansen skated out from the side of the net to pick the far corner and start Winnipeg's comeback at 9:33. Kapusta's sliding shot went under a sprawling Pelletier less than two minutes later, and Brisson got the equalizer when he trapped Bob Chrystal's blueline drive and backhanded the puck home from 10 feet out.

WILLIE WAS HAPPY FOR A WHILE

Jockey Willie Harmatz was happy man when he piloted Tudor Era under wire in first place in $100,000 International at Laurel, Md., Tuesday. However, foul claim of Howard Grant, aboard Sailor's Guide (right), was later allowed and Australian horse was declared winner. Ireland's Ballymoss was third behind Tudor Era, who bumped Sailor's Guide on stretch turn. (AP Wirephoto.)

Sailor's Guide Found Way To International Treasure

LAUREL, Md. (CP)—Queen Mother Elizabeth once waited nervously to find out whether Sailor's Guide had won a horse race. Much of the world wondered Tuesday who had triumphed in the $100,000 Washington, D.C., International.

Both times there was a foul involving the horse who had given the 10,000,000 sports-loving people of Australia something more to crow over. And both times Sailor's Guide was on the right side of protests.

Earlier this year, at Melbourne's Flemington Track, a foul was claimed against the Guide in the Queen Elizabeth Stakes. The Queen Mother was watching and was reported to have had the equivalent of a $40 bet on the Sailor.

FOUL DISALLOWED

She cashed it a half-hour later when the foul was disallowed.

In the International, the circumstances were reversed. The United States staked a claim for victory on the basis of Tudor Era's 3½-length margin over Sailor's Guide at the end of the mile-and-a-half grass race.

But the Sailor's jockey, Howard Grant, protested he had been bumped by Tudor Era, an English-bred owned by Mrs. Herbert Herff, of Memphis, Tenn.

There was a tense 20-minute delay while officials studied a motion picture of the first foul lodged in seven runnings of the International. They ruled in favor of Sailor's Guide.

SERIES OF TWISTS

The disqualification was the climactic turn in a series of twists woven around the race which holds a unique position in the turf sport.

The third-place finish of Ballymoss was one of them. John McShain of Philadelphia had brought him over for one last race so fellow Americans could see the most highly-prized horse out of Ireland in years.

Ballymoss had won his last four races in England and France and was valued at more than $1,000,000. But he never was in contention in the International.

Russia's first two thoroughbreds ran, but not enough. In their first appearance outside the Iron Curtain, Zaryad was left behind after six false starts and never caught up with the other nine entries from seven countries. Garnir, the Moscow derby winner, couldn't get closer than sixth.

JOY SHORT-LIVED

Australia's joy proved short-lived. Sailor's Guide isn't going home to the land which rules international amateur tennis and boasts the world record-breaking miler, Herb Elliott.

Dr. Leon Levy of Philadelphia and two others contracted to buy Sailor's Guide after the International. A. C. Dibb and his son, Keith, gave him up for a reported $50,000.

It was part of $305,000 the Dibbs gleaned from a $1,750 investment. That was all they paid for Sailor's Guide six years ago in auction sales at Sydney. He brought them $184,923 while racing in Australia, and the International first prize was $70,000.

SETTLE FOR $15,000

Mrs. Herff had to settle for $15,000 second prize. Ballymoss picked up $10,000, and his Irish countrymate, Tharp, owned by Carlton Palmer of New York, won $5,000 for fourth.

The others out of the cold cash were Germany's Orsini II in fifth place, Venezuela's Escribano in seventh, the other U.S. horse, Clem, in eighth, and Argentina's Revoque, next to last.

The biggest crowd—40,276—in Maryland's long racing history sent $2,645,834 in and out of the mutuel machines. The previous high was $2,891,239 on last Preakness day at Pimlico.

DID SAD AMBASSADOR MEAN WHAT HE SAID?

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov Tuesday glumly watched race horses from Western countries soundly defeat Russia's two prize thoroughbreds. But he said afterward he wasn't disappointed at all.

"This is a splendid example of peaceful competition," he said.

Menshikov sat in the swank Turf Club at Laurel race course to cheer the Soviet entries in the Washington International, their first race in the United States.

The usual big smile on his face slowly faded as it became apparent neither of the Soviet three-year-olds, Zaryad or Garnir, was going to cop the $70,000 first prize.

Lancien Lights Fire for Packers

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Kelowna Packers, who have played before more than 30,000 people in two exhibition games, are all even with Sweden's national hockey team today with two more games there before they fly to Moscow for a five-game series against the Russians.

A three-goal flurry in the first period provided the impetus for the Kelowna win Tuesday night, 5-2 over the Swedes, and erased a lacklustre showing when the Swedes won by the same score Sunday.

Soviet officials watched both games. The Packers play Sweden today and Thursday, and leave for Moscow Friday.

Anatoli Tarasov, Soviet hockey coach, said he wasn't impressed with the Canadians after their loss Sunday—"I expected them to do better" but Tuesday night he refrained from comment, at least for publication.

The Packers, considerably more rested than they were Sunday after their long trip from home, needed a spark Tuesday night to come from behind and they got it from the oldest player on the team, 35-year-old Jack Lancien, former New York Ranger from Regina.

As they did Sunday, the Swedes wasted no time in taking the lead. After two minutes of play, Sweden's Einar Granat beat goalie Dave Gatherum, who was kept busy in the Packer nets all night.

LANCIEN EVENS IT

But Lancien, who joined the Packers after the team was picked for the tour, evened the score a minute later. The Canadians pressed deep in Swedish territory and the offensive paid off with two more goals.

Mike Durban made it 2-1 at the 5.30 mark and Russ Kowalchuk, who scored one of the two Canadian goals Sunday, came up with what proved to be the payoff marker at 5.58. Sweden got its second goal late in the period off the stick of K. S. Hedlund.

But the Canadians were not to be denied and in the ninth minute in each of the last two periods they scored twice more. Tom Stecyk made it 4-2 and Brian Roche wrapped it up.

A surprising feature of the exhibition games here have been the big crowds. More than 17,000 turned out to watch Kelowna Sunday and better than 14,000 were in the big Olympic starium for Tuesday night's game.

IN HOSPITAL and possible victim of tuberculosis is Red Schoendienst, veteran second baseman of Milwaukee Braves. Schoendienst, 35, has been under observation since Saturday, a spokesman of National League champions said today.

Eskimos Score Easy Victory To Reach Final

By JIM PEACOCK

EDMONTON (CP) — The western football semi-final was largely a matter of too much Jackie Parker.

Against the spindly-legged Edmonton Eskimo, there is little defence this side of an artillery battery—and Saskatchewan Roughriders couldn't muster one.

The sensational play of the 26-year-old quarterback from Mississippi State moved Edmonton easily through the two-game total-points semi-final with a whopping 58-12 margin over helpless Saskatchewan.

Eskimos thrashed Riders 31-1 Tuesday in the sunshine at Clarke Stadium as they played their first afternoon game at home since joining the Western Interprovincial Football Union 10 years ago. They had trimmed Riders 27-11 three days earlier in Regina.

NINTH STRAIGHT

The victory moved Eskimos into the WIFU final for a ninth consecutive time, and they will open the best-of-three series against Winnipeg Blue Bombers in another afternoon game here Saturday.

Second game is scheduled next Wednesday night in Winnipeg and the third, if necessary, also is set for Winnipeg, Nov. 22—a week before the national Grey Cup final in Vancouver Nov. 29.

Coach Sam Lyle of Eskimos said Parker called a perfect game in the semi-final opener in Regina. He didn't have to Tuesday, but coach George Terlep of Riders paid him a high tribute:

"Eskimos weren't that good," Terlep said. "If they hadn't had Jackie Parker, we could have beat them."

PARKER SCORELESS

Parker didn't get any of Edmonton's points Tuesday, but he pitched a touchdown pass to full-back Normie Kwong and with his fantastic dipsy-doodling behind the line of scrimmage on pass plays, kept the defence off balance much of the time.

Fullback Johnny Bright crashed across the line twice for touchdowns and led the offence with 73 yards rushing, compared with Kwong's 34, and end Jim Letcavits picked up the fourth Eskimo touchdown on a 67-yard pass-and-run play with Canadian quarter Don Getty.

End Joe Mobra, taking over placement-kicking chores when Parker wound up with a sore toe that brought drilling a hole in the toenail to relieve the pain, kicked three converts and a 27-yard field goal and Letcavits, who did the punting, got a single.

Riders got their only point in the third quarter when quarterback Frank Tripucka punted from the Edmonton 40 after Kwong had fumbled.

DEFENCE HELPED

The crisp work of the Edmonton defensive unit — in which Parker had a hand late in the game despite the wide margin of victory—and inept work of the Rider offence had a good real to do with the scoring.

Two Rider fumbles and a pass interception sent Eskimos ahead 4-0 in the first quarter and 11-0 by the half, giving them a 27-point lead on the series. Another pass interception and another Rider fumble set up two more Edmonton touchdowns in the second half.

Eskimos got 21 first downs to nine by Riders; rolled up 178 yards rushing to 37 by Riders and got 208 yards passing on 13 completions in 25 attempts to 132 yards on 14 completions in 31 attempts by Riders.

Defensively, Eskimos intercepted four Rider forwards, while Riders grabbed two Eskimo passes. Saskatchewan lost the ball four times on fumbles and saw their only bright spot in Tripucka's punting. He averaged 45 yards a kick in 12 tries.

TELECASTS PUT PINCH ON BIG FOUR COFFERS

MONTREAL (CP)—Ted Workman, president of the Big Four Football League, said Tuesday that live television of playoff games in home cities the last two years "has cost the Big Four an average of 5,000 seats a game."

Workman's statement in an interview followed an announcement that agreement had been reached with the CBC for televising this year's playoff games with blackouts.

A CBC spokesman in Ottawa said it was "quite a shock" to the CBC to learn the Big Four wanted $15,000 a game and that agreement had been reached on an amount "substantially less."

"It was a shock to the Big Four also when the CBC practically demanded it get the games free," said Workman.

FOR GRID AWARD

Now It's Between Parker 'n' Shatto

TORONTO (CP)—Halfback Dick Shatto of Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four and quarterback Jackie Parker of Edmonton, Eskimos in the Western conference Tuesday were named the outstanding football players in the East and West in a poll of sports writers and sports-casters in the nine Big Four and Western Football Conference cities.

A further ballot, conducted by a distiller, will be held to name one of the two as the outstanding player in the country. The result will be announced Thursday, Nov. 27, at Vancouver, two days before the Grey Cup final.

Parker was voted the country's outstanding player in 1957 and received a plaque and $1,000. Parker, from Mississippi State, led Eskimos to Grey Cup victories over Montreal Alouettes in 1954, 1955 and 1956. Shatto, from the University of Kentucky, has played five years with Argonauts.

Voters also will decide two other awards — the Canadian player and lineman of the year. Ron Howell of Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Gordon Rowland of Winnipeg Blue Bombers were the Canadians chosen best in their leagues and Jackie Simpson of the Alouettes and Don Luzzi of Calgary Stampeders were the linemen chosen in preliminary ballots.

'It Was Junk' Says Terlep

EDMONTON (CP)—George Terlep's post-game critique: "That wasn't good football—it was junk."

The Saskatchewan Roughrider coach stood alone in a room full of quiet, dejected players and gave reporters his judgment on Riders' 31-1 thrashing by Edmonton Eskimos in the second game of the total-point Western conference semi-final.

"Eskimos weren't that good," he said. "If they hadn't had Jackie Parker, we could have beat them. They won with a lot of luck."

Terlep, conceding that Riders were weak offensively, especially on pass-receiving, said of the Eskimos:

"They had players catching passes on their back (end Jim Letcavits) and even on their knees (fullback Normie Kwong). They had guys catching passes who weren't in the pass pattern at all.

"If they had planned their game that way, it would have been terrific football. But they didn't. It wasn't good football."

The Rider coach didn't hesitate when asked his prediction for the outcome of the best-of-three Western final series between Eskimos and Winnipeg Blue Bombers, opening in Edmonton Saturday.

"I'd have to pick the Bombers to win. I think they're the better club."

In the Eskimo dressing room, coach Sam Lyle said both teams played better defensively than in Regina last Saturday, when Eskimos took the opening game 27-11.

NO INJURY PROBLEM

Lyle would make no prejudgment of the series with Winnipeg.

"They (Bombers) have the best running attack in this league, or at least one of the best. And they've shown us they can pass. That means a double defensive problem—but of course a team has that problem in every game."

The team came out of the game without any serious injuries. Halfback Don Flynn left in the last quarter with an injured arm but Lyle said later "It's nothing serious and Don doesn't care—he'll play anyway."

Mayer Balks; Doesn't Want To Get Stuck

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Gil Mayer, Hershey Bears goalie, said Tuesday: "I will not report to Edmonton no matter what happens."

Business Manager Baz Bastien had ordered Mayer to the Western Hockey League club for 10 days to two weeks to fill in for the injured Dennis Riggin who suffered an eye injury.

Mayer, who has allowed 14 goals in the 11 games he has shared the nets with goalie Bob Perreault, said, "If I was playing bad hockey I wouldn't care."

He said if he left the second-place American League club to go to Edmonton he might get "stuck there for the rest of the season."

St. FX Romps To East Final

ANTIGONISH, N.S. (CP)—St. Francis Xavier University scored a touchdown the first time it had the ball Tuesday and went on to swamp Saint John, N.B., Wanderers 71-0, to win the Maritime intermediate football title.

St. FX, unbeaten winners of the Nova Scotia football league, led 26-0 at the end of the first quarter and scored almost at will after that.

St. FX now advances against Lakeshore Alouettes of Montreal in the eastern Canada intermediate final. The game will be played in Montreal either Saturday or Sunday.

Tourists Win In Final Over

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — Fine bowling by spinner Tony Lock, who finished with six for 74, helped the MCC touring English cricket team gain an exciting victory by 87 runs in the last over of the match against Victoria here Tuesday.

The final scores: MCC 396 and 149 for three declared; Victoria 252 and 206.

Stampeders Climb; Spoil Totem Start

CALGARY (CP) — Scoring two unanswered goals in the third period, Calgary Stampeders Tuesday night spoiled Seattle's start of a prairie tour by defeating Totems 3-1 in a Western Hockey League game before 4,622 fans.

The victory boosted Stampeders into second place in the Prairie Division standing, one point behind Edmonton Flyers.

After a scoreless opening period, the teams split single goals in the second and Stampeders broke it up with their two unanswered goals in the third.

The Blair brothers, Chuck and Dusty, and Sid Finney were the Calgary marksmen, while Don Chiupka scored the Seattle goal. Totems were without Val Fonteyne, left at home with a bad leg bruise.

Totems, who served five of the eight penalties called, retained their healthy seven-point lead in the league's Coast Division.

STAYS WITH ARGOS — PLANS TALENT HUNT

Hamp Gets Third Chance

TORONTO (CP) — Rock-jawed, crewcut J. Hampton Pool is not a man who gives up easily.

He proved that Tuesday by agreeing to return in 1959 as coach of Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Football League. Managing Director Lew Hayman said the Argo executive made the invitation unanimous.

Pool's future was obscure until Hayman's announcement.

Hamp came here in 1957 from the National Football League Los Angeles Rams at a time when Toronto fortunes were sagging. They still are.

Argos finished last in 1957 and this year. But each year there was an 11th-hour surge good for three victories before the Toronto machine stripped its gears and ground to a halt.

Each year the triple win gave great promise for the following year. Each year Toronto football fans talked excitedly of a national pro football title and the Grey Cup that goes with it.

Each year the Argos finished with 4-10 won-lost records. They haven't been in the Big Four playoffs since 1955.

Bruins Cash In On Hawks' Sin

By Canadian Press

Boston Bruins capitalized on penalties to take over first place in the National Hockey League Tuesday night.

Bruins, who had muffed two weekend chances to move into the top spot, blasted the third-place Chicago Black Hawks 8-4 and took a one-point edge on the deposed Montreal Canadiens.

The situation may not last long, however. Canadiens move into Toronto to meet the Maple Leafs in the only NHL action slated tonight.

BRUINS OUTSHOT

Statistics on Tuesday night's game in Chicago make the Bruin win look like a fluke. They scored three of their goals while the Hawks were short-handed and were outshot 32-17. But from rinkside they definitely looked like the sharper club.

Probably the toughest penalty from Chicago's standpoint was one which didn't figure in the scoring. Tod Sloan, the former Leaf who has become one of Hawks' top guns this season, was tossed out of the game on a match misconduct after only four minutes of play.

Referee Matt Pavelich put the finger on Sloan when the winger protested his action in overruling a goal judge on a goal by Bruins' Jerry Toppazzini. At one point the argument became so heated that Sloan poked referee Pavelich behind the ear with his stick.

Sloan wasn't the only one riled by the incident. Chicago fans, many of whom claimed Toppazzini's shot missed the net, almost rioted in the stands.

The disputed goal was Toppazzini's 10th this season and puts him on top of the NHL goal-getters. But Hawks' Eddie Litzenberger did even better than that, scoring two to become the top scorer in the league, with a total of six goals and 12 assists.

FACES REDSKINS . . . IN WESTERN FINAL

Red-Thatched White Oak Bay's Handyman

By ERNIE FEDORUK

A paint company wouldn't like to brag about it if this were one of their products, but Oak Bay's Red White can run even if it's not raining.

And if it does rain, so what? John (Red) White can run. He also can catch passes, block and turn in a workmanlike performance on defence.

The 28-year-old halfback sounds like a color scheme, but the truth of the matter is that Red White is long overdue for gridiron recognition. Because he always gives that "added extra" when playing, Oak Bay Drakes have reached the Western Canada intermediate football final for a fourth straight year without undue exertion.

SATURDAY MEETING

Drakes are the hosts Saturday. Fort William Redskins are the visitors and the entertainment will be served up on Royal Athletic Park's turf.

Oak Bay, thanks to a sparkling performance by White and fullback Ken Higgs, reached the final Sunday by trouncing North Vancouver Wildcats, 42-0. Higgs and White each scored two touchdowns.

White seems to be one of those athletes who does his job and then is content to sit back and let others draw the praises.

His attitude is best described by playing-coach Jack Patrick who, a few weeks ago, was considerably irked because the stocky Mr. White was not voted the "most gentlemanly player" in the Victoria league.

NEVER SAYS BOO

"Red doesn't say 'boo' from one week to the next. He does his job thoroughly, yet you never know he's around," said Patrick.

The five-foot nine-inch 190-pound "handyman" of Oak Bay's backfield is now playing his 10th year in intermediate company. He started with the old Goblins and then joined the Whitneys, who later changed their name to Drakes.

Members of the Oak Bay team can't recall White losing yards in a running play from scrimmage this year. He is essentially used on the counter (reverse) play and has averaged almost 11 yards per carry.

He won't be hard to pick out Saturday . . . he's the White with the red thatch.

HORTON SMITH NAMED TO GOLF HALL OF FAME

CLEARWATER, Fla. (PA)—Dow Finsterwald received the U.S. professional golfer-of-the-year award Tuesday night and Horton Smith was inducted into the PGA hall of fame.

The two were honored at a dinner, a part of the annual PGA meeting.

Smith, 50, pro at the Detroit Golf Club since 1946, is a two-time Masters' tournament champion and a former PGA president.

Finsterwald won the 1958 PGA championship. He was third leading money winner of the pro tour last year, picking up more than $38,000.

Victory Over Pils Improves Glitter

Victoria and District Football League All-Stars are confidently looking around today for new foes to conquer.

All-Stars added a bit of glitter to their reputation at Royal Athletic Park Tuesday as they slithered through the mud to an impressive, 5-2 triumph over Vancouver Pilseners.

Despite sloppy conditions, the Victoria forwards turned in a fine passing performance and it took some alert goaling by Pils' Pat Garrity to hold the Stars to five goals.

However, the rugged Pilseners also had their moments and Ladysmith's Dick Carmichael, guarding the Victoria nets, came up with a number of fine stops.

SAVES PENALTY

One of Carmichael's best stops was on a penalty attempt by Bob Swindon that could have boosted the visitors into an early lead.

Volker Stoldt, a standout at centre half, missed a penalty try for Victoria early in the second canto, but Gogi Stewart made no mistake from the spot on another penalty to make it 3-0.

Taflies by Henry Vanderhorst and Antol Major, the latter on a penalty, were sandwiched between goals by Vancouver's Colin Fleming and Bill Chisholm as the clubs divided four goals in the final 20 minutes.

LEAGUE GAMES

Victoria clubs will resume league competition Saturday, when Gorge Hotel tackles pace-setting Canadian Scottish at Heywood Avenue.

Four games are carded Sunday. Esquimalt and Brodies Bakery meet at Bullen Park, Heaneys tackle Butler Brothers at Central Park, Tillicums host Ladysmith at Topaz Avenue and Kickers play at Nanaimo.

HEART ATTACK FATAL

Billy Was Member Of Talented Trio

OTTAWA (CP) — Death by heart attack has claimed Billy Boucher, member of one of the game's most brilliant lines and of a talented hockey family.

Boucher, a star performer in the 20s, died Monday night on his 59th birthday. He was en route to hospital after a sudden seizure at the end of a normal day's work with the defence production department.

He helped Montreal Canadiens win the Stanley Cup in 1924, playing right wing for the late great Howie Morenz, at centre, and Aurel Joliat, still resident in Ottawa. Boucher was leading playoff scorer against Vancouver and Calgary and the trio still draws nominations for one of the most talented lines ever assembled.

FOUR HOCKEY BROTHERS

In 1927, he was a member of the Boston team losing to Ottawa Senators for the Stanley Cup. He was one of four Boucher brothers all active in big-time professional hockey of the period.

George (Buck) Boucher was with Ottawa and Frank with Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League. Bobby also played with the Canadiens in 1924 but died young of tuberculosis.

An uncle, also named Frank, coached the 1948 Canadian Olympic hockey team to victory.

Billy Boucher joined Montreal in 1921 and left at the end of the 1925-26 season to go to Boston. He played his last season for the defunct New York Americans.

Muddy Track Was Just Fine

By DOUG PEDEN

It's a cinch Victoria's representative rugby side will be hoping for another muddy track when the annual intercity series for the McKechnie Cup gets under way.

The Victorians, who open their round-robin cup battles against Vancouver Reps at Macdonald Park on Jan. 3, took to the squishy Macdonald pitch like ducks to water Tuesday and handed the Vancouverites an 11-0 thumping in an exhibition match.

Flashing some exceptional ball-handling despite the sloppy going, Victoria was full value for the win.

STUBBORN DEFENCE

The local Reps opened on the attack and were seldom pushed out of Vancouver territory through the first half. The steady pressure finally broke the visitors' stubborn defence and the Victorians wrapped up all their scoring in the last 20 minutes before the intermission.

Vancouver owned a larger share of the second-half play but was still forced to yield a territorial advantage to their hustling rivals, who missed a couple of fine opportunities to add to their total.

Although outweighed, Victoria forwards, with Sam Patterson doing a stalwart job of hooking, got the ball in most of the set scrums and held their own in the loose.

But it was in backfield play where the Mainlanders were soundly outplayed. Victoria, which may have its best-balanced and best-conditioned side in several seasons, moved the ball well and got away on several dangerous runs.

Vancouver backfielders, on the other hand, appeared to be geared to dry conditions. They got their signals crossed on several occasions and often needed their forwards to bail them out of trouble.

Fullback Rob Wilson, who turned in a steady performance all the way, booted a 27-yard penalty goal to get Victoria out in front.

Then standoff Ray Calton cut in at midfield for a 35-yard dash and Frank Gower, the standout player on the field, moved in from his wing position to take a pass and sprint 20 yards for a try, which Wilson converted.

Robin Birley ended the scoring when he caught Vancouver defenders napping on a 25-yard dash down the sideline.

Hockey in Spotlight

The Victoria College sportlight swings to the women's grass hockey team this week, with the annual Bridgman Cup series slated for Saturday at Oak Bay High School.

The College women, who reached the finals for the first time last year, will be seeking their first championship against a number of strong teams.

Expected to compete are Queen Margaret's School in Duncan, St. Margaret's, Norfolk House, defending-champion Oak Bay High, Victoria High, Esquimalt High, Mount Douglas High and Victoria Ladies.

Each school will be allowed only one representative team. In former years, the College has entered two squads.

Teams are expected to be split into two sections and each club will play all other teams in its section. The squad with the most points in each section will qualify for the final game, at approximately 1.30 p.m. First games will commence at 10.15 a.m.

Coach Maureen Bray has announced the College lineup.

In goal will be Val Peden, while Mary Goward and Sally Furneaux will be at the fullback positions.

Halfbacks will be Sharon Whittaker, Val Lomas and Diana Lawrence.

Up front will be Heather Barnes, Alice Genge, Jo-ann Beech, Hilliary Hale, Florence Goward and Maxine McLure.

In last week's grass hockey action, College downed Vic High, 5-1, on Wednesday, then bowed to St. Margaret's by the same score the following day.

Miss Hale, who scored the lone College goal on Thursday, tallied three times Wednesday. Miss Goward and Miss Genge completed the College scoring.

The Vikings, senior "A" men's basketball squad, will also be in action Saturday.

At 8.30 p.m. at Central Junior High School, the Vikings will go out after their first win of the season against Cloverdale Hillside Dairies, the third straight Vancouver team that they have faced.

Still with basketball, but on the distaff side this time, Wayne King sent his Vikettes into action for the first time this season on Monday at Lansdowne Junior High School.

And, while the game was more of a practice session than anything else, the College squad did defeat the Wally Yeamans-coached senior "A" ladies, 25-20.

Top scorer for the Vikettes was Val Peden, who tossed in eight points. Carol Hunter scored seven points.

Coach King is faced with one problem, however—a preponderance of guards. Judy Cornwall, Doreen Johnston, Norma DiVijo, Alice Genge, Val Lomas, Miss Hunter and Nelly Bing are all registered as guards. Forwards are Julie Beecroft, Miss Peden, Maxine McLure, Sharon Day, Charney Manhas and Janet Dugan.

The chess tournament is also under way, with either Dave Dawson, Tony Dare or Mike Horn expected to cop the championship.

TRAILMAKER

Unquestionably Canada's Finest Winter Tire

Part of the Trailmaker's fine performance is due to its large traction area. The tread is 1½" wider than ordinary winter tires.

But traction is more than area.

In snow or slush or mud, your tires need a deep tread to bite in and push your car. The Trailmaker tread is almost 20% deeper.

The tread is "tractionized." Thousands of small gripping surfaces give stability to your car on slick, slippery roads.

Further traction comes from kerfing, the pattern of angled cuts throughout the tread design, that puts more gripping surface on the road. The Trailmaker's curved tread bars scoop a big, firm grip in snow and slush.

Each new Trailmaker has up to six pounds more rubber available on either a Nylon or Rayon carcass construction. This gives you miles of extra wear. Trailmaker tires will last you for winters to come.

There's no need, then, to wait until the first snowfall to invest in the security of a set of B.F.Goodrich Trailmaker tires. Give yourself and your family the happy assurance of all-winter safety. Enjoy the all-weather performance of B.F.Goodrich Trailmaker Tires for miles and miles of happy mileage —that's Smileage!

2-Inch Rain Torrent Causes Slight Floods

MONTE ROBERTS

An inquest into Greater Victoria's ninth traffic fatality this year will be held at 10 a.m. Friday, Coroner Dr. E. C. Hart said today.

A 65-year-old pedestrian, Mrs. Evelyn Maud Lundquist, 1019 Bank, died in Jubilee Hospital four hours after she was in collision with a car at Oak Bay and Bank at 6.45 p.m. Monday.

The woman suffered multiple fractures of both legs and a hip, right wrist; possible skull fracture; shock and internal injuries.

Police said the woman was unconscious when admitted to hospital.

Driver of the car was identified as Wallace J. Connorton, 1970 Neil, who police said was driving west on Oak Bay as Mrs. Lundquist was crossing Oak Bay from south to north at Bank.

SHOES SCATTERED

Force of the impact scattered shoes and pieces of costume jewellery worn by the victim around the rain-soaked scene of the accident.

It was reported to police Mrs. Lundquist's body was carried about 40 feet by the auto before it rolled to the pavement and the car stopped.

There have been six traffic deaths in Victoria, two in Saanich and one in Central Saanich since January.

The victim was the widow of the late John Julius Lundquist and is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Vernon Tucker (Hulda), Victoria, and Mrs. Robert Frazer (Minnie), Youbou; a son Lloyd Earl Lundquist, also of Victoria.

There are 13 grandchildren, five great-grandchildren; two sisters Mrs. Olive Nolte, Minneapolis, Minn., Mrs. George Russenholt, Minitonas, Man.; three brothers, Walter McCullough, Victoria; Ken McCullough, Las Vegas, Nev.; Cedric McCullough, Sun Valley, Calif.

Mrs. Lundquist was a member of Rebecca Lodge.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by McCall's, where the inquest is to be held Friday.

The greatest legal blow ever struck on behalf of the emancipation of man was struck (striked? stricken? strucked? struckened?) in Germany just a few days ago.

So far, this great blow has gone almost unrecorded in the public prints, so let us rectify this immediately.

The legal blow to which I refer was an official decision on the part of the state labor court of Hamm, West Germany.

The court ruled that "men are not capable to deal with household work."

Ah, what a glorious ring there is to that resounding phrase!

Savor every clarion-clear syllable:

"Men are not capable to deal with household work!"

We have the Germans to thank for so many scientific developments . . . and now we must show our gratitude for this the greatest legal decision of all time.

"Men are not capable to deal with household work!"

We can hope this decision will be accepted as a legal precedent in every court in the world.

More important—but less likely—we can hope it will be accepted as truth in every household of the world.

For too many years, women have cunningly contrived to prevent the emancipation of man.

Women have gone about spreading the base canard that men are better cooks than women, thus forcing men to feed their own egos by providing cooked food for their families.

How many husbands are there who, while toiling amidst the steam and smoke of a Sunday dinner shriveling in the sacrifical altar of the kitchen oven, have wished they never heard of men being better cooks than women?

Women also are very clever at giving the impression they are frail, fragile creatures who couldn't possibly reach the top pane in the living room window to remove the grime.

Only men, women say with a flattering flutter of lashes above downcast eyes, are capable of such a herculean task.

Scrubbing of floors, women say, is much too hard a task for poor little old us, and only strong, husky, great big wonderful men are able to do it with success.

The list of tasks foisted upon men by women is long, but all have this in common:

Men have accepted them because of the subtle, clever way women have appealed to men's vanity.

Now, at last, men have a way out.

They can plead the precedent of the German court's decision:

"Men are not capable to deal with household work."

And, while women are cooking dinner, men can habeas corpus down at the corner pub until the food is ready.

(Not COOKED the way a man would do it, mind you, but ready.)

AT COURT MARTIAL

29 Engine Movements Detailed

The captain of HMCS Beacon Hill faced a general court martial at HMCS Naden today, with the bulk of early evidence dealing with orders from bridge to engine room on Aug. 23, when the frigate went aground in Vancouver harbor.

Charged with "negligently performing a military duty" and "hazarding one of Her Majesty's Canadian Ships" is Lt.-Cmdr. Paul F. Wilson, Beacon Hill's commanding officer.

Lt.-Cmdr. Wilson pleaded not guilty to both charges.

He is specifically charged that he navigated Beacon Hill from her berth without adequate preparation and due regard to conditions.

The frigate went aground when backing away from CPR Shed Five, near Pier D which burned down many years ago.

29 MOVEMENTS

Lt. (E) John J. Tanner, engineer officer of the ship, testified that 29 engine movements were ordered in a period of 11 minutes, between 10 and 10.15 a.m. Aug. 23.

In answering questions from the prosecutor, Cmdr. D. G. Padmore, Lt. Tanner said 10 of these orders came at intervals of 30 seconds or less, and eight of them at intervals of eight seconds or less.

SCALE CHARTS

The prosecution entered a series of exhibits including scale charts of Vancouver harbor, hull models of Beacon Hill and Ontario, drawn to the same scale, and the supplementary rough register list from the Beacon Hill engine room.

The latter, a log kept of all orders received in the engine room, was attested to by LS D. W. Purdy, engineer officer's writer.

It recorded the 29 separate orders, exclusive of those dealing with revolutions, which were later confirmed by Lt. Tanner.

President of the five-man court martial board is Capt. D. W. Groos. Defence officer for Lt.-Cmdr. Wilson is Cmdr. Ray Phillips.

Heaviest Deluge In 12 Years

Victoria Tuesday received its heaviest deluge of rain of the year, but little damage was caused by flooding in the city and three municipalities.

Within a period of 24 hours ending at 4 a.m. today, a total of 2.12 inches of rain fell, the highest precipitation since Dec. 10, 1946, when 5.57 inches of rain caused widespread floods in the Greater Victoria area.

WORK CREWS BUSY

Throughout the day work crews were kept busy in the city, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt clearing plugged storm sewer drains.

"There was the odd house where minor flooding occurred due to storm sewer extensions being a little plugged but nothing serious occurred," said city engineer J. C. Garnett.

He added that the extensive sewer clearing programs in the past two years have "put our sewers into very good condition for handling heavy rains."

SHOWERS FORECAST

The picture was similar in Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

Saanich engineer Neville Life said a few basements were flooded when drains became plugged with leaves and debris.

"Actually I was surprised at the small number of flood calls we received Tuesday," he said.

Plaque Unveiled To Honor Indian War Dead

A memorial bronze plaque honoring B.C. Indians who served in the First and Second World Wars was unveiled at the base of the World's Tallest Totem Pole in Beacon Hill Park on Remembrance Day.

Lt.-Col. G. Howland represented the B.C. Indian Arts and Welfare Society, which donated the plaque.

Caroline Charles placed a wreath on behalf of the Songhees Indian Reserve, which was also represented by war veteran Frank George.

The World's Tallest Totem Pole was promoted by The Victoria Times in 1956 when thousands of shares were sold to people all over the world. The plaque is screwed into the base of the pole.

Tax Problem Closing Vic West Hall

Victoria West Community Centre will dissolve Dec. 31 and discontinue use of the city-owned community hall at Catherine and Edward.

C. F. Banfield, president of the centre, wrote city council today that the organization is unable to stay in existence due to financial difficulties.

Its annual expenses total $712, including the "iniquitous provincial school tax levied on all public buildings," he said. Total income is $49 a year.

SMOKE CURLED AND SPARKS FLEW from the mess of wood and wires left when a car snapped off a power pole near Oak Bay Junction early Tuesday. There was no serious injury.

Black-Out Caused by Car Crash

Two youngsters were hurt superficially and a neighborhood plunged into darkness at 1.05 a.m. Tuesday as an out-of-control car crashed into a power pole and crumpled it to the ground with two transformers in a tangle of hot wires near Oak Bay Junction.

The injured were Judy Knowles, 16, of 2491 Trent and Robert Cuthbert, 16, of 4462 Wilkinson, who were discharged from Jubilee Hospital after treatment for head cuts and bruises.

The car in which they were riding was driven by James L. Etter, 16, of 4819 Townsend, police said.

Police described the car's path as east on Fort, then onto the south curb before coming into collision with a pole about 100 feet east of Uneva. It stopped on the opposite side of Fort.

The pole was snapped off at its base and the front of the care was heavily caved in.

Electrical service in the Oak Bay Junction-Fort-Rockland area was interrupted nearly an hour as wires lay crackling and sparking in the rain.

Cold Offices Soon For Civil Service?

British Columbia's 11,800 civil servants soon may be asked to work in cold offices to back up a possible strike by the men whose job it is to keep government buildings warm.

That was the situation envisaged by a civil service spokesman today after it was disclosed 100 stationary engineers working for the B.C. government have called a meeting tonight in Vancouver to discuss taking a strike vote in support of a 9 per cent pay boost.

The spokesman, who requested anonymity, said if the engineers held a strike vote and it resulted in a walk off the job, he "imagined" civil servants working in buildings heated by the engineers would be asked to continue working.

"I do not think the engineers would prevent government employees from going to their offices," he added, but you understand the whole thing is pure speculation at the moment."

LETTER RECEIVED

The move follows the receipt of a letter from Works Minister W. N. Chant which, said an official of the B.C. Government Employees' Association, "promised us nothing."

The association earlier agreed to conduct a strike vote but withheld doing so pending further communication with Mr. Chant.

"But Mr. Chant's letter today," said the spokesman, "leaves the engineers no alternative but to consider a strike vote."

Decision on whether or not to take the vote will be known tonight.

Involved are engineers working in the Parliament Buildings, court houses, Essondale, government hospitals, sanitariums and other government buildings throughout the province. Engineers' job is to stoke furnaces and do maintenance work.

Their present pay ranges from $265 a month to start up to $400. They consider another 9 per cent will bring their rates closer to those paid by private industry.

In his letter today, Mr. Chant said he hoped the engineers would "realize the importance" of continuing to keep government buildings warm "at this time of year."

Burglars Fail In Two Tries

Two fruitless burglaries were reported to city police Armistice Day, one in which thieves pried the bottom from an old safe to open it and find nothing but papers.

Victoria Unity Produce, 2111 Government, reported its safe tipped to one side and after the bottom was forced a hole was chopped through.

It was believed entry to premises was by way of a rear ventilating window.

At the other break-in, juveniles were suspected. Crowe Gonnason lumber mill on Government was entered but nothing appeared disturbed when premises were checked at 1.40 p.m. At 4.10 p.m. it was discovered an attempt to start a fire had been made when a burning rag was left on a floor of the shut-down mill.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A date was due to be set this afternoon for a meeting between provincial conciliation officer Reginald Clements and representatives of 2,600 B.C. shipyard workers.

The conciliator will meet with officials of the province's four major shipyards next week.

The unions are demanding 12½ per cent pay boost, exclusion of company laws from future contracts and certain vacation changes. They recently rejected a 6 per cent wage hike recommendation, accepted by the yards.

Bodyguards Armed as Letters Threaten Life

By NORMAN BARRYMAINE
(Copyright By Peter Davies Ltd.)

CHAPTER 14

For the rest of the spring and summer, Townsend busied himself with his office duties, his riding and racing. He now felt confident that his long period of waiting would have a happy ending.

In the summer, there were anonymous letters, threatening Peter's life. They were sent to the Belgian Minister of War. The Belgian police believed that the letters had a political origin. He was immediately given an armed bodyguard by the Belgian military security department.

By the middle of August, editors in Fleet Street and elsewhere throughout the world were beginning to prepare their readers for Sunday, August 21—the day that Princess Margaret would celebrate her 25th birthday. The signficance of the day was that at 25 the Princess would no longer have to seek her sister's permission to marry.

But everybody seemed to ignore the fact that though free at 25, Margaret, as an heir to the throne, still had to reckon with objections from Parliament, where the Bishops and the High Anglican peers in the House of Lords and the powerful nonconformist backbenchers in the House of Commons could make trouble. The question was: Could Margaret trade her right to succession to the throne for marriage with the man of her choice?

Tabloid Headlines

The lurid tabloids were headlining August 21 as the day "she can marry whom she pleases."

All that Buckingham Palace would say about the Princess' birthday was that there would be a quiet royal family picnic beside Scotland's granite, ivy-covered, many-turreted Balmoral Castle.

Of course what the reporters roaming the Deeside moors hoped was that Peter Townsend would make a dramatic appearance at the Castle.

Early in September, Townsend flew to London for the European Air Attache's conference at the Air Ministry and the Farnborough Air Show. This time he did not see Princess Margaret who was still at Balmoral. But there must have been a good many telephone conversations, the couple making arrangements for their meeting later in October when Peter was to take leave.

Eden Visits Queen

On Saturday, Oct. 1, the Prime Minister, now Sir Anthony Eden, flew north with Lady Eden to be guests of the Queen for the weekend at Balmoral. The visit of Sir Anthony to Balmoral was important. The Queen now knew that her sister had definitely decided to marry Townsend.

The Queen discussed the problem on Saturday evening alone with Sir Anthony before dinner and after dinner the Prime Minister talked with Princess Margaret. Sir Anthony made the position of his Cabinet quite clear.

It was correct that under the Royal Marriages Act, Princess Margaret, now 25, merely had to give notice in writing to the Privy Council of her intention to marry Group Captain Townsend and if Parliament did not object within one year, the wedding could take place.

But if the Princess wished to retain her royal status, then the marriage would be opposed by the Government.

Drastic Conditions

If the Princess was to marry Group Captain Townsend, said Sir Anthony, it would be necessary to ask Parliament to pass a bill, the terms of which would:

Deprive Princess Margaret and her issue of all rights of succession to the throne.

Deprive her of her right to function as a Councellor of State, which she with others of the royal family, exercise when the soverign is incapacitated or during a long absence from the country.

Deprive her of the 6,000 pounds which she recieves under the Civil List, and 15,000 pounds a year which she would recieve on marriage.

Nor did the Prime Minister think it practical that Princess Margaret and her husband should live in England for a time after their marriage. He did not suggest, however, that the couple should be permanently exiled, as has virtually happened in the case of the Windsors.

Status Threatened

From political sources at the time I was informed that this was not all Sir Anthony had to say to both the Queen and the Princess. Whichever course were chosen, he felt it his duty to state that some irreparable damage would be done to the standing of royalty. In this he had the full support of the Marquess of Salisburry, the Lord President of the Council, and the Leader of the House of Lords.

Further, Lord Salisbury had hinted that if the Princess decided she wished to marry Group Captain Townsend and a Bill of Renunciation (as it was likely to be called) were necessary, then he might feel compelled to resign from the Government.

Salisbury Firm

If he did not resign, he, as Leader of the House of Lords, would be responsible for the passage of the bill through that House. Lord Salisbury, as a High Anglican, felt that if Parliament passed such a bill it would be condoning action which the Queen, as head of the Established Church could not approve, and which the Church itself could not accept. This argument was consistent with Salisbusy's high principles—with which many persons find themselves in full sympathy.

This news must have been a shock to both the Queen and the Princess. Century after century, Lord Salisbury's family, the Cecils, have served their King and their country. It was to Salisbury that the Queen turned for advice when she had to choose between Mr. Macmillan and Mr. Butler to form a government after Eden's resignation following the Suez crisis.

By birth and marriage, Lord Salisbury is related to half the noble families in Britain. It is said that "a Cecil never smiles except when another Cecil enters the room."

Taken Seriously

So it is not surprising if on that Sunday morning after learning of Lord Salisbury's opposition, there was a serious expression on Margaret's face as she drove with the rest of the royal family to Crathie Church for morning service.

Yet once Princess Margaret got over her initial shock at the combined attitude of Eden and Salisbury, she showed even more determination than ever to marry Townsend. The Princess is a person of great courage. Today her husband would be Peter Townsend but for one factor which the Princess, as she walked the Deeside hills in those autumn days of 1955, did not visualize.

On Wednesday, Oct. 12, 1955, the gayest Princess Margaret that Scotland had seen all the summer stepped from her car at Aberdeen station. With the Princess were Princess Alexandra, Lady Elizabeth Cavendish, and Lady Rose Baring.

Across the Channel, Group Captain Townsend was leaving Brussels.

On the flight across the Channel he sat with the pilot. To reporters as he disembarked all he would say was: 'I shall stay here three or four weeks. I know nothing about any announcement."

From Lydd he drove straight to the London flat of the Marquess of Abergavenny in Lowndes Square off Knightsbridge. Friends of the royal family had been alerted, as well as personal friends of Princess Margaret, to provide the couple with hospitality while they reached their difficult final decision.

World Looked Rosy

But at that moment there was not much doubt about the answer. Townsend had a confident smile when he arrived at Lowndes Square. The next morning the Princess looked wonderfully happy as she left Euston Station and drove to Clarence House.

This, however was only the beginning of 19 days of tension—19 days of near-crisis. What had begun as a simple and sentimental story of a princess in love was to become a crisis that deeply involved institutions close to the heart of every Englishman: the Crown and the Established Church.

In the beginning it seemed to almost everyone that Margaret, the nation's royal darling, should be allowed to marry the man she loved. It did not seem to matter that her choice, the airman who had been her father's Equerry, was a commoner; it mattered only a little that at 41 he was 16 years older than she; it would matter only to some that he was a divorced man with two sons.

Everywhere Townsend went on that pleasant, crisp Thursday, Oct. 13, he was treated as a celebrity.

That evening he drove straight to Clarence House, parking his car in Ambassadors Court. He walked across to a small door marked "Household Officers."

At a touch of the bell the door was opened by a young man in a dark suit. For a moment they chatted and the door closed.

The Queen Mother was not present at this meeting. She was against the proposed marriage and she used the argument with her daughter that her father, the late King, would have opposed such a marriage.

It was painful to the Queen Mother to take this attitude. She had always been fond of Townsend and she knew her late husband's feelings toward the young Equerry. But she also knew where her daughter's duty lay. She was more rigid in her attitude than the Queen.

False Teeth Often Have a Certain Odor!

Soak your plates in Polident daily to avoid "Denture Breath"

Polident is the specially designed cleanser that keeps false teeth — and breath — clean and fresh always. Follow these simple rules.

1. Never use a brush on them! Your dental plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting ridges so they get loose.

2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath."

3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only...Polident! Polident is the denture cleanser recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soapy plates that can slip and break. Polident gets where a brush can't reach. Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. Get the world's largest selling denture cleanser, Polident, at your drug counter.

31 AIRLINER HOSTAGES FREED BY CUBA REBELS

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—After reporting the release of 31 persons from captured airliners, the Cuban rebels held up today the return of army prisoners until the government explains an alleged violation of a rebel cease-fire.

Rebel Chief Fidel Castro announced Tuesday they handed over to Red Cross 25 passengers and six crew members of two Cubana Airlines DC-3s.

WESTERN NATIONS must learn to put up with some infringements of liberty and accept the opinion and counsel of others, including Communists, former British prime minister Earl Attlee said in a speech at Cincinnati Tuesday night. He urged that the veto power be pulled out of the United Nations.

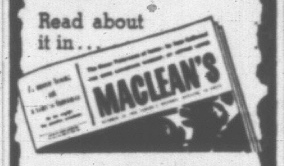

In his major report on Canada's defense, Blair Fraser warns

We're sitting ducks for a sub attack

We've concentrated all our efforts on air defense, but what if attack should come from under the sea? Modern subs, equipped with intermediate-range atomic missiles, could destroy any coastal city in North America from 1500 miles out. In the St. Lawrence estuary, where Hitler's submarines once roamed, they could devastate all of industrial Ontario. But is there time to reconsider our defense strategy?

'DYING ACT OF CENTURY SAM'

Shop Early Plea By City Stores

Victoria merchants would like the public to do most of its Christmas shopping during the last two weeks in November and the first two weeks in December.

Ways of encouraging them to do this were discussed at a meeting of the retail merchants group of Victoria Chamber of Commerce Monday night.

Sam Lane proposed that the message "Shop Early" could be proclaimed as "the dying act of Century Sam."

'WISE OLD OWL'

W. A. Laudrum, chairman, favored the use of a "wise old owl" as an advertising symbol for early shopping.

"If we could get people to shop during the last two weeks of November and the first two weeks of December it would take a tremendous load off the second part of December," he said.

Courtney Haddock thought it would be necessary to offer some kind of inducement to people to shop early since the natural tendency is to leave it till late unless shoppers have plenty of funds all the year round.

Gordon Jennings said: "It should be a case of 'This is what we'll do for you if you'll shop early.'"

TOYLANDS OPEN

Mr. Laudrum: "Getting people to shop early is a two-fold problem. If the shopper leaves it too late she will complain of poor service and of broken stocks . . . The Toylands are a good example of how people can be encouraged to shop early. They have been open a week already."

Cliff Rutledge was appointed chairman of a committee to study new and novel methods of Christmas decoration for the 1959 season.

Mr. Laudrum said whole streets in United States cities are now lined with sprayed Christmas trees. He believes Victoria should keep up with modern trends in Christmas decoration.

Other merchants were opposed to modernizing Victoria.

"Holly is particularly attractive to United States visitors," said Mr. Jennings. "It belongs here and in the past it has been used to give our holly growers a boost."

4,000 IN RETAIL

During discussion of Christmas store closing hours, Mr. Haddock pointed out that between 4,000 and 5,000 people in Victoria are employed in the retail trade.

"With their families they number around 20,000," Mr. Haddock said. "If we make store hours too long we may lose business from this group."

"On the other hand," said Mr. Laudrum, "we are creating employment by opening late. We shall certainly need more students."

Tories Seek Candidates

A Progressive Conservative nominating convention will be called in Victoria at an early date, association president Alex H. Reed has announced.

He said three candidates would be sought in Victoria and a committee is already receiving names.

NEW MEDICAL EXPENSE POLICY

Now Metropolitan Life announces a new Insurance policy — supplementing the Provincial Hospital Plan — It helps you pay bills, both in the hospital and at home, for:

- Semi-private or private room hospital accommodation
- Surgical expenses
- Maternity expenses
- Medical expenses such as physicians' charges, registered nurses' charges, and certain medical services and supplies

The cost of illness or injury in your family can be sizeable. Consider the cost today of items such as physicians' bills, surgeons' fees, special nurses — in hospital, at home, or both — special prescriptions, prosthetic appliances, and similar expenses.

Also, when a member of your family must be hospitalized, you may well require room accommodations more private than those offered.

And so, Metropolitan has designed a NEW POLICY to supplement the benefits available to you under the Provincial Hospital Plan.

It is available to you either as an individual or as a family head, including wife and children, at a cost within the average budget.

Now is the time to review your Medical Care coverage. See if it meets the needs of you and your family. Sound advice by an insurance expert can help tailor a plan suitable to those needs.

Your Metropolitan Representative is such a person. He has been carefully trained in the analysis of insurance needs — and he is interested in helping you get the most coverage for your money. Call him today through the local office below.

MACKENZIE KING — A POLITICAL BIOGRAPHY

to the best university traditions in such matters.

He reserved "the gods" for the use of the student body, obtained advertising for the program and helped compose the parodies for the songs, had a piano taken up to the gallery, and assisted with the decorations. On the night of the performance Rex presented the actresses. His perquisites included a lower box at the theatre, photographs of all the actresses, an afternoon stroll uptown with the leading lady, and the honor of giving her—at the students' expense—a supper after the show.

King was an enthusiastic participant in many student activities. He still enjoyed public speaking, and he appeared in debates before the Literary Society and was in some demand as an after-dinner speaker. But on the whole these occasions were infrequent, and he took little or no part in the mock parliament.

This restraint was, of course, in marked contrast to his high-school record, and may have been due in part to a realization that he could no longer hope to excel in this highly competitive field. The chief reason, however, was probably lack of time, for his energies were so widely diffused that he necessarily was forced to limit his commitments.

He was elected president of his class in its second year, did some work for the YMCA, and was fairly active in university politics. He became a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity in October, 1893. His ability as a singer was not of sufficiently high standard to allow him to become a regular member of the University Glee Club, but he occasionally sang with them, and sometimes accompanied the club on tour in the role of treasurer.

Free Entertainment

Although he was very fond of singing and could play the piano in a desultory fashion, his performance was marked by enthusiasm rather than polish. His post with the Glee Club allowed him to take in the entertainments and to send a report of the trip to the Toronto Globe. He enjoyed all plays and some operas, but lack of funds was always a serious handicap.

To the resourceful student, however, this was only a challenge. "The gods" supplied, of course, the most frequent answer; but King was sometimes able to gain admission as a member of the press, and would on other occasions secure a minor part on the stage as a supernumerary where he could see the play as the guest of the company.

He wrote with exceptional ease, though his style was marred by an innate tendency to verbosity. This fault his professors tried to cure, and won at least temporary success. For two years he was an assistant editor of the Varsity, and as such was responsible for certain regular features as well as occasional special reports and articles. The alleged rejection of an early poem of King's is the theme of one of Stephen Leacock's brighter comments:

Leacock Used Him

"There was, I recollect, a young freshman named William Lyon Mackenzie King who sent us in a poem. The boy's name somehow has stuck in my mind all these years. He sent us in a poem called, Why I Like the Winter or The Futility of Human Greatness. I remember that Doc McLay said it was one of the worst poems we had received that week. We sent it back to King with a smart rebuke as a warning. Perhaps we were wrong. Without our rebuke King might be an established poet today. As it was he abandoned literature. Nor did I ever hear that he had any career beyond a little temporary employment at Ottawa."

It is, perhaps, of small moment to note that Leacock must have invented the whole incident, for he had left the staff of the Varsity some months before King came to Toronto as an undergraduate.

Leacock's retort would probably have been that the story could easily have been true and that later verses by King (which appeared in the Varsity on Feb. 1, 1895) supplied only too clearly the evidence to support his contention. These published verses would have justified the "smartest" of rebukes, and not even the most kindly editor would have experienced any doubt or remorse for having dealt firmly with so mawkish an effort.

"A little thought, a little word,
A little deed of kindness,
A little love, a little trust,
These are the things that bind us.
"A little tear, a little prayer,
A faith that faileth never,
A little closing of the eyes
And we are His forever.

Indian Youth 'Frozen Out' Anglican Conference Told

BY EDNA USHER

TORONTO (CP) — Indian children at residential schools operated by the Anglican Church of Canada are "frozen out" by white congregations, says Canon H. G. Cook of Ottawa, superintendent of Indian school administration.

Reporting on the work of the Missionary Society of the Church in Canada, he told delegates to the annual meeting of the executive council and departments of the General Synod of the Anglican Church Tuesday:

"Our Indian youngsters could easily go into the homes of white people. They could join the young people's group at a town church. But Indian children are frozen out when they visit a white parish."

"Some of our schools are not allowed to put baseball, hockey or basketball teams in local leagues because we have beaten white children's teams. Now they say 'We don't want Indian kids in our league'."

Indian children are not invited into the homes of white children they meet at church, he reported.

He urged the 114 bishops, priests and laymen attending the five-day conference to persuade white congregations to accept Indians.

Rt. Rev. H. D. Martin, Bishop of Saskatchewan, said segregation of Indians is not general.

TCA Denies Inefficiency Charge

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — A Trans-Canada Air Lines official Tuesday denied a charge of inefficiency lodged against the publicly-owned system by the head of Canadian Pacific Airlines, which is seeking to cut in on TCA's transcontinental business.

John T. Dyment, TCA's chief engineer, took issue with evidence given before the Air Transport Board by CPA president Grant McConachie to the effect that TCA's domestic operation is "very inefficient".

The board is hearing an application by Canadian Pacific for a transcontinental franchise that would crack TCA's long-standing monopoly on this lucrative route.

"To say that TCA is inefficient compared to other operators on the basis of cost figures alone," Mr. Dyment said, "is to reveal a complete lack of know-how on what makes an operations department tick."

"I know that a cost comparison will not measure the relative efficiency of one airline over another because of a number of factors which cannot be properly priced and differences that cannot be accurately compared."

Mr. Dyment also launched a counter-punch at CPA by suggesting it is off the beam in speeds it proposes for the transcontinental routes it wants to operate.

"It appears to me that the average speeds in CPA's application are too high from a practical operating standpoint," the engineer said.

Dealing with maintenance costs Mr. Dyment said he has no hesitation in saying that "TCA is right in with the top group of airlines in regard to the efficiency of its maintenance and overhaul work."

Parked Cars Target Of Petty Thieves

City police reported a wave of parked car break-ins and thefts over the weekend, most of a minor nature.

But in one Mrs. N. Davis, 2850 Doncaster, lost a purse containing $148, and Mrs. Leonard Kissinger, 2848 Doncaster, lost purses and a wallet containing $31.

Their car was left between 2.30 and 4.10 p.m. Sunday on Rockland near Quadra, and when they returned a window had been forced.

Robert P. W. Peyto, 1385 Rockland, told police someone took a $173.95 portable radio from the front seat of his car parked on View near Vancouver at 12.10 p.m. Saturday.

A $25 car blanket and bamboo coolie hat were taken from a car parked by C. S. Watts, 2960 Surrey, on a bank parking lot at Douglas and Pandora Saturday.

Nkrumah Accused Of Inventing Plot

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters)—Ghana opposition party leader Solomon Odamtten charged Tuesday that the government invented an assassination plot against Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah as another step toward setting up a "one-party totalitarian state in Ghana."

The government ordered Monday the immediate arrest of 43 persons after reporting the discovery of a plot to murder Nkrumah and two other ministers and to overthrow the government.

Odamtten said the 43 arrested were all members of his United party and included the entire executive of the Accra branch.

Odamtten said a one-party state is being achieved "by the familiar techniques of inventing and planting plots on the leaders of the opposition party so as to effect their arrest or liquidation."

SOUTH POLE AIR LANDINGS DUE SUNDAY

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — The first landing at the South Pole during this Antarctic summer season will be made Sunday, American headquarters for Operation Deepfreeze announced today. Two patrol planes will fly six men to the pole to relieve men who have been there almost a year.

More than 5,000 Atlantic salmon were caught by anglers in Nova Scotia rivers in the 1958 season.

GOV'T STAFF REJECTS DEDUCTION PLAN

Chest Drive Setback

Community Chest officials today described as "a terrible disappointment" decision of a majority of provincial government employees last week to reject a payroll deduction plan for charitable donations.

The current Chest drive for $300,000 was expected to benefit by some $7,000 from the plan. The "no" vote recorded by 1,576 civil servants against 994 in favor means a straight canvass of the Legislative Buildings will now be carried out.

Bill Yardley, public service division co-chairman, said the result of the balloting was a surprise as well as a disappointment.

"I can't understand why they backed away from payroll deduction," he said. "The employees' own committee put in a lot of work trying to push the plan through."

Chest officials, who have been trying five years to introduce PD into the provincial service, said they "didn't see much point" in trying again next year.

Meanwhile, a recanvass of city business firms began Monday in an effort to raise another $20,000 from the industrial-commercial section.

Some 264 firms will be asked to give again by 30 prominent business and professional men who have volunteered for the recanvass. The section's quota of $31,000 barely tops $11,000.

Chest total today stood at $243,577, with three days to go to the official end of the campaign.

Truce Talks Set In Fair Dispute

A meeting has been set for Nov. 25 to patch up a growing quarrel between Junior Chamber of Commerce and Greater Victoria Celebrations Committee over dates.

It was called after city clerk Frank Hunter, former chairman of the Celebrations Committee, refused to apologize for what the Jaycees claimed was "an unwarranted attack" on their spring fair.

Mr. Hunter said the Jaycees fair undermined revenue events operated at one time by the Celebrations Committee by running the same events a few days before May 24 festivities.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, present chairman of the Celebrations Committee, invited Jaycee representatives to attend the meeting in the hope that the problem could be solved.

BANDS, GIRLS, FLOATS DUE FOR GREY CUP

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than 30 floats and 14 bands with marching units — representing major cities across the country — will be in the Grey Cup parade when it winds its way through downtown Vancouver Nov. 29.

Parade committee officials said streets along the Georgia-Granville-Hastings route will be gaily decorated for the parade which begins at 9.30 a.m.

Visitors, expected to start arriving in large numbers three days before the football classic, will be welcomed at depots by Vancouver bands.

Crash Kills Railwayman

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—A Canadian National Railways section foreman was killed near McBride, 145 miles east of here, in a head-on collision of two cars.

Killed late Friday was Alfred Leake, of Jackson. Two others were injured and they were reported in good condition in McBride Hospital.

A-G to Present Safety Awards To Penal Workers

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three groups of trainee workers at the Haney Correctional Institute will be presented with Safety Council awards Wednesday.

Representatives of culinary workers, maintenance and laundry workers, and outside labor crews, will receive bronze certificates presented by Attorney-General Bonner.

The groups have worked more than 250,000 hours without a lost-time accident. The award is an innovation in Canadian penal records.

Merchants Back Mall Plan

City engineer James Garnett's plan to turn View Street into a shopping mall, with provision for off-street parking, was approved by the retail merchants group of Victoria Chamber of Commerce Monday evening.

The group referred it to the Chamber directors for endorsation in principle.

It also agreed to form a committee to seek safeguards against shoplifting and the passing of phoney cheques after members had discussed a U. S. magazine article setting out practices and safeguards.

Night shopping on Dec. 18, 19, 22, and 23 was approved by the meeting.

Members voted against closing stores on Saturday, Dec. 27, in order to permit a four-day weekend.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

You Office Workers Have Special Figure Problems

Women who sit all day, or most of the day in an office, are apt to have special figure problems — large hips and thighs.

The sedentary life never is conducive to a good figure but hours of sitting create a real hazard. However, there are preventative and corrective measures.

In the first place HOW you sit is of the greatest importance to your silhouette. If you slump in your chair, it broadens the thighs and of course rounds the shoulders. The abdominal muscles also are certain to be lax.

Since I spend many hours in front of my typewriter I long ago formed the habit of sitting on the edge of my chair, and I mean the edge! I also have made it a point to keep my spine straight while sitting.

The office worker needs special exercises more than anyone else. She should make the effort at the end of each day.

This to me is the most restful of all positions for hours of writing at a desk.

The person who is unaccustomed to it might find it tiring, at least until the muscles learn to do the necessary work. Most office workers probably will find the following best. Sit with your hips touching the back of the chair. Straighten the spine against the back of the chair. Pull the abdominal muscles in.

If you slump forward as most office workers do, you will find that it places extra pressure on the thighs. Not only does the correct sitting position save the figure but it also minimizes fatigue. When you have had the habit of poor posture, you must expect your muscles to feel tired when you first being to correct the situation.

If you do the following exercise once in a while at your desk, you will find it restful! Bend the elbows and circle backwards with the elbows, making the circles as large as possible. After a while circle forward.

The office worker needs special exercises more than anyone else but feels less like it than anyone else after a day of sitting. However, if you will make the effort at the end of each day, you will find yourself wonderfully refreshed. It is a good idea to take a little rest, lying down, when you first return home. Then do your exercises or take your walk.

Welcome Room Plans Party

Committee of the Women's Welcome Room held their meeting in the room kindly lent to them by the Pro Patria Branch of the Canadian Legion. Here elderly women are welcomed by hostesses who serve all who come with tea, cake and bread and butter and from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. the members knit, play games and chat.

Reports showed that during half of September and the month of October, 760 women made use of the room, with seven new members welcomed.

Lake Hill Women's Institute sent gifts of money, wool and sandwiches. Plans for the annual Christmas party were made.

The Welcome Room will be closed over the holidays, from Dec. 16th to Jan. 5.

Adults As Well As Kiddies Enjoy Christmas Toy Shop

By PENNY SAVER

Who has the most fun in toy shops? Kiddies or the grown-ups? Take it from me there are so many new and original toys this year, it would be quite safe to say—both young and old.

I've seen adults "tinkering" with the playthings in the shops just as often as I've seen the tiny tads stretching out exploring fingers.

There's a cuddly fuzzy black and white dog that everyone stops to watch. He revolves on a wooden stand and he's priced at $3.49.

As big as life and just as real looking is the toy baby seal at $4.95. He has a red ribbon on his neck and his coat is black and white. Junior would be delighted to receive him at Christmas.

Many toys, including this modern day robot are run by remote control batteries! A far cry from the hand-pushed and home-built toys of a former day.

The robot flashes lights, walks and does everything but talk! The little man of the house would love this toy priced at $2.75.

A toy vacuum cleaner really works, too. Little Miss could keep her bedroom clean and have fun into the bargain. Battery-run, the vacuum is $3.75.

Shopping for toys is fun. Now is the time to do it, too, as the selection is large and everything is shiny and untouched.

Give me a call at EV 2-3131, I'll tell you where I've been spending my money.

'Santa' Apron

Special greetings for Christmas company with this cheery "Santa" apron! He's a handy helper for serving guests, a happy reminder of the holiday.

Pattern 7100: "Santa" apron, 16 inches long. Directions, embroidery, applique transfers.

Send 35c (coins) for this pattern (stamps cannot be accepted) to The Times Household Dept., 60 Front St., West, Toronto, 1-A, Ont. Print plainly name, address, pattern number.

CANDY OR NUTS FOR HOSTESS

My husband and I moved here just a few weeks ago. Although we are strangers, we are gradually getting acquainted. We have accepted an invitation for Christmas dinner with another family. While we have met these people, we naturally don't know them well. I feel that we should take a gift of some sort, but I don't know whether we should take it with us, send it a day or so beforehand or afterwards. Would you suggest which would be better, and also suggest what to get.

Louise Davis Answers:

You can't go wrong by taking a box of salted nuts or candy and present it to your hostess as soon as you arrive.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Quietly Does It, Ma'am!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I read your column every day to see if I can find someone as crazy as I was. I lived with this man for 15 years and we have two children. Not once did he ask me if I wanted to get married. When we got together he had nothing, but now he is sitting pretty. He worked hard for what he has but I helped him. Everyone thinks we are man and wife. I am sick of bringing up the subject because he says a little piece of paper doesn't make any difference. He doesn't run around on me and he treats me better than some married men treat their wives, but how do I get him to legalize my name?

LIVING IN SIN.

DEAR LIVING: (You are EXISTING; he is LIVING.) Perhaps he doesn't realize that you two could go quietly to a clergyman and have him perform a simple ceremony. No filing, no public notices, no waiting. Ask your clergyman.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is an overly neat wife. She gave away my fishing hat and all the fishing clothes I had. She also cleaned me out of every comfortable pair of shoes I wore for gardening and around the house. My high school sweater is also missing and I kept it for 14 years. As soon as I get used to something she gives it away. She says she can't stand shabby things around. How can I cure her once and for all? PLAIN MAD.

DEAR PLAIN: Every woman has a favorite extra comfortable old girdle. Confiscate it and see if that doesn't snap her back to attention.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 64-year-old woman who has been taking care of a 93-year-old man for two years. I have never had a day off in all that time. I do his cooking, cleaning, laundry and even gardening (75 ft. by 200 ft.). He found out I could do office work so I am also taking care of his finances. He willed me $10,000 but he told his lawyer he has no intention of letting me have it as he is going to try to outlive me and the way things are going, the chances are good. I draw $250 a month. He is as mean as the devil himself and pretends to be sleeping when I pass by him, but he will pinch me hard. I don't drink or smoke. Should I walk out or wait? TIRED.

DEAR TIRED: Your present working conditions are far from ideal, but many a 64-year-old woman would be glad to change places with you. If you can get a job more to your liking, take it—otherwise, stay where you are. Your job will do in a pinch. (P.S. How hard can a 93-year-old man pinch?)

CONFIDENTIAL TO FRAN: Trying to stop an affair at this stage is like trying to stop a toboggan going full speed ahead. But remember — you deliberately climbed aboard, looking for something to happen.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

If you want a collection of Abby's best letters and answers in one book, ask your bookdealer to get "DEAR ABBY" for you.

Wedding gown was of white nylon net and lace over satin in ballerina length. A fingertip veil was held by a beaded headdress. The bride's jewelry was a rhinestone necklace and she carried red and white carnations.

NAVAL NOTEBOOK

Seasons Mean Nothing To Navy Sailing Ship

By MONTE ROBERTS

Yachting is strictly for the summer . . . unless the yacht involved happens to be a member of the Royal Canadian Navy.

HMCS Oriole, the only commissioned sailing ship in the RCN, is a trim, ocean-going auxiliary powered yacht whose year-round duties are to provide sea-time for the navy's officer candidates under training at HMCS Venture.

Even when fog hangs heavy over the strait, and winds are either non-existent or all too much in evidence, Oriole and her chosen crew of cadets set out on weekend cruises which are in addition to regular training routines.

On recent weekends, Oriole has visited Bremerton, in Washington State, and B.C. mainland points.

Her commanding officer is Lt.-Cmdr. C. A. Prosser.

Look for a great many changes within the Second Canadian Escort Squadron in the next few months, as new ships arrive to replace HMC Ships Crescent, Cayuga and Athabaskan.

Changes announced officially are: Capt. J. C. Pratt, from Crescent to Assiniboine; Cmdr. Mike Page, from Cayuga to St. Laurent, and Cmdr. D. S. Boyle, from Athabaskan to Saguenay.

Unannounced, but already in the works, are switchovers involving dozens of officer personnel, ranging from COs to subbies.

Navy wives in considerable number are calling moving firms.

To close this on an all-navy note, the Pacific Command at the present time seems involved in a sort of stream-of-consciousness.

Or, to be more exact, a Brook-of-consciousness.

RIDING OFF THE HORIZON is the impression given by this RCN photo of HMCS Oriole, training yacht attached to officer cadet school at HMCS Venture, Esquimalt. On oily sea, with fog bank ahead, the yacht glides on a rising wave as if to disprove the "theory" the world is round.

African Women Fined

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — Fines of £5 ($14) or one month's imprisonment were imposed Tuesday on 120 African women who demonstrated Oct. 21 against the issue of identity cards. All pleaded guilty to a charge of failure to disperse.

REDS EXECUTE EMBEZZLERS

VIENNA (AP) — Hungarian courts have passed 31 death sentences in the last two years on Communist party and government officials who stole or embezzled state funds, the Warsaw newspaper Trybuna Ludu says.

Minister Enters Dispute Over Officer's Thumb

Workmen's Compensation Board has been asked by Labor Minister Lyle Wicks to reconsider a claim for thumb injuries which was submitted by city policeman Albert Wells, and rejected by the board.

Victoria police commission criticized the board action, stating that the officer's thumb was injured in line of duty, while subduing a drunk.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

A Warning about Foreign Attachments to Telephones

Telephone subscribers are reminded that the use of telephone attachments unauthorized by the Telephone Company is contrary to regulations governing telephone service. This is pointed out because from time to time certain devices of this kind appear on the market and are offered for sale or for rent to telephone users.

The regulation applying to "non-approved devices" follows:

"The Company's equipment and wiring shall not be re-arranged, disconnected, removed or otherwise interfered with, nor shall any equipment, apparatus, circuit or device which is not provided by the Company be connected with, physically associated with, attached to or used so as to operate in conjunction with the Company's equipment or wiring in any way, whether physically, by induction or otherwise, except where specified in the Tariffs of the Company or by special agreement. In the event of a breach of this Rule, the Company may rectify any prohibited arrangement or suspend and/or terminate the service as provided in Rule 35."

This regulation is, of course, in the interests of good telephone service and, therefore, for the protection of telephone subscribers generally. Some attachments to telephones can impair service. And interference with service on one telephone does not stop with that instrument. Others are bound to be affected.

University Chief Named New Broadcasting Boss

BY BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's national broadcasting system Tuesday got a new double-pronged structure, with a university president as chairman of the new Board of Broadcast Governors and an experienced broadcaster as president of the publicly-owned CBC.

Dr. Andrew Stewart, 54, president of the University of Alberta, heads on a full-time basis the 15-memeber BBG. Appointed to the other two full-time posts were two newspaper men—Roger Duhamel, 42, chief editor of the Montreal weekly La Patrie, as vice-chairman; and Carlyle Allison, 51, editor-in-chief of the Winnipeg Tribune, as permanent member.

J. Alphonse Ouimet, 50, general manager of the CBC for almost six years, will take on the additional new position of president as head of an 11-member board of directors. He is an electrical engineer with 25 years in the broadcasting field.

Moving up to vice-president, also a new post, is Ernest L. Busnell, 58, who retains his present position of CBC assistant general manager. He has been in broadcasting for almost 30 years.

TAKES OVER POWERS

The new setup replaces that which existed under the CBC board of governors, with the BBG taking over from the now-defunct CBC board of all regulatory powers over broadcasting and the new CBC directorate confining its activities to the national radio and television services of the publicly-owned corporation.

Revenue Minister Nowlan, who reports to Parliament on broadcasting matters, announced the composition of the two new boards at a press conference during which he indicated there will be no quick changes in basic government policy.

Mr. Nowland said it is unlikely the government will consider before 1959 relaxation of its single-service television policy, whereby only one TV outlet is licenced in any single area. Ottawa and Montreal each have CBC French-language and English-language outlets broadcasting on separate channels.

POLICY WILL CHANGE

"The time is rapidly arriving when the policy will have to be changed," he said, but he could give no indication of when that might be.

If and when the government relaxes the policy, the BBG will then be able to entertain applications from private broadcasters for TV licences in such large cities as Halifax, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver, now served by CBC outlets.

One of the BBG's first jobs, Mr. Nowlan said, will be the drafting of broadcasting regulations. He expected the BBG to be fully operative by Jan. 1. Until the formulation of new regulations — covering such things as advertising content, Canadian content in programming and the like—existing regulations passed by the old CBC board will continue in effect.

The BBG will regulate both privately and publicly-owned broadcasting, but will have no control over the CBC's finances, which will come under the jurisdiction of the government and parliament.

The chairman, vice-chairman and permanent member of the BBG were appointed for seven years. Part-time members serve for five years. However, none may serve beyond age 70.

A seven-year term is provided for the two CBC executive officers and three-year terms for the directors.

The 12 part-time members of the BBG are:

Joseph F. Brown, 54, Vancouver, florist; Dr. Mabel G. Connell, Prince Albert, Sask., dentist; Dr. Emlyn Davies, Toronto, minister of Yorkminster Baptist Church; Dr. Eugene Forsey, 54, Ottawa, research director of the Canadian Labor Congress;

Edward A. Dunlop, OBE, 39, Toronto, executive director of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society; Guy Hudon, 54, Quebec City, dean of Laval University's law faculty; Yvan Sabourin, 59, Montreal lawyer; Mrs. R. G. Gilbride, Montreal, prominent in welfare work;

Dr. Colin B. Mackay, 39, Fredericton, president of the University of New Brunswick; Roy Duchemin, 55, Sydney, N.S., publisher of the Cape Breton Post; Lt.-Col. J. David Stewart, DSO, 49, Charlottetown industrialist; Robert S. Furlong, MBE, 53, St. John's, Nfld., lawyer.

HARKNESS WARNS FARM MINISTERS

Crop Price Supports to Be Cut?

OTTAWA (CP)—Agriculture Minister Harkness bluntly warned today high federal price supports may have to be reduced unless farmers voluntarily agree to pare production and prevent a crisis in certain food surpluses.

The Progressive Conservative government doesn't believe in regimentation, he said at the opening of a one-day federal-provincial meeting of agriculture ministers.

But the world faced prospects of large surpluses in grain and dairy products. Canada couldn't give away certain items, such as skimmed milk, let alone sell them.

He added:

"If serious surpluses do develop which are impossible to sell, or in some cases even to give away, it will become impossible for us to maintain the present levels of prices under the Stabilization Act, let alone to increase them. . . .

"I do not believe quotas on production would be acceptable to the Canadian people and my own philosophy and that of the government is completely opposed to attempting to regiment our agriculture in that way.

"The alternative is educational work, propaganda and pressure by you people on those you represent to voluntarily abstain from producing beyond the capacity of Canadians to consume and of our ability in the present world situation to export."

Yet, having said this, Mr. Harkness predicted Canadian farmers will have a "reasonably favorable" year in 1959. There would be troubling surpluses "in the immediate future," but eventually a rise in world population would "create substantial markets for all that we can produce."

Canada might face a "particularly serious problem" in grain sales with world cereal production this year reaching a record 288,500,000 short tons, much of it in wheat. Surplus wheat stocks in 1959 would be heavy.

But while Europe's 1958 wheat crop was big, quality was low and large quantities of high-quality Canadian wheat would be required for mixing purposes. Exports in the current crop would come close to last year's 316,000,000 bushels.

"This, combined with the short crop this year, makes it probable that by the end of July, farmers in Western Canada will have been able to deliver all of the wheat which they wish to get into the elevators.

It's time we started building a better world for retarded children

One Canadian child in 33 is born retarded. Science has made great strides in training these children, but efforts are hampered by a barrier of fear and ignorance, often erected by the parents themselves. In this thought-provoking article John Clare has a poignant message for all parents during National Retarded Children's Week.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

WEDnesday ASK andy

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Paula Farkas, 13, New York, N.Y., for her question:

What Is an Ermine?

This fellow rates high on the list of best dressed animals. His fur is rather short, silky soft and snowy white. His tail is also white and silky, except for an inch on the end, which is jet black. The ermine wears his exquisite coat as though he has a right to it, and so he has. After all, he belongs to a family of best dressed animals. He is cousin to the mink, the martin, the sable and the otter.

The elegant ermine himself is actually a weasel in winter clothing. The weasels that live in the frozen north may wear white all year round. Those that live where winter snows cover the ground wear brown in summer and white in winter. The weasels of the warm southland wear brown all year round. However, whether he stays brown or changes to white, a weasel always dons a warmer, thicker coat in the fall and he always wears a black tip on his tail.

In the north the weasel begins to change his brown summer coat with the first snow fall. The summer coat may be dark, light tan or a lovely honey color. Come winter, patches of it begin to fall out. It is replaced with patches of the white, denser fur. For a while he is a pinto animal. The ground, too, is pinto, with patches of brown earth and white snow.

It takes 10 days to three weeks for the ermine to grow his complete winter coat by then the ground is entirely blanketed in white. He can run over the snow without being noticed.

The ermine is a handsome animal, apart from his beautiful coat. His small body is long and lithe and very powerful. Every move he makes is graceful. He is highly strung and aways alert. Fully grown, the American ermine is about eight inches long plus a three-inch tail. He weighs only three to four ounces.

He Kills for Pleasure

The character of this elegant fellow, however, is another matter. He is the most bloodthirsty small animal that ever stalked the woods and fields. His diet is fresh killed meat. Most animals kill only to eat. No so Mr. Ermine. He kills everything in sight.

Once in a great while Mr. Ermine-Weasel raids a chicken coop, leaving a trail of blood and murder behind him. This bad habit rates him as our enemy. But let's examine all the facts before we decide to get rid of him.

The ermine, like all weasels, is a mortal enemy of rats, mice and other rodents that destroy crops. When he enters a rat hole he kills every rat, big or little, before settling down to dine. He also kills a large quantity of unfriendly snakes. When we tot up all the good he does, perhaps we can forgive him for raiding the chicken coop once in a while.

The ermine can swim and climb trees. Summer and winter he must be alert for owls, large snakes and hawks, who hunt him for dinner. His worst enemy, however, is man, who hunts him first because he believes him to be a pest and secondly for his equisite coat.

WHAT CAUSES AN OASIS?

Every desert gets a certain amount of rainfall. The showers are few and far between, but when the rain falls it usually dashes down in a deluge. It washes off the slopes and floods down into the hollow arroyos. For a short time the desert is flooded with running water.

This flash flood water soon sinks into the soft sand. It seeps down to join a deep reservoir of ground water. In most places the ground water is far below the surface. But here and there it reaches to or near the ground level.

Such a spot is an oasis. It may be a spring, a shallow lake or even a little stream which stays watery long after the desert shower. In the region of an oasis the ground water may be fairly near the surface and wells can be dug to irrigate the land.

'HARD, RUGGED, TOUGH'

Elite 'Commando' Corps Considered by Canada

BY VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — Creation of a Commando-type of Canadian soldier, hard, rugged and tough, who can take on special assignments is now receiving consideration in the upper echelons of the national defence department.

Ideas on training such men — selected for their physical stamina and intelligence — are being obtained from the forces of the United Kingdom and the United States.

Two infantry officers from the Canadian army are at present studying Commando-training techniques in Britain while two others are in the United States learning how the Americans train their Rangers.

They will evaluate the training in both countries and make a report on their return to Canada.

The formation of a special elite corps in the Canadian Army of men who have received special training enabling them to take on special assignments has been under consideration for some time.

That the defence department has now decided to study and assess the types of training given such corps in Britain and the U.S. indicates that Canada will soon be setting up its own such corps of fighting men.

Consideration has also been given to the possible site for the Canadian school that would train the men.

Chilliwack was considered and examined because of its surrounding terrain which would provide the opportunity to train men under widely varying conditions.

However, army sources say that Chilliwack has been rejected and other sites are now being looked at by defence authorities.

The Commandos won fame in the second world war for their daring and seemingly suicidal asignments. Before the second front was opened up on the continent Commandos along with the American Rangers carried out "hit and run" raids against the German installations along the channel coast and in the Scandinavian countries.

TOUGH TRAINING

Their training was the toughest given any allied soldiers. When they had completed their courses they were considered the most capable fighting men ever turned out in the Second World War.

They were sent out on special assignments to destroy enemy radio and radar stations, capture high ranking officers and generally disrupt operations of the efficient German war machine. They won a world-wide reputation.

APPEARING TONIGHT in the SANSCHA hall with Mart Kenney and His Western Gentlemen, will be featured piano soloist Elaine Bishenden, Canadian entry in the 1956 Miss Universe contest and runner-up in the 1957 Miss Canada contest. She has appeared as guest concert pianist with the Toronto Symphony, but Wednesday will play well-known popular numbers. She also appears in Victoria at Central Junior High for a concert-dance starting at 9 p.m. Friday.

KILLED HER BABY

Mrs. Dick Freed On Life Sentence

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Mrs. Evelyn Dick, central figure in one of Canada's most celebrated criminal cases, has been freed on a ticket of leave after serving 11 years of a life sentence for manslaughter.

The 38-year-old former Hamilton beauty was convicted of manslaughter in the death of her infant son whose cement-encased body was found by police in 1946 as they sought clues in the murder of her husband, John Dick, a Hamilton street car operator.

Mrs. Dick also faced two trials for the torso slaying of her husband but was acquitted. At her first trial she was found guilty and sentenced to be hanged. An appeal, on the grounds that evidence presented by the Crown should not have been allowed, was granted. She was acquitted at her second trial.

Warden Walter F. Johnstone of the prison for women here said the remission service in Ottawa granted Mrs. Dick the ticket of leave last Thursday.

Mrs. Dick entered Portsmouth penitentiary here July 18, 1947, to begin her life imprisonment. Described at one of her trials as having the mentality of an 11-year-old child, she was apparently a model prisoner during the 11 years and four months she was behind prison walls.

The slain infant was one of Mrs. Dick's three illegitimate children. The baby was found by police in Mrs. Dick's Hamilton home, encased in cement, wrapped in a paper bag and placed in a suitcase.

Winnipeg Man Hears Charges Of Fraud Read

A charge of obtaining $1,590 by fraud in a peanut vending machine deal was read to 29-year-old Winnipegger Reginald Simpson Everett in a special sitting of Saanich police court Monday.

Everett already is charged in Saanich court with attempting to defraud a Saanich man of the same sum of money in a similar deal.

Both charges are remanded for plea to Thursday.

In another court Saturday, Everett was charged with fraud in connection with a $3,749.40 vending machine deal in Vancouver.

HID IN BASEMENT

Saanich police said Monday they hid Nov. 5 in a basement at the home of Gordon Cumming, 555 Whiteside, and listened as Everett talked to Cumming, the man police say he attempted to defraud.

The new charge concerns an alleged fraud Oct. 22 from Leonard Bieller, 3821 Ascot.

NEW BYLAW

Oak Bay Set To Open Up Shop Hours

Oak Bay municipality may become the third district—after Saanich and Victoria — to have wide-open shopping.

Final reading of a new shops closing bylaw is set for Nov. 24.

The Oak Bay bylaw is similar to the open hours bylaws recently approved in the other municipalities, except that it would not include service stations.

Oak Bay service stations operators recently decided unanimously to close at 6 p.m. Victoria and Saanich service stations come under a separate bylaw and are allowed open after 6 p.m. only by permit.

The Oak Bay bylaw received first and second readings at a meeting of the council Monday.

UMBRELLAS WERE DRESS OF DAY as hundreds of Victorians attended Cenotaph service Tuesday in front of Legislative Buildings. Continual rain cut size of turnout.

Diefenbaker On Battlefield For Armistice

Attends Service At Verdun, France

By Canadian Press

Canadians remembered their war dead Tuesday as with heads bowed they observed two minutes of silence at the 11th hour.

In many centres, wreath-placing ceremonies were held along with religious services and parades by the armed forces and veterans units.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker attended Armistice day services at Verdun, France, a First World War battlefield. An RCAF guard of honor and a pipe band took part.

LEGION CEREMONY

At Vimy Ridge in France, members of the Canadian Legion observed Remembrance Day in ceremonies at the Canadian memorial.

Most of the overseas servicemen observed Remembrance Day Sunday when parades and other ceremonies were held at army bases in Germany and air force bases in France and England.

At home, parades and services were also held by many organizations Sunday while Tuesday was a working day for many.

At the National War Memorial in Ottawa, a silent crowd of about 10,000 gathered under cold, overcast skies to watch the placing of wreaths at the base of the memorial.

TWO MINUTES' SILENCE

As the clock in the Peace Tower stroked 11 a.m., the crowd stood with bowed heads for two minutes' silence. Governor-General Massey placed the first wreath. He was followed by Mrs. Helena Forrestell of Coniston, Ont., who lost three sons with the RCAF during the Second World War. Her wreath was placed on behalf of the motherhood of Canada.

After a bugler sounded reveille and the playing of the anthem, scores of other persons went forward to place wreaths. One of them was Philip Konowal, a First World War private who won the Victoria Cross.

In New Brunswick, Canadian Legion parades and cenotaph services were held. Rain and snow fell in Saint John where outdoor programs were switched indoors.

At Toronto Mayor Phillips placed a wreath at the city cenotaph where a brief dedication service was conducted.

Armed forces and veterans units held a service at the Winnipeg cenotaph and paraded downtown. There also was a parade to the cenotaph in Edmonton, and at Calgary members of the Canadian Legion paraded and held a service in the Civic Auditorium.

In Vancouver, Remembrance services were held in churches and at city cenotaphs. The air force, navy and army and veterans' units paraded through the downtown area. In New Brunswick, Canadian Legion parades and cenotaph services were held.

A chill wind blew in Halifax where the armed forces and veterans marched to the cenotaph. There, wreaths were placed in remembrance of the Canadians who died in the First and Second World Wars and the Korean conflict. At Province House, a handful of older veterans honored the Canadian dead of the Boer War in South Africa.

Ferry Off Run

The CPR ferry Princess of Vancouver is out of service today for propeller repairs.

The 6 a.m. and 1.30 p.m. sailings from Vancouver and the 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. sailings from Nanaimo were cancelled.

WAR DEAD HONORED AMID DOWNPOUR

'People With Thoughts' Drenched at Cenotaph

By TONY DICKASON

A sombre day.

It was sombre indeed, wet, dull, quiet — Remembrance Day, 1958.

The rain washed out everything but the heart of the traditional observance in Greater Victoria.

Civilian turnout in Greater Victoria was good—it generally is because Victoria and environs encompass a patriotic majority, comparitively—but still there is the thought many more would be on the sidelines of the solemn show had rain let up.

Men were in the parades; women in the main, made up the sidelines.

Their colored umbrellas indicated this. They were mothers, wives—people with thoughts.

An estimated 1,200 watched the main observance at the Victoria Cenotaph in front of the Legislative Buildings; only about 75 at Saanich, but close to 400 in Esquimalt, and 150 at Oak Bay.

As the ceremonies progressed, the rain poured more heavily, so much so that in Esquimalt, (at the Memorial Park on Esquimalt Road) the program was cut short and it was suggested hats be kept on, despite the traditionally bare-headed occasion.

The two-minute silence at the Cenotaph was the high point: nothing was heard but children on the outskirts of the crowd, and passing cars.

The entire service complement was there, cadets, militia, and the "regulars."

Dean Brian Whitlow of Christ Church Cathderal offered the prayers, but nobody except those adjacent heard him. The microphone failed to work.

An innovation not heard here before was the playing of the "Last Post" and "Reveille" by an entire band, that of HMCS Naden.

Entire Band Played 'Last Post'

Boom of a gun indicated start of the two-minute silence; another, fired by the 5th Independent Medium Battery, ended the solemn reverence.

Forces and non-forces, the "vets" marched past the saluting base in front of the Empress Hotel to turn a brisk "eyes right" to Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross.

He had suffered a fever the previous night; yet he appeared without a raincoat.

Saanich had the smallest attendance at the Memorial Gore on Shelbourne, near Cedar Hill Crossroad.

In an address during the service, Capt. H. A. Porter, RCN, called for sources of strength, including spiritual, moral and political.

"If," he said, "we are not strong enough, we could lose our way of life by default."

Saanich MLA John Tisdalle also spoke: "If we hold fast to the things dear to us, we can pass along to the generation to follow a firm and enduring peace."

A third speaker, Reeve George Chatterton, said it was a "struggle" to maintain peace, and that man was generally incompetent to maintain peace on his own behalf.

Necessity was: "To look to a higher being."

There were no speeches at the Cenotaph in Victoria, nor was there the necessity; the quiet, large assembly spoke for itself, echoing Dean Whitlow's prayers, and at one with the moving Lament of the Piper, the silence, and the rain.

U.K. SUB CRASHES JETTY

PORTSMOUTH, Eng. (CP) —The Royal Navy's biggest submarine crunched into a concrete jetty Tuesday. Sailors jumped clear as the 1,120-ton Alaric was swept inshore by a flood tide. The impact carved a two-foot gash above the vessel's waterline but the damage was not serious.

Soldier Jailed 45 Days for Rifle Theft

A Work Point soldier who stole a semi-automatic army rifle was sentenced in Esquimalt police court Monday to 45 days in jail.

He expects to be dishonorably discharged from the service.

Leonard W. Crane, of Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, made a strong plea for leniency to Magistrate H. C. Hall before sentence was passed.

"Irrespective of what penalty I get in this court, I will be far more severely dealt with by the army," the lance-corporal said.

"I will be demoted and dishonorably discharged. I would ask your Honor to take into consideration my wife is due to have her fourth child within two months."

"Taking your wife and the fact you have no previous record into consideration . . . I think the least I can give you is 45 days," Magistrate Hall said.

Crane pleaded guilty last week to a charge of theft over $50 value.

New Officers Named By Pensioners' Body

QUALICUM BEACH — Re-election of George Watson as president marked the annual meeting of the Old Age Pensioners' Association here on Monday.

Also elected were: vice-presidents, E. G. Hayman and Mrs. W. Easthom; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. E. G. Hayman; committee, Mrs. T. C. Judiesch, Mr. Hayman, Mrs. Florence Frost, and Mrs. Peter Webster.

Dowell Reconsiders Decision to Retire

Ald. Arthur Dowell may be drafted as a candidate for re-election despite his decision to retire from public life when his term expires next month.

Number of persons urging him to reconsider has been growing as nomination day approaches without a single candidate, outside of retiring aldermen, coming forward. Deadline for nominations is Dec. 4.

Ald. Dowell decided against running again because he intends to take a 2½-month journey through the Far East early next year.

However, Monday, he said he might change his mind because of the unusual lack of candidates for the Dec. 11 election.

Ald. A. I. Curtis said he should run again.

"He's a most valuable man and I'm sure council would be perfectly willing to get along without him for a couple of months in order to have him the rest of the time."

SMUGGLERS' GOLD RECOVERED FROM SEA

KARACHI (Reuters) — Pakistan authorities Tuesday recovered gold worth 2,500,000 rupees (about $500,000) from the sea near Karachi, where it had been dumped by smugglers. It was the third big gold haul by the authorities since the declaration of martial law at the beginning of last month. The total value of the gold recovered now is about 1,000,000,000 rupees.

Defence 'Chaos' Hit by Macklin

OTTAWA (CP)—Maj.-Gen. W. H. S. Macklin, former adjutant-general of the Canadian Army, said Tuesday Canada's armed forces are completely chaotic and unco-ordinated.

"They cannot complement each other nor support each other in the simplest operation of war," he said in a speech to an Ottawa service club.

"There is no over-riding policy or plan to use them in combination. Not one of them can carry out a strategic decision of its own government without help from some other country.

Gen. Macklin, consistent critic of Canadian defence policy since his retirement from the army in 1955, said $17,000,000,000 has been spent for defence since 1950.

"And what have we got?"

"We have an air force armed with obsolete jets and strategically hog-tied to the U.S. Air Force. It has no air transport, strategic or tactical, that can lift the army with its equipment. It has no tactical aircraft that can intervene in a land battle.

"It (the RCAF) is preparing to give up air warfare and get right down to earth to fire untested, obsolescent American anti-aircraft missiles."

Army 'Glued to the Ground'

Canada had a well-equipped navy without a single merchant ship of Canadian registry to escort.

The army had no reserves, no air transport, no tactical air support, no nuclear weapons.

"The army is glued to the ground as one of Caesar's legions," Gen. Macklin said.

The general said the U.S. Bomarc anti-aircraft missile is unlikely to be any more useful than the Arrow jet interceptor would have been.

Gen. Macklin said there is no defence against the hydrogen bomb and that there is not likely to be any.

Canadian policy of reliance on nuclear retaliation had deterred Russia from nuclear war but if had deterred the Soviet Union from nothing else.

"We have neglected and emasculated the conventional armed forces that could support the opportunistic and mutable strategy that we need to match Russia."

False Mutiny Report Sent By Radio Man

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—A ship's radio operator who had a nervous breakdown put out a false message of mutiny aboard his vessel and asked that planes be sent to save the crew.

This was disclosed Tuesday by the Colombo shipping firm Aitken, Spence and Company Limited, agents for Lloyd's, when they scotched a report of mutiny aboard the Liberian oil tanker Chloe off south Ceylon.

Early in the day Radio Ceylon broadcast that Chloe's captain and chief officer had been murdered. The radio said it was relaying a message picked up from Chloe's radio officer, who had also said some persons were trying to break into his cabin and kill him but that he was defending himself.

Later the ship's Colombo agents said the report of the mutiny was a fabrication by the radio officer, who had had a nervous breakdown. He had locked himself in the radio cabin and sent out frantic messages for help. The agents said the officer was brought under control.

New Talks Start With Tug Owners

A new series of meetings began in Vancouver this morning in the five-month-old contract dispute involving some 50 tugboat companies along the west coast.

Negotiations between the companies and three unions—Marine Engineers, Merchant Service Guild and Seafarers' International Union — came to a deadlock last month when the operators rejected the workers' bid for an average 20 per cent wage boost and other contract changes.

Today's meeting was held between union representatives and federal labor department mediator in Vancouver, George Currie.

BIG WEEKEND SHOW

Budgie Invasion Victoria-Bound

Victoria this week will pay homage to the budgie.

More than 250 of the colorful little birds are being flown to the city from all parts of Canada for the National Budgerigar Association annual show scheduled for Friday and Saturday in the Crystal Garden.

Bred and raised by bird fanciers from as far off as Halifax, they are par excellence the cream of the budgie population in Canada. All told, there will be 70 standard color varieties at the show.

The national show, the first to be held in western Canada, will be opened by Provincial Secretary Wesley Black at 8 p.m. Friday. On Saturday the budgies will be on view from 9 a.m. to 9.30 p.m.

RED FACTORS

Among other attractions will be an exhibition of red factor canaries, a cross between a canary and the Australian Siskin. They are known for their fantastic range of colors—pink, apricot, red and mahogany.

There also will be a display of exotic finches and other lesser known caged birds from South America.

The rarest bird will be a conure, the brown-eared South American parrot.

35 Homeless After Fire Rips Town

ST. LOUIS, Que. (CP)—Fire late Tuesday night roared through this tiny Ile-aux-Coudress community and destroyed seven homes. Thirty-five persons were left homeless but there were no injuries.

Several barns and other buildings were damaged by the fire, which broke out apparently in the home of Alphonse Desgagnes.

The community has no fire-fighting service.

NANAIMO (CP)—Police are investigating the death of a Vancouver accountant here, Sunday, in a city hotel.

No inquest will be held, the coroner, Dr. Henry Lewis, said.

SPCA Charges Wild Horses Mistreated

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER—RCMP Monday night turned back a trailer-truck at the U.S. border near Sumas, B.C., after the SPCA complained that 25 wild horses had been kept in the trailer 36 hours without food or water.

Police said one horse was dead and another was in poor physical condition.

The Chilliwack division of the SPCA said it would press charges against the driver of the truck.

The SPCA said the 25 horses had been caught in the Princeton area of B.C.

SNOW ON HIGHWAY

HOPE—Heavy snowfall was reported along the Hope-Princeton Highway today and RCMP advised motorists not to use the route unless absolutely necessary.

Twenty inches of snow was reported in the Allison Pass area and it was still snowing. RCMP said no vehicles will be permitted on the Hope-Princeton Highway without chains.

NEPTUNE IN HUNT

KAMLOOPS—A radar-equipped Neptune aircraft and a twin-rotor helicopter have joined the steadily growing search for a private aircraft with two men aboard, missing in the B.C. interior since last Thursday.

They bring to nine the concentration of RCAF planes taking part in the hunt for the twin-engine Apache aircraft.

Aboard the plane when it disappeared between Calgary and Kamloops on a flight to Vancouver were pilot Fred Royce, 36, and C. J. Janick, 42, both of Cadillac, Mich.

RCAF officials said Tuesday it had been learned that the missing plane had a radar reflector in its emergency kit, and the Neptune aircraft was ordered into the search by Wing Cmdr. J. W. Borden, searchmaster.

WOMAN ROBBED

VANCOUVER — Police throughout the Fraser Valley were searching Tuesday for two youths who robbed a North Surrey woman of $137 and jewelry worth more than $2,000 Monday night.

Mrs. Kay Graff said the youths, one of them carrying an automatic pistol, bound and gagged her after entering her store. They fled after cutting telephone wires.

YOUTH KILLED

A Vancouver youth, David A. Miller, 16, was killed while he and a companion were shooting at elk from the porch of a dude ranch near Cle Elum, Wash., Tuesday.

Miller and Irvin Woodell, about 35, of South Cle Elum, were taking shots at three elk in a field near the Sky Meadows guest ranch in the Peoh Point area, Kititas County deputy sheriff Vic Cusworth reported.

The officer said Woodell told him he and Miller were standing side by side and that when he turned quickly to enter the door his rifle was accidentally discharged. The youth was shot in the left temple.

WOODLANDS WAITING LIST

'It's Disgrace' Says Magistrate

NANAIMO—Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts Monday criticized the provincial government for closing a wing of the Woodlands School when there is a waiting list for admission to the institution for mental defective children.

He described the closing of a wing of the school as "a disgrace".

He made the comments after welfare officer Donald Bingham requested the court to rescind an order committing a mentally defective youth to the care of the superintendent of child welfare.

LONG WAIT

It was general knowledge, he told the magistrate, that there is a waiting list and there will be a one or two-year delay before the youth could be admitted.

"The whole thing's a disgrace," said the magistrate.

He said the empty wing at Woodlands would hold 200 children.

He could see no problem of recruiting staff, he added.

The government, he said, was either trying to save money or had some other "obscure" reason for closing a section of the institution.

Owner Unhurt As Cruiser Burns, Sinks

SEATTLE (AP) — The 45-foot pleasure cruiser Sea Bell, of Seattle, burned and sank Tuesday in Fossil Bay, on Suicia Island, but the owner, C. H. Bell, got off unharmed, the Coast Guard reported.

Bell radioed for assistance about 8.30 a.m. and was picked up two hours later by a Coast Guard patrol boat from Bellingham. He was the only person aboard the cruiser, and was en route from Seattle to Sidney, B.C.

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — A 14-year-old motorist and four of his seven passengers are in fair condition in hospital here with injuries suffered Sunday night when their car plunged 20 feet down an embankment and crashed into a tree.

Her Boy 'Bothered' By Girls

PORT ALBERNI—Edward Tatoosh, 23, has been sentenced to three months in Oakalla, after pleading guilty to a charge of indecent assault against an 18-year-old girl.

Mother of the accused made a strong plea on behalf of her son, saying that he was continually "bothered" with phone calls from girls, and that he could not help himself.

Evidence showed that Tatoosh entered the bedroom of the sleeping girl and attempted to attack her. She screamed, neighbors were aroused and Tatoosh fled.

RCAF Europe Squadrons Face New Role in NATO

OTTAWA (CP)—Future of the 12-squadron RCAF Air Division in Europe should become clearer after the annual NATO council meeting in Paris next month.

Authorities said Tuesday nothing can be decided until Defence Minister Pearkes confers with other NATO defence ministers and military leaders.

They said it is generally recognized that the division will have to be re-equipped, but what form this new equipment will take is still up in the air.

Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme allied commander in Europe, said recently that the number of missile-equipped units will be expanded with a consequent elimination of 30 to 40 conventional aircraft squadrons.

This does not necessarily mean that any Canadian squadrons will be eliminated but Gen. Norstad's statement points that way because, generally speaking, Canada's NATO's partners have more advanced fighter planes than the RCAF.

The Canadian division is equipped with the Sabre and CF-100 jets, both high-altitude interceptors.

The life of these planes could be extended by equipping them with an air-to-air missile, but such a program probably would require extensive modifications in the Sabres and CF-100s.

The role of the air division might be switched to that of army support, in which case the RCAF in Europe would likely require an entirely new plane.

Another possibility is that the division might retain the same role—interception of bombers—but be equipped with ground-to-air missiles.

The decision about the RCAF air division's role and equipment will be strictly up to the Canadian government. But the government naturally wants the air division to mesh smoothly with NATO's air forces.

DEMOCRAT 'BOSS CURLEY' OF BOSTON

Last of Big City 'Pols' Dead

JAMES CURLEY
. . . two jail terms

BOSTON (AP) — James Michael Curley, last of the big-city political bosses, died today at City Hospital. He would have been 84 Nov. 20.

Curley was a Democratic leader for more than half a century, serving four terms as mayor of Boston, one term as governor of Massachusetts and four as a congressman.

Slowly failing health had marked Curley's last years and he was long under treatment for diabetes.

Death came a few hours after doctors performed a 55-minute emergency operation in an attempt to clear a clotting of the artery that supplies the small bowel.

SONS COME

Mrs. Curley and Curley's two surviving sons, Rev. Francis X. Curley of Holy Cross College and George J. Curley of Boston, were summoned. Father Curley gave his father the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church.

Curley's long career was one of triumph and tragedy.

He won election to the highest offices in his home city and state and once was high in the councils of his Democratic party. But he also served two terms in jail.

Curley first went to jail at about 1900 for conspiracy in connection with taking civil service examinations for another man. He served five months in 1947 in connection with a mail fraud case.

RYLEY, Alta. (CP) — Two teen-age Edmonton girls were fatally injured Tuesday and two Edmonton youths were in hospital, one in critical condition, as a result of a train-car collision near this town about 50 miles southeast of Edmonton.

The dead were identified as Shirley Puchyr, about 17, and Elaine Pierce, about 18. Injured and in Tofield hospital was Bob Grimble, 19.

The name of the other youth was withheld by police. The youth, known to be the driver of the car, was taken to hospital in Edmonton.

Miss Puchyr died at the scene, one mile west of here, when the small car in which she and her companions were riding and a CNR freight train collided. Miss Pierce died Tuesday night in hospital in Tofield.

GIBRALTAR STILL SOLID

'Rock' Bulwark for NATO

GIBRALTAR (Reuters) — Although thte Spanish government long has been trying to convince the world that Gibraltar now has lost its strategic value, the fact remains that the Rock's importance as the gateway to the Mediterranean has not diminished in any practical way.

It remains a naval base for the North Atlantic Treaty forces. Britain sees to it that the spacious docks are kept in a state of readiness for any emergency, and the development scheme for which a grant of £300,000 ($840,000) was made two years ago by Britain's colonial development welfare fund now is being pushed ahead.

ISOLATION TRIED

The Spanish government has tried for years to isolate Gibraltar from the Spanish mainland. It refuses to allow Spanish nationals to cross the border for tourist purposes as they had done for more than two centuries, though about 12,000 workers from the adjoining towns of La Linea and Algeciras are allowed to earn a living in Gibraltar.

These, however, on their return to Spanish territory are obliged to change their sterling wages at a rate fixed by the frontier finance administration. This regulation brings the Spanish government a handsome income each year.

Some 85,000 people depend on these wages to live as well as upon the groceries and other commodities that the workers take back into Spain each day from Gibraltar.

The introduction of atomic weapons has made some of the old equipment at Gibraltar obsolescent, as shown by a recent official announcement asking for tenders for the purchase, dismantling and removal of 130 guns and gun barrels.

Gibraltar hopes to link its future strongly with international tourism.

It can be reached by direct flight from London in just over four hours for a return fare of about £40 ($112). The fact that it is in the sterling area also has many advantages for tourists from Britain.

'Peculiar' Ways Made Beck Rich

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Dave Beck's defence in his income tax evasion trial will be that he took nontaxable union funds "in a rather peculiar way" and became rich, his lawyers disclosed Monday.

William Dwyer, of Beck's team of defence attorneys, said in an opening statement to a federal court jury that the ex-boss of the Teamsters' Union got into trouble through "sloppy" handling of union money.

"But he did no wrong where his taxes were concerned," Dwyer said.

Beck's long-awaited trial opened Monday in United States district court and a jury of eight men and four women was seated with unexpected speed.

The one-time Seattle laundry truck driver, who rose to one of the United States most powerful labor posts, is charged with defrauding the government out of $240,000 in income taxes for the years 1950-53.

Car Crashes Building

Robert Renard, RCN, was fined $35 for careless driving and $25 for driving without a licence when he pleaded guilty in Esquimalt police court Monday.

Court was told Renard was driver of a car which overturned on Signal Hill, causing about $500 damage when it collided with a building. Police said the old model car was a total loss.

PEARSON FEARS UNEMPLOYMENT

Work Plan 'Too Late'

TORONTO (CP) — Liberal Leader Pearson said Tuesday the "number one problem" facing Canada this winter is unemployment.

He told the Toronto Liberal Business Men's Club the federal government's winter work program has been made too late to be of maximum effect this winter.

"The $1,000,000,000 public works program has made little or no impact on employment."

The government's attack on jobs has been "un-co-ordinated, unplanned — actions which have resulted in large expenditures of money without corresponding results in terms of employment," Mr. Pearson said.

9 IN MEMORIAM

CLARKE — In loving memory of my dear brother, Alfred E. (Fred) Clarke, who passed away Nov. 12, 1952.
The bridge of time has lengthened,
But my heart will not release
The memories of his presence,
Nor thoughts of him in peace.
—Fondly remembered by Violet.

GREEN — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Arthur Green, who passed away Nov. 11, 1957.
Ever remembered by his daughter Irene and her family.

PULCHER—In memory of "Cis," beloved wife of Edmund Pulcher, who passed away Nov. 12, 1954.
Tonight the silent stars look down
On a grave not far from here,
Where sleeps the one I can't forget
And always loved so dear.
Without a word you left me,
Your last thoughts were unknown,
And with farewells unspoken,
You calmly entered home.
I am, O Lord, deprived of one
Who was to me, most dear;
Teach me to say "Thy will be done"
While I on earth wait here.
—Ever remembered by her loving husband and family.

HERON—In loving memory of mom and dad, Margaret and John Heron, who passed away Nov. 12, and 16, 1943.
Memories are treasures no one can steal;
Death leaves a wound no one can heal.
A silent thought brings many a tear
Of the ones we miss and loved so dear.
—Ever remembered by their loving daughters, sons-in-law and grandchildren.

WEATHER CHANGE AHEAD
and time to go underground for the next few months and develop that basement room. You'll be surprised how nice and useful a finished basement can be — play areas for the small youngsters and intermediates, to spin the hoop — and the ideal place for teen-agers to invite their friends for the evening — spinning records, homework — party games and such.

FOR THE BASEMENT WALL
Naturally you'll need some common lumber to level out walls to concrete base and then be ready for panelling — wallboard. Knotty Spruce Panelling Boards in 1x8 and 1x8 width recessed Vee Edge gives modern attractive finish — Spruce panels retains that whitewood appearance.
Per 100 BM $16.50
Specified lengths per 100 BM $17.50. There's wallboard in 6' and 7' lengths too.

4x8x⅜ Gyproc	$1.71
4x7x⅜ Gyproc	$2.00
4x8x½ Painted Insulation Board	$1.74
4x7x½ Painted Insulation Board	$2.03
4x8x¼ Fir Plywood	$2.49
4x7x¼ Fir Plywood	$2.89

In addition there's a large selection of all decorative plywoods — panelling, etc. — all on display.

FOR THE CEILING
Strap the joists with 3" or 4" strips or low-grade plywood and apply decorative ceiling tile. Simpson Ceiling Tile is 2-coat factory painted — needs no finish coating — will keep for years to come. Available in 4 sizes and application is easy with Bostitch staple tacker.
Price per sq. ft. from 13c.
If you want the real soundproof type we store 3 different patterns — standard-perforated — scatter drilled and Forestone priced from 28c sq. ft.

FOR THE FLOOR
Treat concrete with asphalt waterproofing then lay strips and plywood subfloor and you're ready for Flamenco Lino Tiles. Available in the largest colorful selection in town — gay colors to brighten the basement. 9x9 tiles only 12c each.
Per Quart $2.85
Per Gallon $9.75

Shirley Temple's 'Ali Baba and the 40 Thieves' on C-4 at 7.30

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

THE NIGHT PLAYHOUSE 90 DISAPPEARED—Playhouse 90 in our house is something like mealtime. It's just taken for granted that you are there and waiting. We'd rather miss almost anything during the week than miss the Thursday drama.

Therefore it came as a shock last week when 8.30 rolled around and something else than Playhouse 90 appeared on Channel 12. We hurriedly turned to 7 and it was on there. But so was the snow, high and deep and falling fast like a scene from Uncle Tom's Cabin. You could see more looking through a bowl of blackberry jelly.

Hurriedly we telephoned KVOS-TV in Bellingham to inquire why. We didn't get much satisfaction but next day David Mintz, KVOS-TV's general manager, phoned to say the shows during the normal Playhouse 90 time had been arranged as a one-shot deal and that his station would return to the hour-and-a-halfer and stay there, starting next week. This Thursday Playhouse 90 is pre-empted by Du Pont Show of the Month's "The Winslow Boy."

ACTUALLY, however, it's no secret in this area that Channel 12 runs TV's most-honored drama more as a public service than for monetary consideration. It comes at a time of night when the Bellingham outlet could sell without trouble any amount of time to commercial interests and thus fatten their pockets. But it seems that carrying Playhouse 90 is strictly for the prestige attached.

It's also no secret that Playhouse 90 advertisers are not too happy with their investment. While admitting the artistic worth of the program they are busy head-shaking and pointing out that such are the numbers of advertisers that the viewing public won't remember the names of any one of them. It's for this reason that the CBS-TV network has had difficulty selling all segments of the play. Indeed, some quarters predict that the honored vehicle may not last out the season.

It is rather ironic, too, that although Playhouse 90 reaps Emmys by the peck every year it is not TV's most favored program, not by a long shot. The last time I saw the ratings the show was rated number 56. Yes, that's what I said, number 56.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1958

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—New progressive methods are just what you need at this time, and if you study up on them, you will be amply rewarded in the future. Read your paper thoroughly and then go to see those persons who are experts and study their systems.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—A correct intuition is yours regarding how to better your personal and business life. So, get into the so-called Silence for awhile and get results. P.M. is then excellent for anything connected with romance and soulmate.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—The right day to be with associates to quietly work out any ticklish problems, put new plans into effect. Keep working that lovely smile whenever the verbal sledding seems to be rather rough.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)—Get an early start on all the chores and work ahead of you. Stop procrastinating and deliberating. Decisive action now brings fine results in the early future, no matter whether it concerns house, office or outside affairs. Be alert and smart.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—Another day for enjoying the entertainments and fun that relieve the tension under which you usually operate, owing to that fertile mind of yours and great capacity for work. Get out in the open air as much as possible.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—Get all your basic and practical affairs in order today for best results in the future. Be certain that house and business situations are ideally right. Then entertain beautifully at home.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Perk up both business activities and lagging spirits by paying calls on trade, relatives, pals, et al. Impress everyone with your good mind and real efficiency. Up and at 'em now!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Anything in connection with finances and real estate, holdings can be put in more perfect and valuable order today. Forget the pennies and concentrate on the dollars. Look after your throat, cut records, attend to anything phonetic.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Think almost selfishly today. Give attention at last to those fine plans you have kept locked up somewhere or in your mind, see that you start putting them into operation, and achieve real success. P.M. let sociability reign.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—A day for research into things which puzzle you and for learning new systems that will bring greater success in the early future. Be ingenious in all that you do, also in ways and means for helping your fellow man.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—An ideal day to be with persons with whom you wish to join efforts for an early and joint success in some venture. This is a particularly good day for large groups and round table discussions. Action.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—By exercising the greatest consciousness and care in the performance of some specific duty, you can today get the backing and good will of some very influential person. Impress all with your patriotism.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN THURSDAY . . .

The fine child born Thursday will have what is known as a one-track mind, which is an excellent thing, provided it is on the right track. Therefore, it behooves you to early give all the ethical and spiritual training possible, for your progeny has tremendous perseverance and can never be swerved from a certain course once he or she makes up the mind to go after something. A wonderful chart for the detective.

GENERAL MANAGER'S CHARGE

'Power Board Prostituted For Political Promises'

Force Costly Refunding For Premier's Pledge

H. Lee Briggs, general manager of the B.C. Power Commission, today charged the provincial government with prostituting the 80,000 customers of the commission to fulfil political promises.

In a dramatic, emotion-charged press conference, he appealed to the public to step over the heads of the government and stop it from forcing the power commission to refinance some of its loans so that Premier Bennett can claim by 1960 that he has paid off the direct debt of B.C.

Mr. Briggs charged that the financial plan will cost the commission $215,000 a year and this will have to be paid by its consumers.

It was one of the most sensational interviews ever given by a public official in the history of the province.

As he neared the end of reading his 3,000-word statement Mr. Briggs broke down, turned and looked out of the window of his office.

He wiped tears from his eyes, then took control of himself and resumed the conference.

He announced he doesn't intend to resign his post, which he took four years ago, but if he is fired he will make a non-political tour of the province to stump the platforms and tell the people the "rancid things" that go on in electric power matters.

Commission Forced Into Losses

In addition to his charge that pressure is being put on the power commission to do the refinancing, Mr. Briggs declared twice previously the government has forced the commission into losses, once for $60,000 and another for $115,000.

This came about when the government was floating power commission loans but invested a lot of government money in them. Instead of buying the bonds directly from government funds, the government floated the loans through bond houses and paid the necessary commissions, which could have been avoided.

"My objections got nowhere," Mr. Briggs declared.

But his main concern is the Premier's plan to refinance the original issues put out by the government between 1945 and 1952 to set the power commission up in business.

These borrowings were made directly by the government. The money was turned over to the power commission, which undertook to pay all the sinking funds and interest. But the bonds are direct government bonds.

(Since that time, loans for the hydro have been put out as power commission bonds with government guarantees.)

It is the rearrangement of these original bonds, at higher rates than were obtained at the time of issue, which will cost the power commission the money, he said.

"Quite obviously the chief objective of the bond rearrangement is to implement a political promise by the present government, namely to 'wipe out all the province's direct debt by 1960'. All other possible reasons for such action have been analyzed, but without result," he said.

Placed His Whole Career on Line

Mr. Briggs, in effect, placed his whole career on the line in his statement condemning the government's actions as "unworthy of public responsibility and trust."

He declared: "I will not stand idly by while those charged with the administration of the financial affairs of this province prostitute the 80,000 customers of the B.C. Power Commission to fulfill political promises."

Mr. Briggs made it absolutely clear that what he was doing was solely on his own responsibility and knowledge, that his action was unknown to the members of the power commission itself, or any of the staff.

When he invited reporters into his office he also had a power commission public relations man, L. H. Whittaker, and his own assistant, Phil J. Croft, in the office. He asked each one of them specifically if they had any idea what his statement was about. They each replied that they did not.

Mr. Briggs' statement disclosed that heated arguments and correspondence have been going on between the government's financial advisor, Dr. J. V. Fisher, and the power commission on the proposed refinancing.

The question is not yet finally settled and that is why he has appealed to the public over the head of the government. But at the moment, he said, it is clear the plan, if forced through, must cost the power commission an extra $215,000 a year.

He also made reference to a "news leak" which

LIFE OF MACKENZIE KING

Early Success At University

Serialization of this new and official unpublished biography of Mackenzie King began last Saturday in the Times Weekend Magazine. It will continue daily Monday to Friday in the news columns of the Times and in Saturday's Weekend Magazine.

By ROBERT MacGREGOR DAWSON

In the autumn of 1891 Mackenzie King enrolled in the Faculty of Arts at University College in the University of Toronto. He was not yet 17. A year later he entered the honor course in political science, and was awarded a Blake Scholarship in political science and history.

For the next three years his studies were mainly in politics, economics, constitutional history, and law, in most of which he stood at or near the top of his class. He graduated in 1895 with first-class honors. In 1896 he received the degree of bachelor of laws at Toronto.

King

A few days after Willie appeared on the campus, The Varsity, the student paper, reported a conversation between someone referred to as "Rex" and another student, in which the naive freshman had introduced himself as the son of "Senator Rex" of Berlin.

The incident, which had apparently been somewhat distorted in the telling, is obviously of little consequence save to indicate the impression King made on his fellow students and his extraordinary ability to attract attention and to make the most of his opportunities.

'Surprised Them'

For he brought the matter before a meeting of his class (1895)—presumably on a plea of parliamentary privilege—and, he said, "explained the whole affair to (them) who listened without one interruption for about eight minutes. I was not a bit nervous and I think that kind of surprised some of them. I asked them in closing that I hoped they would not believe any such report and thanked them for their kind attention. Then when I sat down they cheered for about five minutes and called out, 'What's the matter with King, he's all right.' The president and lots of the others congratulated me after the meeting." The nickname of Rex remained, however, and he shrewdly added to the account he gave his parents the comment that if the whole affair "has done anything, it has done me good because now I know nearly every man in the college, or rather they all know me."

He found to his delight that the boyish pranks of the high school were reproduced on a grander scale at Toronto, and his first letters home tell of the "great time" he had had at the Autumn Convocation and at the Opera House.

Police Called In

Fifty chairs were smashed on the first occasion, and the police were compelled to interefere on the second, which ended up with the usual serenade in front of one of the girls' schools. This sportive trait persisted for years.

In 1893 Rex and five others appeared before the University Council on a charge of tearing down an old shed on the campus at Halloween. They were fined $15 each, an act which led to an indignation meeting, a Glee Club parody in their honor, and a student subscription to discharge the fine. On the next Halloween King was chosen by a mass meeting of students to take charge of all arrangements for a theatre night and he quite lived up

Russ to Stay In E. Germany

BERLIN (AP)—Premier Otto Grotewohl indicated today Russia might be ready for a one-sided withdrawal of its troops from Germany, then suddenly backed down on his announcement tonight.

It appeared Grotewohl had been told by the Kremlin to make it clear Soviet troops will stay until Western armies get out of West Germany.

The East German premier earlier had told a press conference that his regime expected to open talks soon with Russian Premier Khrushchev on the withdrawal of Russian troops from the satellite nation.

Under questioning from Western reporters, he added that Russia "perhaps" would also stick to its old proviso calling for simultaneous withdrawal of Russian and Western troops from Germany.

Tonight an official correction was issued on the transcript of the press conference.

The correction changed the "perhaps" to "naturally" in the Grotewohl statement. This meant that the East German premier now was admitting that any withdrawal of Russian troops from his land depended on Western forces leaving the Bonn republic.

The West repeatedly has rejected this in the past, insisting that Russia first must agree to German reunification through free elections.

Grotewohl's first statement followed weekend demands by Khrushchev that the Western powers withdraw from Berlin.

Grotewohl denounced as "sensational" western speculation that the Communists might be planning a new blockade of West Berlin.

"Berlin," he said, "is one question, but it is not the biggest question."

The biggest question, he said, was peace and German unification.

New Wengren Plans Told By Mainwaring

VANCOUVER — Advanced engineering and cost studies for the huge Wenner-Gren power development in the Peace River will go ahead next year, to be completed by December, 1959.

They are expected to show that power from the area can be brought to the lower mainland cheaper than any other hydro sources, which will mean the huge project will go ahead.

This was disclosed at a press conference here today when the full list of directors for the new Peace River Power Development Company, Wenner-Gren subsidiary, was announced.

W. C. Mainwaring, retired vice-president of B.C. Electric was named president of the new $20,000,000 company.

More than 8,000,000 horsepower can be generated by a huge earth-filled dam built on the Peace River in northeastern B.C. Mr. Mainwaring said.

He said:

"Engineering already completed indicates a dam yielding 4,000,000 horsepower can be built on he Peace River for the same order of costs as a dam yielding only 2,000,000 horsepower near Mica Creek (in southeastern B.C.).

"Another 4,000,000 horsepower can be developed even

'Economic Domination' Aim Of BCE, Wengren---CCF

Disclosures by B.C. Power Commission general manager Lee Briggs indicate Premier Bennett's government is involved in "a grand plan to have the B.C. Electric and Wenner-Gren dominate the economic life of this province," CCF Leader Robert Strachan said at noon.

Speaking from his home at Cedar, Mr. Strachan said the Briggs statement speaks for itself.

"It bears out the statements the CCF has been making in the House for years. Now it appears the government and Mr. Bennett are involved in a grand plan to have the BCE and Wenner-Gren interests dominate the economic life of the province and saddle our people with high-cost power."

He added: "I certainly commend Mr. Briggs for his public spirited attitude and absolute honesty in releasing the statement. B.C. cannot afford to lose such a man."

Complete Text of Statement by Power Chief

Following is the complete text of the statement issued today by H. Lee Briggs, general manager of the B.C. Power Commission, charging interference in commission financing for political purposes:

"I will not stand idly by while those charged with the administration of the financial affairs of this Province prostitute the 80,000 customers of the B.C. Power Commission to fulfill political promises.

"This refusal has no relation to the control which the Legislature and the Government of this Province must properly exercise over the major policies of the Power Commission. Such overall directional control is an unquestioned necessity, it is essential to the long-term interests of the people of British Columbia.

"But long years ago it was well and truly said: 'Who keeps the truth from the people stands in the way of God.' That striking statement applies to Premier W. A. C. Bennett. It applies to one Lee Briggs. It applies to the most humble witness in the land.

"In the early years of the Power Commission (1945 to 1952), its permanent capital funds were provided by the sale of bond issues standing in the name of the Province. By Orders-in-Council the then governments assigned both the proceeds and the obligations of these issues to the Power Commission. They made the Power Commission wholly responsible for all interest charges, and for all sinking fund installments such as would provide completely for eventual repayment.

"When the Premier and his advisers propose and continue to insist with increasing pressure that this permanent financing be almost totally rearranged, and thereby impose large extra annual and total costs which can only be paid for by each and every one of the Commission's customers, it is indeed time that these people be made fully aware of the circumstances. These people will then pass their own judgment on what is right and what is wrong.

"Quite obviously the chief objective of the bond rearrangement is to implement a political promise by the present government, namely to 'wipe out all the Province's direct debt by 1960.' All other possible reasons for such action have been analyzed, but without result.

THE INSTRUCTIONS

"A meeting in the Premier's office last September 22 was attended by the Economic Adviser, the three Power Commissioners, and myself. The Commission was in effect asked by the Premier to go through the motions of paying up its 32 million dollars in bonded debt carried in the name of the Province. No matter that some of those bonds carried very low rates of interest, and with few exceptions had many years still to run. The entire group carried an average interest rate of 3.1%, whereas the current market rate for new issues of similar character is 5.1%.

"At that meeting it was proposed to the Commission in most decisive fashion that it must select between (a) reborrowing in the open market at current rates of interest or (b) reissuing a new series of 4% bonds, to be taken up by other sinking and trust funds of other governmental agencies as their funds become available.

EXISTING BOND ISSUES NOT TO BE CANCELLED

"Although the Power Commission is to be pushed into higher costs for its customers to carry, there is to be no change in the status of the original bonds either as to ownership or as to their rate of interest. The scheme is to turn over now to the Sinking Fund Trustees, the equivalent value of all future sinking fund payments so that these, together with the interest earnings thereon, will be sufficient to provide for all future interest charges (still at 3.1%) and in addition, discharge fully the original obligations when they come due for payment at the normal time.

"Thus the direct obligation of the Province for these bonds would be transferred on a fully paid-up basis to the Sinking Fund Trustees. The direct obligations of the Province would in effect be extinguished now.

"As far as the Power Commission is concerned, the main catch in the scheme is the instruction to go on the open market now, or else to issue 4% bonds with some attraction to other Provincial trust or sinking funds.

"The proposal was thereupon taken back to the Power Commission offices where it was put under careful study.

NEWS LEAK

"From some unknown source a few days later there was a highly unfortunate leak of information to the 'Vancouver Province' newspaper. Several persons in the Finance Department had been involved in preparing or printing the information, and several persons in the Power Commission had been engaged in analyzing it. I was highly mortified by this occurrence. We did our best to track down the source of the leak, but without avail.

"If the news accounts are correct, the Premier issued several emphatically violent denials of the bond rearrangement plan which he had in fact set in motion. The strong emphasis to and the threatenings included with his denials, indicate clearly his full appreciation of what is right and what is wrong.

"It would be interesting to learn why, a few days later, the 'Vancouver Province' retracted the entire story in every particular.

"Rearrangement negotiations proceed.

"On October 8 the Commissioners delegated the General Manager to try to persuade Dr. Fisher (Dr. J. V. Fisher, B.C. Government Economic Adviser) to amend the Government's declared course of action. Our extended discussions on October 8 and 9 ended in an inconclusive draw. I followed by writing him in careful detail on October 14, to which on October 16 he replied in vehement vein.

"I feel that my own intelligence, the intelligence of Commission accounting people, and the intelligence of the people of British Columbia has been insulted by the insistence of government officials on the following, as indicated by the discussions and the correspondence:

"That a 4% or a 3¼ % interest rate is really no more costly than a 3.1% interest rate if the term of the sinking fund payments are extended to a greater number of years.

"That total annual interest payments of $975,750 on the existing issues are almost no different from the total annual interest of $976,253 on the proposed new issues (the former being on $32,025,000, but the latter being on only $26,306,072).

"That in their books the Power Commission officials could extend the figures of the estimated years of life for their plant equipments, and thereby reduce the yearly depreciation payments from which the sinking fund moneys are taken.

"That, for example, it is really in the best interests of the Power Commission to refinance now, at 5.1% or 4% or 3¼ %, an issue which presently carries an interest rate of 2¼ % and does not mature until 1968!

"That it is no business of the Power Commission how its permanent financing may be arranged or rearranged.

"To quote Dr. Fisher's letter: " . . . in . . . answer (to) your suggestion that the proposed arrangement adds $260,000 to your costs—a suggestion to which I take extreme exception, and which in my opinion and that of the Comptroller-General is invalid, and could not be considered on any ground."

"Fortunately this whole pressure play is completely documented throughout. At the time of writing, the proposed interest rate of the new bonds would be 3¼ %, and the additional annual cost of the rearrangement to the customers of the Power Commission would be to the tune of about $215,000 each year at the present time.

"Our resistance to this rearrangement of bond issues has undoubtedly been embarrassing to the Premier. As a result, he has instituted an investigation into high costs in construction carried out by the Power Commission. Certainly such a course is his privilege and indeed his duty, should there be honest doubt regarding our performance.

PREMIER BENNETT DR. J. V. FISHER

TARGET of blistering attack by H. L. Briggs, power commission general manager, today, were the premier, and Dr. Fisher, his economic and financial adviser, who conducted correspondence with Mr. Briggs regarding power commission financing.

"Let no one imagine that the Power Commission has not had its share of high-costing projects in these last three difficult years. Definitely, yes we have struggled with some excessive-costing installations in the same way that the owners of Kemano, Kitimat, Duncan Bay, Alberni, Crofton and the Dease Island tunnel and Mr. John Q. Public have had to struggle with some or many inflated and unreasonable costs.

"If ever the Government or the people of this Province wish to comb through Power Commission projects, they would be well advised to do it adequately and properly by the appointment of some nationally-respected firm of consulting engineers, with whom should be associated some nationally-respected firm of chartered accountants. The sifting process will be costly and a great consumer of time, but I would welcome it gladly for the result it must produce—an abundant disclosure of fantastic work demands on a small group of devoted key people, of difficulties they have overcome, and of the accomplishments which have been achieved in our success to provide electric power in time to meet the needs of the people we are privileged to serve.

EXPECT DENIALS

"When all this information becomes public knowledge, undoubtedly forceful denials and expressions of nothing but good intentions or lack of knowledge will come forth. Nevertheless, the records will remain. These will continue to speak for themselves of the intentions and of the determination with which this infamous course of action is being pushed even at the moment of writing.

"No camouflage explanations can conceal the fact that through higher interest rates, the B.C. Power Commission was to be required to accept an additional yearly cost of about $215,000.

"And the battle is still in progress.

NOT THE FIRST TIME

"The action of the General Manager of the Power Commission, in placing this matter directly before the court of public opinion, is perhaps highly unusual. It obliges him to go on to say that Power Commission customers are already bearing certain improper costs as a result of the fiscal practices of this present government.

"In July of 1955, the Power Commission floated through its lawful fiscal agent (the Minister of Finance) a bond issue of $10,000,000. The syndicate of investment dealers which was awarded the issue required in its bid a fee of $9.23 per thousand dollars of issue, all quite proper and usual. But it was later drawn to our attention that no less than $6,550,000 of the issue had been taken up, I believe at the outset of the offering, by either the Department of Finance itself directly in behalf of various governmental trustees, or with the knowledge or upon the advice of the Department of Finance for the trust funds of various Provincial Commissions and Boards. Yet, at the fee rate stated above, the Power Commission had nevertheless to pay more than $60,000 to the outside syndicate for the purchase of our bonds by Provincial agencies.

"The matter was enquired into, but without any satisfactory explanations.

"Again in September, 1957, the Power Commission floated a $30,000,000 issue. I am informed that Provincial agencies took $10,000,000 of this, largely through the planned conversion of Dominion of Canada bonds. In this instance, the fee of the investment syndicate was $11.50 per thousand dollars. Again, and on this occasion, the Power Commission was charged $115,000 expense re the bond takings of the Provincial agencies. My objections got nowhere.

"When such a practice as this has been called to the direct attention of the responsible public officials, as it has been, and when such a practice is later repeated upon an even grander scale, then it can mean either one of two things.

"Either it signifies gross ineptitude on a grand scale or else it signifies a planned design.

"In my books, to be tagged with either gross ineptitude or design, establishes the clear fact that any man responsibly associated therewith is completely unworthy of public responsibility and trust.

"It is for such reasons that because of my own position of public trust, there seems no sufficiently fast relief other than by a public disclosure of the circumstances.

"In public business there is no substitute for full and complete integrity. And there are no relative degrees of integrity.

"Right now I am in this signed statement calling upon the people of this Province for their help.

"Signed,
H. L. BRIGGS."

BRIGGS GIVES REASONS FOR ACTION

"I have been asked why the release of this distressing information is being made in this manner.

"It is because the time remaining for corrective action has almost run out. Thus far the more ordinary corrective processes have failed to work.

"No member of the Power Commission staff is in any way implicated in these releases. Nor is any aware of more than detached portions of these stories, the responsibility for which is entirely my own.

"The Commissioners are quite unaware of my decision to release this information. They are therefore in a position to deal with this matter and with myself as in their judgment the circumstances may require.

"Since I am doing not one whit less than my duty to the customers of the British Columbia Power Commission and to all the people of this Province, I will not voluntarily resign.

"Last week after a number of disturbing developments at the office and almost a loss of hope, I spent a restless night. After getting up at daylight, I felt unable to do other than on my knees to ask Almighty God for His strength and guidance in dealing with the burden of knowledge whose full significance and implications were growing to such tremendous proportions. I knew then that regardless of personal risk, the matter had to be taken through as rapidly as possible to the tribunal of public opinion.

"After the first pattern of depth charges has been released, I suppose that one could not expect the newspapers to carry a red-hot torch indefinitely, or the radio stations to continue their reiterations. After all, they have to live too.

"If I am discharged from my present position, I have every intention of stumping the platforms of this province until the next election, to let the people know the rancid things that go on here in electric power matters which affect most of the people so vitally. But it shall be done without political affiliation.

"I have no political ambitions whatsoever. I do not propose to run for public office. My whole working life has been in the engineering and the management of public utilities, and I ask for nothing better than to have it remain that way.

"I came to this Province four years ago to inaugurate and to develop a single effective management for the B.C. Power Commission. The time has flashed by, but not without some small measure of success. More than anything else there has grown up an expanding conviction that the way must be found to give the people of this Province a far squarer deal than the great majority of them have yet had from their own power resources.

"At the moment, however, I do now challenge the daily newspapers of British Columbia to carry these statements now released, verbatim and in full.

"Yours faithfully,
H. L. BRIGGS."

Troubles Plague Power Body

Two major upheavals have occurred in the B.C. Power Commission over the past four years.

The first was on March 12, 1954, when the three-man power commission and its chief engineer resigned following investigation of $1,000,000 damage done by mudslides at the Whatshan hydro installation on Lower Arrow Lake in August, 1953.

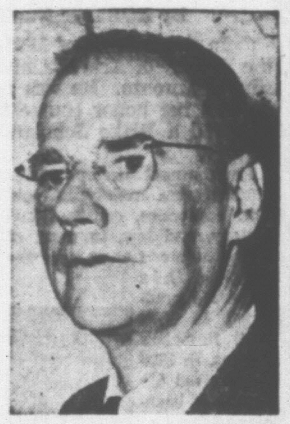

They resigned after a finding of negligence on their part by Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne, a royal commissioner appointed by the government.

Chairman S. R. Weston, Maj. Gen. W. W. Foster, CMG, DSO, VD, and Forrest L. Shaw, OBE, proferred their resignations to the B.C. government as a matter of form after the report was released and these were accepted.

Chief Engineer A. W. Lash handed his resignation to the commission and this also was accepted.

A few days later T. H. Crosby was appointed chairman in succession to Mr. Weston and he has served ever since.

Mr. Justice Clyne was commissioned in September, 1953, to seek the causes of the Whatshan mudslides. After hearing 25 witnesses in 22 days of evidence, and visiting the slide area, he ruled that the three commissioners and the chief engineer knew, or should have known, that the plant was in danger for two years before the slides.

S. R. WESTON
. . . quit over slide

He found that they had failed to try to avert them.

Subsequently Premier Bennett said in the legislature:

"Accepting these resignations is the toughest job I have had since I became premier."

He said the resignations were made voluntarily.

Mr. Weston, born at Upper Gagetown, N.B., in 1899, became chairman of the B.C. Power Commission, with a salary of $12,000 a year, in April, 1945. He was formerly chief engineer of the B.C. Utilities Commission.

occurred late in September when the Vancouver Province published an item hinting at the transfer.

The Premier had made violent denials at that time. (In fact a suit for $1,000,000 was threatened against the Province by the Premier.)

"It would be interesting to learn why, a few days later the Vancouver Province retracted the entire story in every particular," Mr. Briggs said.

He explained that in the early years of the power commission (1945 to 1952), the provincial government borrowed by sale of bonds sums of money to finance the new power development and distribution program. Mr. Briggs established this amount as $32,025,000.

Proceeds and obligations for repayment were transferred to the power commission.

Now, said Mr. Briggs, the premier and his advisors propose this set up be completely re-arranged. The power commission is asked to make new borrowings to turn over to the government an amount equal to the unrepaid portion of the original loans.

The increased interest charges now demanded by bond markets would mean the increase of $215,000 in expense to the commission.

This will ". . . impose large extra annual and total costs which can only be paid for by each and every one of the commission's customers . . ."

He said, at a meeting in the premier's office Sept. 22 the commission learned the refinancing would mean payment of interest rates of 5.1 per cent, whereas the interest rate still being paid on the original borrowings averaged 3.1 per cent.

The commission was given a choice of reborrowing in the open market or re-issuing a new series of 4 per cent bonds to be taken up by other government agencies, ". . . as their funds become available."

At the same time, the original bond issue would still claim interest payment by the commission. The new borrowings would be used to establish a sinking fund which would counter the original debt on a balance sheet, and in effect wipe out the provincial obligation.

Mr. Briggs mentioned while this was under study the news leak occurred and the denials were issued by the premier.

"The strong emphasis to and the threatenings of his denials, indicate clearly his full appreciation of what is right and what is wrong," Mr. Briggs added.

He said the power commission asked him, as general manager, to try to persuade the government financial advisor, Dr. Fisher, to amend this course of action. Talks ended in "an inconclusive draw."

They brought a letter from Dr. Fisher in "vehement vein."

As a result, said Mr. Briggs, "I feel that my own intelligence, the intelligence of Commission accounting people and the intelligence of the people of British Columbia, has been insulted . . ."

The government asked, he said, that people believe 4 or 3¾ per cent interest is no more costly than 3.1 per cent interest.

The government asks the figures on estimated life of plant equipment be extended to decrease yearly depreciation payments, and claims refinancing at higher cost would be in best interests of the power commission.

Dr. Fisher told him in a letter, the suggestion the refinancing would add $260,000 to current BCPC costs is invalid and "could not be considered on any ground."

But Mr. Briggs replied, "Fortunately, this whole pressure play is completely documented throughout . . ."

Mr. Briggs said that because this is embarrassing to the premier, the premier has launched investigation into high construction costs in commission projects. The general manager admits to high costs but said they are general.

He said an investigation would be welcomed, but he asked it be done by a nationally known firm of consulting engineers and a firm of chartered accountants.

He felt it would disclose " . . . fantastic work demands on a small group of devoted key people," and accomplishment.

Mr. Briggs said it wasn't the first time he has objected to provincial financial policies which affect the commission.

He said in July 1955 the commission floated a $10,000,000 bond issue. A syndicate of investment dealers was awarded the issue with a bid fee of $9.23 per thousand.

The department of finance or other government agencies took up $6,550,000 of the new bonds. The commission had to pay $60,000 to the outside syndicate in order that other provincial agencies could purchase the bonds.

"The matter was enquired into but without any satisfactory explanations."

In September 1957, a $30,000,000 bond issue by the commission was authorized and provincial agencies took $10,000,000. The syndicate was paid $11.50 per thousand, the BCPC paying $115,000 to private firms for use of provincial government money.

"My objections got nowhere."

He said when responsible public officials ignore such things, "it signifies either gross ineptitude, on a grand scale, or else it signifies a planned design.

"In my books, to be tagged with either gross ineptitude or design, establishes the clear fact that any man responsibly associated therewith is completely unworthy of public responsibility and trust."

He added, "There is no substitute for full and complete integrity. And there are no relative degrees of integrity. . ."

Prairie Woman's Death Mourned By City Survivors

Mrs. Mary Suffern, who died recently at St. Joseph's Hospital, Macklin, Sask., is survived by three children in Victoria—Mrs. Rose Medland, Mrs. Edith Laughren and Fred Suffern.

Mrs. Suffern, aged 76, was born at Battleford, Sask., and married John A. Suffern in June 1901. They had eight children. Mr. Suffern died on July 26 last.

Funeral services for Mrs. Suffern were held in Senlac United Church, Sask., last Tuesday followed by interment at Hatley Memorial Gardens, Victoria, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Suffern gave many priceless relics of Saskatchewan' early days to the museum at Battleford, among them a picture of Fort Garry painted by a young Indian boy around the beginning of the century.

College Cadets Form Guard At War Memorial

QUALICUM BEACH — The Qualicum College Cadet Corps provided the guard of honor at the War Memorial for the Remembrance Day service on Tuesday, and paraded along with veterans and other service groups.

For the first time NCO's of the corps were in Scottish uniform, and a donation by the local Legion branch will aid in outfitting the corps in kilts.

The corps is affiliated with the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's).

MANY HONORS CAME TO BRIGGS

Top Scholastic Record

Herbert Lee Briggs was appointed general manager of the British Columbia Power Commission, Feb. 1, 1955.

The post of general manager was recommended by a royal commission in 1954.

Mr. Briggs came to B.C. from Winnipeg, where he was general manager of Winnipeg hydro-electric system.

He had an outstanding record in the scholastic and utility field in his native province of Manitoba.

Born in Killarney, he was awarded the Governor-General's Medal when he graduated from high school in 1919. After taking a first-year arts course at Wesley College (where he won the Memorial Scholarship), he worked for 2½ years in a bank, then took some Normal School training and taught public school for a year.

After receiving scholarships each year at the University of Manitoba, he graduated in 1928 with a degree of Bachelor of Science in electrical engineering, magna cum laude, and was awarded the university gold medal in electrical engineering.

He joined the staff of the Winnipeg hydro-electric system on graduation and progressed steadily through the engineering, construction and operating divisions of that utility.

In 1952, he became general manager.

The following year, he was appointed a member of the City of Winnipeg finance committee's advisory group.

Mr. Briggs is a keen Rotarian and snaps near-professional 35 mm color pictures, which are always in demand for showing to employees, whenever he is on tour of the far-flung B.C. Power Commission system.

He is married and has three children, two sons, who have also pursued engineering careers, and a daughter, at college.

Socreds Helped By Bribe Case Bennett Claims

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier Bennett returned from an Arizona holiday Tuesday and told interviewers here there is no need for a general election in British Columbia.

The Social Credit premier said the result of the Sommers bribery-conspiracy trial has strengthened his party's position with the people.

Mr. Bennett also said he thought it "very wise to have an immediate byelection in Rossland-Trail," the seat left vacant by the resignation of former lands minister Robert E. Sommers, who stands convicted of conspiracy, and accepting bribes.

In Mr. Bennett's absence the provincial cabinet set Dec. 15 as the date of the byelection.

When asked what effect Sommers' conviction would have on the Social Credit party, Mr. Bennett said "If anything, it has strengthened us."

Mr. Bennett said: "When the people know everything we have done on this case, they'll realize we have a government without fear or favor.

"Once they thought there was a law for cabinet ministers and a law for the people who sweep the streets."

Three of Great Britain's leading businessmen are among the directors of the new power company. They are:

Sir Andrew MacTaggart, 70, chairman and managing director of Power Securities Corporation Limited;

Earl Alexander of Tunis, 73, former governor-general of Canada, Allied commander-in-chief, North Africa, Second World War, twice First Lord of the Admiralty;

Lord Tweedsmuir, 47, son of a former governor-general of Canada and president of Commonwealth and British Empire chambers of commerce, 1955. He spent several winters in the Canadian Arctic with the Hudson's Bay Company.

Deputy chairman of the firm is Bernard G. Gore, general manager, Wenner-Gren B.C. Development Company.

Named as directors were: W. W. H. Hill-Wood, London; Birger Strid, chairman Wenner-Gren Foundation, London; Einar M. Gunderson, executive vice-president of Pacific Great Eastern Railway, Vancouver; Brig. W. C. Murphy, director Wenner-Gren B.C. Development Company, Vancouver; Ralph Chantrill, engineering consultant British Thompson-Houston group; A. Bruce Robertson, general solicitor B.C. Electric; George Cunningham, president of a Vancouver drug company; Senator S. S. McKeen, chairman board of Union Steamships Limited and A. F. McAlpine, retired general superintendent Royal Bank of Canada.

Mr. Mainwaring said that preliminary engineering studies indicate the Peace River power delivered at Vancouver will be cheaper than power from any other hydro development in B.C. because of the largest amount of power made available in one installation.

Transmission lines from the dam site to Vancouver, about 550 miles long, will traverse many miles of prairie and light-timbered country and for that reason will not be subject to other than usual maintenance costs, he said.

"If continued engineering studies substantiate preliminary findings, as we fully expect they will, the biggest power project ever undertaken anywhere in the world will result," he said.

Output compares with a total of 2,645,000 horsepower from Grand Coulee and 1,670,000 horsepower from Hoover Dam.

Premier to Meet Dief on Columbia

He also disclosed that he will meet with Prime Minister Diefenbaker in Ottawa Dec. 20 to "press for expedition on negotiations pertaining to Columbia River hydro development."

He said he was confident "we'll get both the Columbia and Peace River development now. The Peace is the best chance for B.C. and Canada to get a good deal on the Columbia. The U.S. might think we're bluffing but we're not."

He added: "We want development in both the Kootenays and the north, in all areas of the province. No area must lag behind another. That is why we want the earliest possible decision on the Columbia."

Canada and the U.S. have not reached agreement on the portion of downstream benefits to be returned to Canada.

Mr. Bennett said that on his visit to Ottawa he will be accompanied by Robert Bonner, in his portfolio as minister of trade and industry, lands and forests minister Ray Williston, Dr. Jack Fisher, provincial government economic adviser, and forestry adviser Gordon Sloan.

"It must be done at a national level, but the benefits we want in B.C. from the Columbia are a share of the new power that the eight U.S. installations would receive, a share of the 'firm' power that would be made firm by construction of Mica Creek dam and compensation for flood control benefits as given by B.C.," the premier said.

'I'm Glad British Money Coming'

The premier said the proposed Wenner-Gren development is "no giveaway."

"What Wenner-Gren has in writing is known to everyone. But I'm glad that so much British money and British people with British brains are coming into this scheme."

The premier continued: "You know the complaints about American money taking over Canada. Well, now the other parties are starting to complain again. They always try to smear the people who are getting things done.

"But if we don't move on the Peace, we won't have the power to see B.C. become the great province it will become. More people are coming here. They will need power.

"We're tied up on the Taku River, we're tied up on the Fraser and on the Columbia. The Peace is our trump card."

Teller Caught After Nightclub Spree in U.S.

DENVER (CP) — Canadian officers have arrived here to take custody of a young bank teller who went on a fling through the West with what authorities say was a fortune in stolen money.

"I went to a lot of night clubs and kept high most of the time on champagne, vodka and beer," said Boyne Johnston, 25, of Renfrew, Ont., charged with theft of $260,000 from the Imperial Bank of Canada branch in Ottawa where he was senior teller.

"I knew I would be caught, but I didn't think much about the consequences," he was quoted as telling Denver officers following his arrest Monday night in Denver's Chez Paree night club.

Inspector Ab Cavan and detective Gordon Lowry of the Ottawa Police Department arrived by air Tuesday night to return Johnston, who said he will not contest the extradition warrant they hold.

RECOVER $230,000

Denver Police Captain C. V. Stanley, who said Johnston signed a written statement regarding the October 24 Ottawa robbery, estimated that "in the vicinity of $230,000" was found in Johnston's room at the YMCA here.

Stanley said the Canadian related he transferred the stolen money from a bank vault to a large canvas sack after the bank closed at 6 p.m., October 24. He and his wife, Bernice, 23, who Johnston said had no knowledge of the robbery plan, then drove to the home of her parents in Renfrew.

Johnston left his wife there, telling her he was going deer hunting. When he didn't return, Mrs. Johnston notified authorities. She later reported finding $7,000 in a bedroom of her parents' home.

The police captain said Johnston told him he flew to Windsor, Ont., stuffed $35,000 to $40,000 in his pockets and took a taxi across the International Bridge to Detroit.

Then he gave the cab driver $20 and waited in a bar for him while he picked up the suitcase containing the rest of the money and brought it to him from Windsor.

Johnston's travels took him as far West as Los Angeles and he also stopped off at Salt Lake City, Twin Falls, Idaho, and Cheyenne, Wyoming—where he made a call to an accountant at the bank but vanished before Cheyenne officers could pick up his trail.

The Canadian came to Denver last week, police said, and was arrested on a tip from two girl employees of the night club, where he was watching a strip-tease act and drinking champagne.

WAITRESS SPOTTED

Police had distributed "wanted" posters bearing Johnston's photograph, and Geneva Jowers, 28, saw one and described it to Ormonde Wynn, 27, who happened to wait on Johnston's table.

Stanley said he doesn't know who might receive a $10,000 reward offered by a Canadian bonding company. He said he understands the company is leaving the question to the discretion of Ottawa police.

The Denver officer described Johnston as a nice-looking fellow who "seems relieved that we caught him." Johnston told detectives: "I just wanted to know what it would be like to have that much money at one time—and I found out."

Cassiar Road Pact Signed With Ottawa

OTTAWA (UPI) — Formal agreement was announced today between Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton and British Columbia Mines Minister W. K. Kiernan for the construction of 255-mile Stewart-Cassiar road in interior B.C.

The B.C. agreement was said by officials here to be the first to be signed under the new federal-provincial "roads to resources" program.

Under the terms of the pact both governments will contribute equally to the cost of the highway, which will open to development the resources of a large and hitherto comparatively inaccessible region of northwest B.C.

Exploratory work already carried out by the geological survey of Canada has indicated that the area has a rich mineral potential.

The Stewart-Cassiar road, Mines Minister Kiernan said today, will be of considerable benefit to the existing asbestos mining operations at Cassiar by very substantially reducing transportation costs for equipment moving in and for outgoing shipment of the mining product. The mines minister said the road also will provide access to tidewater for much of the area east of the Alaska panhandle.

SYRIA, JORDAN IN NEW CLASH

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Local press reports said today a Syrian customs corporal was wounded in a 90-minute clash on the Syrian-Jordanian frontier on Tuesday. The reports termed the incident "provocative aggression" by the Jordanians.

Labor Retains British Seat; Tory Vote Off

PONTYPOOL, Wales (Reuters)—The opposition Labor party retained a "safe" Parliamentary seat Tuesday in a by-election result that demonstrated a continuing slump in the Conservative government's electoral prospects.

Labor candidates Leo Abse won the Pontypool seat with 20,000 votes, beating Conservative candidate, who got 6,273 votes, and a representative of the Welsh Nationalist movement who polled 2,927.

The last election in the constituency was in the general elections of 1955, when it was a straight fight between Labor and Conservatives. Labor polled 26,372 and the Conservatives 9,800.

TORIES DECLINE

The Conservatives' share of the total votes declined by 5.6 percentage points compared with 1955. The Labor poll also fell by 4.5 points. Socialists noted that the fall in their actual majority coincided roughly with the vote polled by the Welsh nationalists.

The contest was caused by the recent bestowal of a life peerage on D. Granville West, the former Labor member.

Posthumous Award to Noted Square Dancer

The Silver Spur, an award for unselfish service to square dancing, has been made posthumously to the late John Mooney of Victoria.

Mr. Mooney, who died in January, 1957, was largely responsible for laying the groundwork for today's square dancing on Vancouver Island. Nearly 2,000 dancers participated in the Spring Roundup at Memorial Arena.

The Silver Spur plaque was presented to his widow, Mrs. Alice Mooney, by Dai MacLeod representing "Sets in Order," the square dance magazine published in Los Angeles.

IS IT WORTH IT? ASKS 'TRENCH' EXPERT

'Inland Sea' to Inundate Rich, Habitable Northland

By HAL MALONE

If Premier Bennett allows Axel Wenner-Gren and cohorts to build the "world's largest dam" on the Peace River, B.C.'s rich northland will become an inland sea, lost forever to a potential 500,000 settlers.

Whatever Wenner-Gren interests propose in the way of dams designed to create a giant power source, the Premier should stop "bamboozling" the public. He should reveal "the truth" about the project for all B.C. to know.

This is the considered opinion of hunter, trapper, fisherman, prospector, homesteader, novelist Raymond M. Patterson of Sidney.

If Premier Bennett is an expert on political matters, Mr. Patterson is an expert on the Rocky Mountain Trench—the piece of real estate at which Swedish millionaire Axel Wenner-Gren and four other companies (including the B.C. Electric) have been casting covetous glances. By damming the Peace with the world's largest hunk of concrete they envision a yield of 4,000,000 horsepower.

Is It Worth It?

Mr. Patterson doesn't dispute the yield. But his grey moustache bristles in step with his disposition when he asks, "Is it worth the power to ruin forever the only unoccupied habitable land west of the Rockies?" Without waiting for an answer, he says, emphatically, "NO."

He feels that Attorney-General Robert Bonner, the Premier's echo, erred when he described the 270-mile artificial lake which would be created by the dam as "fantastic."

"He should have said fantastically foolish," Mr. Patterson says.

Every creek, crick, valley and lake in the Trench is as well known to the angular, straightforward Patterson as the tender spots of Robert Strachan and Arthur Laing are known — and prodded — by Premier Bennett.

Knows the Country

Raymond M. Patterson homesteaded 30 years ago in the tiny settlement of North Star, about 80 miles north of the town of Peace River in northern Alberta. Since, he has portaged the rivers of the Peace, Mackenzie, Liard, Parsnip and Finlay. He has gone up and down the Rocky Mountain trench by practically every means possible — on foot, by horse, river boat, airplane.

A man-made lake, created by damming the Peace as the Peace River Power Development Corporation proposes, would not be worth the price —"any price" — its power would yield.

Why?

"Because the Trench contains timber, minerals and meadowland. Placer gold mining has been going on for years. Hundreds of creeks and small rivers make it a sportsman's paradise. Wild game abounds. Little agriculture has been undertaken but the soil is generally good. An artificial lake would end all that forever."

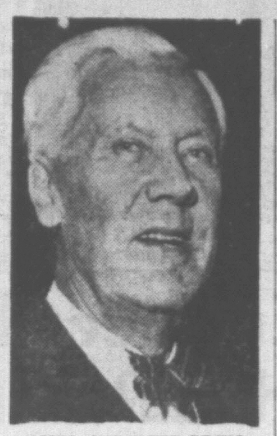

'Northwest Passage'

His description of the Trench sounds like a passage from the book, "Northwest Passage." It should. He wrote the book, hailed by many as a colorful, authoritative story of B.C.'s vast and unknown northland.

The Trench is a remarkably straight cordillera (mountain range) which "would have made a better route for the Alaska Highway than the present one starting across the Trench at Dawson Creek."

Mr. Patterson says that its valley and the valley west of the conflux of the Liard and Kechika rivers, north of the Peace River, are the only wide remaining areas in the north which could be made habitable by settlers.

"Mr. Bennett doesn't know what he's talking about when he tells people the north is the place to go and then proclaims the Wenner-Gren power proposals on the Peace a momentous thing," says Mr. Patterson.

AXEL WENNER-GREN

Can't Have Both

"You can't have both. The only land that would be left for settlement if they dammed the Peace is across the Trench, north of Fort St. John. It's practically all swamp and muskeg. I know, I remember travelling across it once with pack horses. A horse owned by my companion, Angus Beaton, sank up to his neck in muskeg. We pried him out by putting trees under his belly and lifting him, inch by inch. It was in October and we had to work in cold water."

If Wenner-Gren and Peace River Power Development do dam the Peace, Mr. Patterson would like to know where Wenner-Gren's monorail will be built.

"Are they going to hang it from the mountain tops? That's the only place left for it if they create that artificial lake."

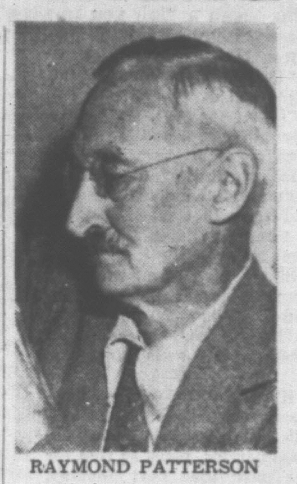

Flood Hart Highway

Mr. Bennett may not be aware of it but such a lake would also mean that travellers on the Hart Highway and the Prince George-Dawson Creek section of the PGE would have to don skin-diving equipment.

Sections of the highway and the rail line near McLeod and Trout Lakes are extremely low and would be "drowned" by a man-made lake, he says.

The Trench and adjacent western valleys have "magnificent possibilities" as a recreation area, he claims.

"If the government improved roads from this part of the province into Prince George and beyond it, the whole Trench could become an ideal playground," Patterson says.

RAYMOND PATTERSON

He scoffed at reports that the dam is projected "in the vicinity of Dawson Creek."

Impossible Site

"That's impossible. The two most likely places on the Peace are at Hudson Hope and just east of the point where the Parsnip and the Finlay flow into it."

The power potential of the Peace is hardly new, points out Mr. Patterson. It was discussed at some length by George Smith, a B.C. land surveyor, at the eighth Natural Resources convention in 1955.

He said a 484-foot dam on the Peace where it crosses the Rockies would develop 1,000,000 horsepower at Giscome Rapids near Prince George. Providing adequate dam sites were available, the water of the Peace developed along the Fraser between Prince George and Lytton could create an additional 4,000,000 horsepower, Smith said. He made the basic surveys for Kitimat and Kemano.

Far-Fetched Scheme

At that time, Emil Bronlund, a mining engineer, described the scheme as "far-fetched." Mr. Patterson concurs. Like Mr. Bronlund, author Patterson thinks northern B.C., representing more than half the area of the province, "deserves more attention from qualified people."

"I know that I could ask the Premier any number of questions about the area and he couldn't answer them," says Patterson.

Well, Mr. Premier?

Ottawa Denies Douk Request

He said there has never been a request from the sect that the government negotiate the migration movement.

HOUSE CHEERS CHURCHILL

LONDON (Reuters) — Cheers rang out in the House of Commons Tuesday when former prime minister Sir Winston Churchill entered the House for the first time since the new session started Oct. 28.

CABINET DISCUSSES ACTION

Rail Strike Set for Dec. 1

OTTAWA (CP)—Threat of a national railway strike was discussed by the cabinet today.

Acting Prime Minister Green made this known as he entered a morning cabinet session with Labor Minister Starr and Transport Minister Hees.

The railways' 135,000 non-operating employees announced in Montreal Tuesday that they will strike Dec. 1 if wage demands are not met.

Strike notice was served on the railways Tuesday on behalf of 15 railway unions representing the non-ops. The unions threatened to tie up both transcontinental carriers as well as several smaller lines.

Frank H. Hall, chief negotiator for the unions, announced the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways were advised by letter that barring settlement, the strike will start Monday, Dec. 1, at 6 a.m. regional standard time.

RAILWAYS SILENT

There was no immediate reaction from the railways. A railway management meeting was scheduled for today, but it was not known whether this concerned the strike notice.

Settlement of the wage dispute hinges on a board of transport commissioners' ruling on a railway application for a 19 per cent freight rate increase.

The railways promised to settle with the unions if they got the full rate boost—estimated to be worth $60,000,000 a year.

If the impending strike goes through, it would be the second big railway strike this year and fourth since 1950.

LAST STRIKE IN 1950

The non-ops—workers who do not actually operate trains—last went on strike in 1950 to back demands for a five-day week. It was ended after 11 days when Parliament intervened. The firemen's union went on strike against the CPR for nine days in January, 1957, and again for three days in May, this year.

No immediate preventive federal government action is expected on the Dec. 1 strike call.

Informants in Ottawa said the government is almost certain to hold off any action until the board of transport commissioners has handed down its decision on the railways' application for a freight rate increase.

The idea would be to see whether the companies get an increase that would cause them to settle with the unions before the strike date.

The unions have accepted a conciliation board majority report that recommended a 14-cent hourly wage increase in three installments over a two-year contract. When negotiations opened a year ago the unions demanded an increase of 35 cents an hour.

During subsequent negotiations the railways maintained they could not afford an increase without getting an equivalent freight rate increase.

BEFORE PEACE RIVER PROJECT STARTS—GREEN

Columbia Agreement in One Year?

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Sun says acting prime minister Howard Green indicated Monday Ottawa will back Columbia River power development before Wenner-Gren interests undertake their Peace River project.

The newspaper also says a federal government power engineer backed up Mr. Green's stand, saying Ottawa and Washington can work out a firm agreement to develop the Columbia within one year.

Mr. Green is quoted as saying the federal government will do nothing to hold up negotiations with the United States.

Mr. Green was asked by the Sun if the federal government would approve a "power" export licence for Wenner-Gren power, and he replied:

"That is 10 years away. We are anxious to see the Columbia power project started."

The Columbia plan calls for the construction of a giant dam on Mica or Murphy Creek, and controlled water would then be sent to the U.S. The electricity would be developed on the American side, and then distributed to greater Vancouver and lower mainland areas through the northwest power grid. It would not be necessary to build transmission lines to Vancouver.

The Wenner-Gren project would involve a dam on the Peace River, with a potential of 4,000,000 horsepower, at a cost of $400,000,000 to $600,000,000.

THIS WORLD OF OURS

People and Things

BIRMINGHAM, Eng.—A 43-year-old clergyman who began a "lull you to sleep" telephone service confessed today he now is unable to sleep himself.

Rev John Thomas said:

"The telephone is ringing all night and every night.

"I am praying for extra strength and a bedside extension."

He is minister of the All-Nations (Evangelical) Church and tries to send people off to sleep by giving them spiritual advice.

Since his plan was announced last Thursday, he has had 200 calls — 50 for general advice, 50 from would-be suicides and 100 "can't-sleepers."

HOLLYWOOD — Leona Gage, who lost her Miss U.S.A. title when officials found she was married, plans to wed for the third time next Monday.

Miss Gage, 22, now a show girl at the Moulin Rouge night club here, will marry Nick Covacevich, 22, who also dances at the club.

SEATTLE—Australia's Ambassador Howard Beale says he knew all along Americans are helpful people "but I hadn't realized how helpful until I came to Seattle."

The ambassador tells this story:

As the car drove into Seattle with the patrolman following at a discreet distance, Beale was startled to see another car draw alongside and the driver gesture urgently.

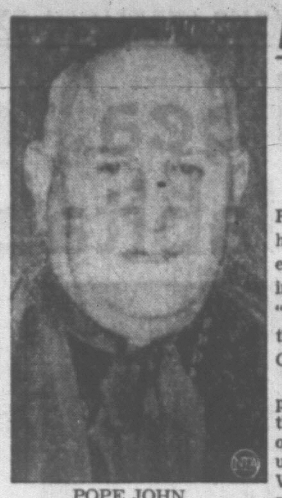

Beale rolled down the window.

"Psst," said the man. "Thought you'd like to know. There's a state cop following you."

AKRON, Ohio — An Akron gypsy was accused Monday of larceny by trick because the daughter he sold for $2,500 under old gypsy custom fled her bridegroom after spending only 15 minutes with him.

Ruby Lupa Cooper, 17, the girl at the centre of the dispute involving two gypsy clans, was in seclusion at the home of her father, Joe Cooper.

Alex W. Golly of Youngstown, stepfather of the disappointed groom, accused Cooper in court of accepting payment for the bride while knowing that Ruby would not stay with the groom, Steven Nicholous, 16. They were married Oct. 27.

POPE JOHN

DISAPPOINTED NO PICTURES AT AUDIENCE

John D. Meets 'Affable, Kindly' Pope

But the Canadian leader expressed disappointment that there was no pictorial record of the event. Through a misunderstanding, the official Vatican photographer took no pictures of the meeting in the frescoed papal apartments.

"I see now why they elected him pope," Diefenbaker said. "He is so affable, so kindly, so paternal that he immediately wins the heart of anyone who has the good fortune to come in contact with him."

CANADIAN PRELATE

The prime minister and Mrs. Diefenbaker, who wore a black dress and veil, were accompanied in the audience by Msgr. Willam Carew of St. John's, Nfld., a prelate in the Vatican secretary of state's office.

Speaking to reporters of his impressions of the Pope, Diefenbaker said:

"He has a very benign, amiable personality and his dedication is to peace. He is a man of peace and deep humility and tolerance . . ."

The prime minister said their discussion, carried on through an interpreter, dealt with Canada and with world affairs in general.

TALKS POSTPONED

The Canadian leader was scheduled to have a 45-minute talk with Premier and Foreign Minister Amintore Fanfani following the papal audience but a special meeting of the Italian cabinet forced postponement of the discussions until early afternoon.

The Canadian prime minister and his party planned a sight-seeing trip of Rome afterward before leaving for Karachi on the next stage of his world tour.

Engineer Lack Hits RCAF Plans

And he adds that it won't be prepared until it gets its share of Canada's graduate engineers.

Sqdn. Ldr. J. H. Woodrow, a Second World War observer, now stationed at Gimli, Man., makes the statement in an article in the just-published 1958 Journal of the RCAF Staff College.

"The recruiting situation for graduate engineers has become so desperate that even our advertising has become misleading," Sqdn. Ldr. Woodrow writes.

RCAF advertisements proclaimed that opportunities for electrical engineers were "unlimited". This was "simply not true".

In the RCAF, technical personnel could act as staff advisers only in their particular technical speciality, but could not have a voice in policy matters.

Sqdn. Ldr. Woodrow says the situation regarding recruitment of engineering officers has become so bad that only one Canadian with a university degree entered the RCAF Aeronautical Engineering School in the 1957-58 fiscal year.

"The service RCAF must be concerned indeed if it is willing to shade the truth in its recruiting advertising," he writes.

". . . The only valid conclusion is that the RCAF is not offering to the young Canadian engineering graduate a worthwhile career in comparison with civilian industry."

LESS PAY

Technical officers now were paid $100 less a month than aircrew officers and the latter, as a rule, did less work. And the only personnel trained for top management jobs were aircrew, especially pilots.

U.S. Attack From Moon Bases Feared by Russia

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The Soviet Union charged today the United States has "nightmarish" plans to set up military bases on the moon to launch massive attacks on Soviet cities.

The Soviet charge came from Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin as the United Nations' 81-nation political committee opened debate on the problem of space control.

Zorin told the committee that the Soviet Union could not agree to any international program for the peaceful uses of outer space unless the United States pledged itself to liquidate all its foreign military bases.

REPEATED DEMANDS

He repeated previous Soviet demands for a ban on the use of inter-continental ballistic missiles and other space weapons as another condition to any co-operation in space experiments such as the United States is urging.

The key to the whole problem, he said, is to adopt measures which will take into account the security of all sides on an equal basis.

Chief U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge said the U.S. position would be set forth in detail later, but he accused Zorin of distorting the U.S. position. He charged Zorin was deliberately trying to mislead the committee.

Shortly after the 81-country committee wound up its discussion of the Korea problem Tuesday with a voting victory recorded for the Western principle of free elections in that divided country, there were reports that American delegation members were meeting privately with the Russians in an attempt to reach some broad agreement on the outspace issue.

By late evening it became apparent that no such preliminary agreement was in the cards, and that the space issue would inevitably be linked with the disarmament question.

A U.S. spokesman told the Associated Press that the Russians apparently were seeking a full-dress UN debate before putting themselves even off the record as being in agreement with the West.

UN CORRESPONDENCE

By STANLEY BURKE

Power From the Sun

NEW YORK—One-third of Canada is covered by desert.

This little-known fact makes UN research on solar energy of particular interest to Canadians. Deserts are the poorest parts of the world, but they are rich in one resource —sunshine—and many scientists are optimistic that eventually this resource will be a major factor in making them productive.

Burke

The Canadian desert covers approximately one million square miles, the one-third of Canada lying north of the timberline. It is the world's northernmost desert. It's also the world's wettest desert—quite literally a desert covered by lakes. Along with the Russian desert, it is the world's coldest desert and this makes energy sources of particular importance.

At the moment fuel for the Canadian desert is carried north at great cost by water or air. Ultimately it's hoped that energy will be supplied by nuclear reactors, by northern oil, or perhaps by solar furnaces.

Stimulation of solar energy research is mentioned as one of the objects behind an American resolution submitted to the United Nations calling for an international effort to speed world development. One of the proposals advanced in the American resolution is for stepped-up scientific co-operation, and American spokesmen pointed to solar energy research as a logical starting point.

Harnessing of solar energy has already progressed past the experimental stage. A publication put out by UNESCO reports that in France solar furnaces are being used to produce 60 kilograms of zirconia daily, a material used in high-temperature furnaces. Under construction is a new furnace with a heat-collecting mirror 11 stories high which will produce 2,400 kilograms daily.

Soviet scientists have plans for a solar energy station powered by five acres of mirrors rolling on 15 circular railroad tracks, one inside the other. The mirrors will roll around these tracks, following the sun, and concentrating its rays on a boiler set on a 130-foot tower. The UNESCO publication reports that Soviet scientists estimate that the 1,300 mirrors will collect enough solar energy to generate 2.5 million kilowatt hours of electricity annually.

In Israel, a solar-powered chemical factory is now being built to produce fertilizers and insecticides.

In the United States, solar-heated homes have been built in both hot, sunny Arizona and in Maine, a state with an essentially Canadian climate.

"Not so many years from now, houses around the world may be heated (or cooled) by a furnace situated some 93 million miles away," said the UNESCO editors, reporting on the American experiments.

Already on the market is a solar-powered portable radio which sells for only slightly more than conventional battery models. When the sun isn't shining, or for use inside, the radio uses conventional power sources.

Like the French, American firms are making solar-powered water heaters and 5,000 have so far been sold in the U.S.

An unusual use for the new power source is to operate distilleries. Solar stills are now being operated by a French firm to turn out man's most important commodity—water. One hundred and fifty solar stills are being operated in the Sahara Desert, where the price of distilled water has been cut to a fraction of its former price.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Are London Papers 'Trivial?'

LONDON—Over the past few months I've noticed a fellow who has been coming regularly into our local coffee shop.

He's an Indian (the sort from India, not from North America) in his twenties, and with him has been a blonde young lady whom I concluded must live somewhere in the area. Judging by his manner and the way he dresses I concluded he must have money. And this was borne out by his car, which he would park outside the coffee shop—a dazzling scarlet-colored Thunderbird.

Reyburn

Apart from noticing these things about him I didn't give him any more thought, just putting him down as a type of Indian you see a lot of around London—they're well-to-do and seem to regard it as a matter of great pride to be seen escorting a white girl, especially a blonde.

Well, now what happens? This young Indian turns out to be Prince Shiv of Palitana and all of a sudden he's the talk of the town.

Reason for this is that after 10 days' acquaintance with him, the four-time married Eva Bartok announced that they are to be married.

Now, an accusation constantly flung at the press of London (the so-called "popular" press, not the serious-minded Times and Telegraph) is that it is preoccupied with the trivial. If ever there was fodder for those who make such an accusation it is this matter of Eva Bartok and Prince Shiv of Palitana.

Over the past few days the newspapers here have been suffering from an embarrassment of riches. Not only has there been a good solid news story of BOAC trying to rush through the setting up of the first Atlantic daily jet service in the face of a crippling strike. There has also been the first visit of a German head of state to this country since pre-First World War days.

As if that wasn't enough to keep the front pages busy, Frank Sinatra hits town and starts dating American-born Lady Beatty. Then along come Eva and her prince. And, by the way of bearing out what those who deride the popular press say, it is little Eva who has been getting the big play.

How does this film actress rate precedence? Her legitimate achievements amount to appearing in a number of films without raising a ripple of excitement from critics or public. Her other achievements amount to having, after the termination of four unsuccessful marriages, a daughter of whom she won't name the father.

Why her new marriage plans come under the heading of a bombshell is that they don't encompass her constant companion, the Marquis of Milford Haven, but instead our friend from the local coffee shop.

It may be merely coincidence, but Hungarian Eva Bartok is just completing her first big British film, which will be released any time now. I understand the producers are resisting the temptation to retitle it "Indian Love Call."

'Up to You Now' Douks Tell Ottawa

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three leaders of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect said Tuesday it is up to the Canadian government to start negotiations with Russia for the group's proposed migration to Siberia.

They said the sect has "received the private assurances we want and we are satisfied that the USSR has accepted us." They said a telegram was also sent to Moscow asking the Russian government to advise Canada the Freedomites are acceptable.

The three leaders added: "We have turned in the forms and done everything the Canadian government asked us to—the next move is theirs."

The trio—Bill Moojelsky of Shoreacres, Joe Podovinikoff of Hilliers and Peter Elasoff, Sr., of Krestova—were interviewed in Vancouver.

Moojelsky said he asked Justice Minister Fulton last month in Ottawa to have the federal government approach Russia.

Elasoff said: "If the governments here are being honest and sincere they will approach the Russians."

The sect delivered 2,400 citizenship renunciation forms to government offices in Vancouver Friday to gain a federal-provincial offer to financial assistance in their proposed moves. But spokesmen in Ottawa and Victoria said all negotiations now await word from Russia.

Meanwhile, a new Freedomite communication is on the way to Mr. Fulton and Attorney-General Bonner asking for the release of the 60 children held in the New Denver government school because their Freedomite parents refused to send them to public school.

Seamen's Dispute Involving SIU Studied by CLC

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Labor Congress Tuesday took under advisement charges of raiding made by two of its seamen's affiliates against a third, the Seafarer's International Union.

Complaints by the National Association of Marine Engineers and the Canadian Merchant Service Guild were aired at a meeting here before Claude Jodoin, CLC president.

Mr. Jodoin said after the closed meeting the complaints will be processed according to the CLC constitution and a decision announced at a later meeting with the unions involved.

U.S. Rejects South Korea Withdrawal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has rejected new Red Chinese demands for the withdrawal of Allied forces from South Korea. A spokesman indicated that the U.S. feared such action might invite new Communist aggression.

The spokesman, Joseph W. Reap, also said that if the Communists sincerely wanted a Korean settlement they would agree to free elections, conducted under United Nations supervision, to reunite the divided nation under a single government.

CCF Protests CBC Ban On Sommers Case Talk

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia CCF party issued a statement Tuesday night saying it "protests most vigorously the CBC's banning of a radio broadcast by CCF MLA Tony Gargrave, dealing with the B.C. government's handling of the Sommers case."

The broadcast was scheduled to go on the air Monday night over Vancouver station CBU and a province-wide network, said the press release issued by Harold Thayer, provincial secretary of the party.

"This action was taken by CBC officials on the advice of their legal counsel in Toronto before the script was submitted for his scrutiny. Such high-handed action represents a threat to our fundamental rights to freedom of speech and the free discussion of public affairs."

Mr. Gargrave is the MLA for Mackenzie. His speech, said the CCF statement, in no way dealt with the bribery-conspiracy trial of former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers, "but with the way in which the provincial government handled the charges and their effect on the welfare of the forest industry."

Tardy Fall Frosts Call for Decision

What will the weather be this coming winter?

If we knew the answer we could decide whether to risk leaving the borderline plants in the garden and thus save ourselves some work.

Jack

Last fall, remembering previous winters, we took no chances, and some of the things we tried to store through the wet and mild months would probably have done better left in the open garden.

Our problem now is to decide what to do with the dahlias which are still rich in foliage and showing a good number of blooms.

Usually a sharp frost by late October has spoiled their appearance, but few districts have experienced a frost severe enough to leave any imprint.

The great benefit of a fall frost is that it helps us to make the decision. Once the plants are blackened we have no qualms about digging the roots and putting them into storage.

The dahlia fanciers are not troubled in this way. They dig and store the roots every fall regardless of the weather that lies ahead.

If home gardeners are going to follow their example, the top growth of the dahlias should be gradually reduced over a period of two or three weeks, or the plants dug complete with foliage and spread on the earth floor of a frost-free shed until the top growth has wilted.

Flowers should be removed in any case since they use food which would be better stored in the tubers for next year's plants.

Victoria Artist Wins $100 Prize

A painting award of $100 has been won by Victoria artist Herbert Siebner for his "Story of the Stone Man."

The award was made at the fourth annual exhibition and sale held in the Winnipeg Art Gallery.

LIFE OF MACKENZIE KING

Early Success At University

Serialization of this new and official unpublished biography of Mackenzie King began last Saturday in the Times Weekend Magazine. It will continue daily Monday to Friday in the news columns of the Times and in Saturday's Weekend Magazine.

By ROBERT MacGREGOR DAWSON

In the autumn of 1891 Mackenzie King enrolled in the Faculty of Arts at University College in the University of Toronto. He was not yet 17. A year later he entered the honor course in political science, and was awarded a Blake Scholarship in political science and history.

For the next three years his studies were mainly in politics, economics, constitutional history, and law, in most of which he stood at or near the top of his class. He graduated in 1895 with first-class honors. In 1896 he received the degree of bachelor of laws at Toronto.

King

A few days after Willie appeared on the campus, The Varsity, the student paper, reported a conversation between someone referred to as "Rex" and another student, in which the naive freshman had introduced himself as the son of "Senator Rex" of Berlin.

The incident, which had apparently been somewhat distorted in the telling, is obviously of little consequence save to indicate the impression King made on his fellow students and his extraordinary ability to attract attention and to make the most of his opportunities.

'Surprised Them'

For he brought the matter before a meeting of his class (1895)—presumably on a plea of parliamentary privilege—and, he said, "explained the whole affair to (them) who listened without one interruption for about eight minutes. I was not a bit nervous and I think that kind of surprised some of them. I asked them in closing that I hoped they would not believe any such report and thanked them for their kind attention. Then when I sat down they cheered for about five minutes and called out, 'What's the matter with King, he's all right.' The president and lots of the others congratulated me after the meeting." The nickname of Rex remained, however, and he shrewdly added to the account he gave his parents the comment that if the whole affair "has done anything, it has done me good because now I know nearly every man in the college, or rather they all know me."

He found to his delight that the boyish pranks of the high school were reproduced on a grander scale at Toronto, and his first letters home tell of the "great time" he had had at the Autumn Convocation and at the Opera House.

Police Called In

Fifty chairs were smashed on the first occasion, and the police were compelled to interefere on the second, which ended up with the usual serenade in front of one of the girls' schools. This sportive trait persisted for years.

In 1893 Rex and five others appeared before the University Council on a charge of tearing down an old shed on the campus at Halloween. They were fined $15 each, an act which led to an indignation meeting, a Glee Club parody in their honor, and a student subscription to discharge the fine. On the next Halloween King was chosen by a mass meeting of students to take charge of all arrangements for a theatre night and he quite lived up

New Wengren Plans Told By Mainwaring

VANCOUVER — Advanced engineering and cost studies for the huge Wenner-Gren power development in the Peace River will go ahead next year, to be completed by December, 1959.

They are expected to show that power from the area can be brought to the lower mainland cheaper than any other hydro sources, which will mean the huge project will go ahead.

This was disclosed at a press conference here today when the full list of directors for the new Peace River Power Development Company, Wenner-Gren subsidiary, was announced.

W. C. Mainwaring, retired vice-president of B.C. Electric was named president of the new $20,000,000 company.

More than 8,000,000 horsepower can be generated by a huge earth-filled dam built on the Peace River in northeastern B.C. Mr. Mainwaring said. He said:

"Engineering already completed indicates a dam yielding 4,000,000 horsepower can be built on the Peace River for the same order of costs as a dam yielding only 2,000,000 horsepower near Mica Creek (in southeastern B.C.).

'Prostitutes' Users to Pay Premier's Pledge

H. Lee Briggs, general manager of the B.C. Power Commission, today charged the provincial government with prostituting the 80,000 customers of the commission to fulfil political promises.

In a dramatic, emotion-charged press conference, he appealed to the public to step over the heads of the government and stop it from forcing the power commission to refinance some of its loans so that Premier Bennett can claim by 1960 that he has paid off the direct debt of B.C.

Mr. Briggs charged that the financial plan will cost the commission $215,000 a year and this will have to be paid by its consumers.

It was one of the most sensational interviews ever given by a public official in the history of the province.

As he neared the end of reading his 3,000-word statement Mr. Briggs broke down, turned and looked out of the window of his office.

He wiped tears from his eyes, then took control of himself and resumed the conference.

He announced he doesn't intend to resign his post, which he took four years ago, but if he is fired he will make a non-political tour of the province to stump the platforms and tell the people the "rancid things" that go on in electric power matters.

Commission Forced Into Losses

In addition to his charge that pressure is being put on the power commission to do the refinancing, Mr. Briggs declared twice previously the government has forced the commission into losses, once for $60,000 and another for $115,000.

This came about when the government was floating power commission loans but invested a lot of government money in them. Instead of buying the bonds directly from government funds, the government floated the loans through bond houses and paid the necessary commissions, which could have been avoided.

"My objections got nowhere," Mr. Briggs declared.

But his main concern is the Premier's plan to refinance the original issues put out by the government between 1945 and 1952 to set the power commission up in business.

These borrowings were made directly by the government. The money was turned over to the power commission, which undertook to pay all the sinking funds and interest. But the bonds are direct government bonds.

(Since that time, loans for the hydro have been put out as power commission bonds with government guarantees.)

It is the rearrangement of these original bonds, at higher rates than were obtained at the time of issue, which will cost the power commission the money, he said.

"Quite obviously the chief objective of the bond rearrangement is to implement a political promise by the present government, namely to 'wipe out all the province's direct debt by 1960'. All other possible reasons for such action have been analyzed, but without result," he said.

Placed His Whole Career on Line

Mr. Briggs, in effect, placed his whole career on the line in his statement condemning the government's actions as "unworthy of public responsibility and trust."

He declared: "I will not stand idly by while those charged with the administration of the financial affairs of this province prostitute the 80,000 customers of the B.C. Power Commission to fulfill political promises."

Mr. Briggs made it absolutely clear that what he was doing was solely on his own responsibility and knowledge, that his action was unknown to the members of the power commission itself, or any of the staff.

When he invited reporters into his office he also had a power commission public relations man, L. H. Whittaker, and his own assistant, Phil J. Croft, in the office. He asked each one of them specifically if they had any idea what his statement was about. They each replied that they did not.

Mr. Briggs' statement disclosed that heated arguments and correspondence have been going on between the government's financial advisor, Dr. J. V. Fisher, and the power commission on the proposed refinancing.

The question is not yet finally settled and that is why he has appealed to the public over the head of the government. But at the moment, he said, it is clear the plan, if forced through, must cost the power commission an extra $215,000 a year.

He also made reference to a "news leak" which

Complete Text of Statement by Power Chief

Following is the complete text of the statement issued today by H. Lee Briggs, general manager of the B.C. Power Commission, charging interference in commission financing for political purposes:

"I will not stand idly by while those charged with the administration of the financial affairs of this Province prostitute the 80,000 customers of the B.C. Power Commission to fulfill political promises.

"This refusal has no relation to the control which the Legislature and the Government of this Province must properly exercise over the major policies of the Power Commission. Such overall directional control is an unquestioned necessity, it is essential to the long-term interests of the people of British Columbia.

"But long years ago it was well and truly said: 'Who keeps the truth from the people stands in the way of God.' That striking statement applies to Premier W. A. C. Bennett. It applies to one Lee Briggs. It applies to the most humble witness in the land.

"In the early years of the Power Commission (1945 to 1952), its permanent capital funds were provided by the sale of bond issues standing in the name of the Province. By Orders-in-Council the then governments assigned both the proceeds and the obligations of these issues to the Power Commission. They made the Power Commission wholly responsible for all interest charges, and for all sinking fund installments such as would provide completely for eventual repayment.

"When the Premier and his advisers propose and continue to insist with increasing pressure that this permanent financing be almost totally rearranged, and thereby impose large extra annual and total costs which can only be paid for by each and every one of the Commission's customers, it is indeed time that these people be made fully aware of the circumstances. These people will then pass their own judgment on what is right and what is wrong.

"Quite obviously the chief objective of the bond rearrangement is to implement a political promise by the present government, namely to 'wipe out all the Province's direct debt by 1960.' All other possible reasons for such action have been analyzed, but without result.

THE INSTRUCTIONS

"A meeting in the Premier's office last September 22 was attended by the Economic Adviser, the three Power Commissioners, and myself. The Commission was in effect asked by the Premier to go through the motions of paying up its 32 million dollars in bonded debt carried in the name of the Province. No matter that some of those bonds carried very low rates of interest, and with few exceptions had many years still to run. The entire group carried an average interest rate of 3.1%, whereas the current market rate for new issues of similar character is 5.1%.

"At that meeting it was proposed to the Commission in most decisive fashion that it must select between (a) reborrowing in the open market at current rates of interest or (b) reissuing a new series of 4% bonds, to be taken up by other sinking and trust funds of other governmental agencies as their funds become available.

EXISTING BOND ISSUES NOT TO BE CANCELLED

"Although the Power Commission is to be pushed into higher costs for its customers to carry, there is to be no change in the status of the original bonds either as to ownership or as to their rate of interest. The scheme is to turn over now to the Sinking Fund Trustees, the equivalent value of all future sinking fund payments so that these, together with the interest earnings thereon, will be sufficient to provide for all future interest charges (still at 3.1%) and in addition, discharge fully the original obligations when they come due for payment at the normal time.

"Thus the direct obligation of the Province for these bonds would be transferred on a fully paid-up basis to the Sinking Fund Trustees. The direct obligations of the Province would in effect be extinguished now.

"As far as the Power Commission is concerned, the main catch in the scheme is the instruction to go on the open market now, or else to issue 4% bonds with some attraction to other Provincial trust or sinking funds.

"The proposal was thereupon taken back to the Power Commission offices where it was put under careful study.

NEWS LEAK

"From some unknown source a few days later there was a highly unfortunate leak of information to the 'Vancouver Province' newspaper. Several persons in the Finance Department had been involved in preparing or printing the information, and several persons in the Power Commission had been engaged in analyzing it. I was highly mortified by this occurrence. We did our best to track down the source of the leak, but without avail.

"If the news accounts are correct, the Premier issued several emphatically violent denials of the bond rearrangement plan which he had in fact set in motion. The strong emphasis to and the threatenings included with his denials, indicate clearly his full appreciation of what is right and what is wrong.

"It would be interesting to learn why, a few days later, the 'Vancouver Province' retracted the entire story in every particular.

"Rearrangement negotiations proceed.

"On October 8 the Commissioners delegated the General Manager to try to persuade Dr. Fisher (Dr. J. V. Fisher, B.C. Government Economic Adviser) to amend the Government's declared course of action. Our extended discussions on October 8 and 9 ended in an inconclusive draw. I followed by writing him in careful detail on October 14, to which on October 16 he replied in vehement vein.

"I feel that my own intelligence, the intelligence of Commission accounting people, and the intelligence of the people of British Columbia has been insulted by the insistence of government officials on the following, as indicated by the discussions and the correspondence:

"That a 4% or a 3¼% interest rate is really no more costly than a 3.1% interest rate if the term of the sinking fund payments are extended to a greater number of years.

"That total annual interest payments of $975,750 on the existing issues are almost no different from the total annual interest of $976,253 on the proposed new issues (the former being on $32,025,000, but the latter being on only $26,306,072).

"That in their books the Power Commission officials could extend the figures of the estimated years of life for their plant equipments, and thereby reduce the yearly depreciation payments from which the sinking fund moneys are taken.

"That, for example, it is really in the best interests of the Power Commission to refinance now, at 5.1% or 4% or 3¼%, an issue which presently carries an interest rate of 2¼% and does not mature until 1968!

"That it is no business of the Power Commission how its permanent financing may be arranged or rearranged.

"To quote Dr. Fisher's letter: " . . . in . . . answer (to) your suggestion that the proposed arrangement adds $260,000 to your costs—a suggestion to which I take extreme exception, and which in my opinion and that of the Comptroller-General is invalid, and could not be considered on any ground."

"Fortunately this whole pressure play is completely documented throughout. At the time of writing, the proposed interest rate of the new bonds would be 3¼%, and the additional annual cost of the rearrangement to the customers of the Power Commission would be to the tune of about $215,000 each year at the present time.

"Our resistance to this rearrangement of bond issues has undoubtedly been embarrassing to the Premier. As a result, he has instituted an investigation into high costs in construction carried out by the Power Commission. Certainly such a course is his privilege and indeed his duty, should there be honest doubt regarding our performance.

PREMIER BENNETT

DR. J. V. FISHER

TARGET of blistering attack by H. L. Briggs, power commission general manager, today, were the premier, and Dr. Fisher, his economic and financial adviser, who conducted correspondence with Mr. Briggs regarding power commission financing.

"Let no one imagine that the Power Commission has not had its share of high-costing projects in these last three difficult years. Definitely, yes we have struggled with some excessive-costing installations in the same way that the owners of Kemano, Kitimat, Duncan Bay, Alberni, Crofton and the Dease Island tunnel and Mr. John Q. Public have had to struggle with some or many inflated and unreasonable costs.

"If ever the Government or the people of this Province wish to comb through Power Commission projects, they would be well advised to do it adequately and properly by the appointment of some nationally-respected firm of consulting engineers, with whom should be associated some nationally-respected firm of chartered accountants. The sifting process will be costly and a great consumer of time, but I would welcome it gladly for the result it must produce—an abundant disclosure of fantastic work demands on a small group of devoted key people, of difficulties they have overcome, and of the accomplishments which have been achieved in our success to provide electric power in time to meet the needs of the people we are privileged to serve.

EXPECT DENIALS

"When all this information becomes public knowledge, undoubtedly forceful denials and expressions of nothing but good intentions or lack of knowledge will come forth. Nevertheless, the records will remain. These will continue to speak for themselves of the intentions and of the determination with which this infamous course of action is being pushed even at the moment of writing.

"No camouflage explanations can conceal the fact that through higher interest rates, the B.C. Power Commission was to be required to accept an additional yearly cost of about $215,000.

"And the battle is still in progress.

NOT THE FIRST TIME

"The action of the General Manager of the Power Commission, in placing this matter directly before the court of public opinion, is perhaps highly unusual. It obliges him to go on to say that Power Commission customers are already bearing certain improper costs as a result of the fiscal practices of this present government.

"In July of 1955, the Power Commission floated through its lawful fiscal agent (the Minister of Finance) a bond issue of $10,000,000. The syndicate of investment dealers which was awarded the issue required in its bid a fee of $9.23 per thousand dollars of issue, all quite proper and usual. But it was later drawn to our attention that no less than $6,550,000 of the issue had been taken up, I believe at the outset of the offering, by either the Department of Finance itself directly in behalf of various governmental trustees, or with the knowledge or upon the advice of the Department of Finance for the trust funds of various Provincial Commissions and Boards. Yet, at the fee rate stated above, the Power Commission had nevertheless to pay more than $60,000 to the outside syndicate for the purchase of our bonds by Provincial agencies.

"The matter was enquired into, but without any satisfactory explanations.

"Again in September, 1957, the Power Commission floated a $30,000,000 issue. I am informed that Provincial agencies took $10,000,000 of this, largely through the planned conversion of Dominion of Canada bonds. In this instance, the fee of the investment syndicate was $11.50 per thousand dollars. Again, and on this occasion, the Power Commission was charged $115,000 expense re the bond takings of the Provincial agencies. My objections got nowhere.

"When such a practice as this has been called to the direct attention of the responsible public officials, as it has been, and when such a practice is later repeated upon an even grander scale, then it can mean either one of two things.

"Either it signifies gross ineptitude on a grand scale or else it signifies a planned design.

"In my books, to be tagged with either gross ineptitude or design, establishes the clear fact that any man responsibly associated therewith is completely unworthy of public responsibility and trust.

"It is for such reasons that because of my own position of public trust, there seems no sufficiently fast relief other than by a public disclosure of the circumstances.

"In public business there is no substitute for full and complete integrity. And there are no relative degrees of integrity.

"Right now I am in this signed statement calling upon the people of this Province for their help.

"Signed,
H. L. BRIGGS."

BRIGGS GIVES REASONS FOR ACTION

"I have been asked why the release of this distressing information is being made in this manner.

"It is because the time remaining for corrective action has almost run out. Thus far the more ordinary corrective processes have failed to work.

"No member of the Power Commission staff is in any way implicated in these releases. Nor is any aware of more than detached portions of these stories, the responsibility for which is entirely my own.

"The Commissioners are quite unaware of my decision to release this information. They are therefore in a position to deal with this matter and with myself as in their judgment the circumstances may require.

"Since I am doing not one whit less than my duty to the customers of the British Columbia Power Commission and to all the people of this Province, I will not voluntarily resign.

"Last week after a number of disturbing developments at the office and almost a loss of hope, I spent a restless night. After getting up at daylight, I felt unable to do other than on my knees to ask Almighty God for His strength and guidance in dealing with the burden of knowledge whose full significance and implications were growing to such tremendous proportions. I knew then that regardless of personal risk, the matter had to be taken through as rapidly as possible to the tribunal of public opinion.

"After the first pattern of depth charges has been released, I suppose that one could not expect the newspapers to carry a red-hot torch indefinitely, or the radio stations to continue their reiterations. After all, they have to live too.

"If I am discharged from my present position, I have every intention of stumping the platforms of this province until the next election, to let the people know the rancid things that go on here in electric power matters which affect most of the people so vitally. But it shall be done without political affiliation.

"I have no political ambitions whatsoever. I do not propose to run for public office. My whole working life has been in the engineering and the management of public utilities, and I ask for nothing better than to have it remain that way.

"I came to this Province four years ago to inaugurate and to develop a single effective management for the B.C. Power Commission. The time has flashed by, but not without some small measure of success. More than anything else there has grown up an expanding conviction that the way must be found to give the people of this Province a far squarer deal than the great majority of them have yet had from their own power resources.

"At the moment, however, I do now challenge the daily newspapers of British Columbia to carry these statements now released, verbatim and in full.

"Yours faithfully,
H. L. BRIGGS."

Troubles Plague Power Body

Two major upheavals have occurred in the B.C. Power Commission over the past four years.

The first was on March 12, 1954, when the three-man power commission and its chief engineer resigned following investigation of $1,000,000 damage done by mudslides at the Whatshan hydro installation on Lower Arrow Lake in August, 1953.

They resigned after a finding of negligence on their part by Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne, a royal commissioner appointed by the government.

Chairman S. R. Weston, Maj. Gen. W. W. Foster, CMG, DSO, VD, and Forrest L. Shaw, OBE, proferred their resignations to the B.C. government as a matter of form after the report was released and these were accepted.

Chief Engineer A. W. Lash handed his resignation to the commission and this also was accepted.

A few days later T. H. Crosby was appointed chairman in succession to Mr. Weston and he has served ever since.

Mr. Justice Clyne was commissioned in September, 1953, to seek the causes of the Whatshan mudslides. After hearing 25 witnesses in 22 days of evidence, and visiting the slide area, he ruled that the three commissioners and the chief engineer knew, or should have known, that the plant was in danger for two years before the slides.

S. R. WESTON
. . . quit over slide

He found that they had failed to try to avert them.

Subsequently Premier Bennett said in the legislature:

"Accepting these resignations is the toughest job I have had since I became premier."

He said the resignations were made voluntarily.

Mr. Weston, born at Upper Gagetown, N.B., in 1899, became chairman of the B.C. Power Commission, with a salary of $12,000 a year, in April, 1945. He was formerly chief engineer of the B.C. Utilities Commission.

occurred late in September when the Vancouver Province published an item hinting at the transfer.

The Premier had made violent denials at that time. (In fact a suit for $1,000,000 was threatened against the Province by the Premier.)

"It would be interesting to learn why, a few days later the Vancouver Province retracted the entire story in every particular," Mr. Briggs said.

He explained that in the early years of the power commission (1945 to 1952), the provincial government borrowed by sale of bonds sums of money to finance the new power development and distribution program. Mr. Briggs established this amount as $32,025,000.

Proceeds and obligations for repayment were transferred to the power commission.

Now, said Mr. Briggs, the premier and his advisors propose this set up be completely re-arranged. The power commission is asked to make new borrowings to turn over to the government an amount equal to the unrepaid portion of the original loans.

The increased interest charges now demanded by bond markets would mean the increase of $215,000 in expense to the commission.

This will ". . . impose large extra annual and total costs which can only be paid for by each and every one of the commission's customers . . ."

He said, at a meeting in the premier's office Sept. 22 the commission learned the refinancing would mean payment of interest rates of 5.1 per cent, whereas the interest rate still being paid on the original borrowings averaged 3.1 per cent.

The commission was given a choice of reborrowing in the open market or re-issuing a new series of 4 per cent bonds to be taken up by other government agencies, ". . . as their funds become available."

At the same time, the original bond issue would still claim interest payment by the commission. The new borrowings would be used to establish a sinking fund which would counter the original debt on a balance sheet, and in effect wipe out the provincial obligation.

Mr. Briggs mentioned while this was under study the news leak occurred and the denials were issued by the premier.

"The strong emphasis to and the threatenings of his denials, indicate clearly his full appreciation of what is right and what is wrong," Mr. Briggs added.

He said the power commission asked him, as general manager, to try to persuade the government financial advisor, Dr. Fisher, to amend this course of action. Talks ended in "an inconclusive draw."

They brought a letter from Dr. Fisher in "vehement vein."

As a result, said Mr. Briggs, "I feel that my own intelligence, the intelligence of Commission accounting people and the intelligence of the people of British Columbia, has been insulted . . ."

The government asked, he said, that people believe 4 or 3¾ per cent interest is no more costly than 3.1 per cent interest.

The government asks the figures on estimated life of plant equipment be extended to decrease yearly depreciation payments, and claims refinancing at higher cost would be in best interests of the power commission.

Dr. Fisher told him in a letter, the suggestion the refinancing would add $260,000 to current BCPC costs is invalid and "could not be considered on any ground."

But Mr. Briggs replied, "Fortunately, this whole pressure play is completely documented throughout . . ."

Mr. Briggs said that because this is embarrassing to the premier, the premier has launched investigation into high construction costs in commission projects. The general manager admits to high costs but said they are general.

He said an investigation would be welcomed, but he asked it be done by a nationally known firm of consulting engineers and a firm of chartered accountants.

He felt it would disclose ". . . fantastic work demands on a small group of devoted key people," and accomplishment.

Mr. Briggs said it wasn't the first time he has objected to provincial financial policies which affect the commission.

He said in July 1955 the commission floated a $10,000,000 bond issue. A syndicate of investment dealers was awarded the issue with a bid fee of $9.23 per thousand.

The department of finance or other government agencies took up $6,550,000 of the new bonds. The commission had to pay $60,000 to the outside syndicate in order that other provincial agencies could purchase the bonds.

"The matter was enquired into but without any satisfactory explanations."

In September 1957, a $30,000,000 bond issue by the commission was authorized and provincial agencies took $10,000,000. The syndicate was paid $11.50 per thousand, the BCPC paying $115,000 to private firms for use of provincial government money.

"My objections got nowhere."

He said when responsible public officials ignore such things, "it signifies either gross ineptitude, on a grand scale, or else it signifies a planned design.

"In my books, to be tagged with either gross ineptitude or design, establishes the clear fact that any man responsibly associated therewith is completely unworthy of public responsibility and trust."

He added, "There is no substitute for full and complete integrity. And there are no relative degrees of integrity. . ."

College Cadets Form Guard At War Memorial

QUALICUM BEACH — The Qualicum College Cadet Corps provided the guard of honor at the War Memorial for the Remembrance Day service on Tuesday, and paraded along with veterans and other service groups.

For the first time NCO's of the corps were in Scottish uniform, and a donation by the local Legion branch will aid in outfitting the corps in kilts.

The corps is affiliated with the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's).

Prairie Woman's Death Mourned By City Survivors

Mrs. Mary Suffern, who died recently at St. Joseph's Hospital, Macklin, Sask., is survived by three children in Victoria—Mrs. Rose Medland, Mrs. Edith Laughren and Fred Suffern.

Mrs. Suffern, aged 76, was born at Battleford, Sask., and married John A. Suffern in June 1901. They had eight children. Mr. Suffern died on July 26 last.

Funeral services for Mrs. Suffern were held in Senlac United Church, Sask., last Tuesday followed by interment at Hatley Memorial Gardens, Victoria, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Suffern gave many priceless relics of Saskatchewan' early days to the museum at Battleford, among them a picture of Fort Garry painted by a young Indian boy around the beginning of the century.

MANY HONORS CAME TO BRIGGS

Top Scholastic Record

Herbert Lee Briggs was appointed general manager of the British Columbia Power Commission, Feb. 1, 1955.

The post of general manager was recommended by a royal commission in 1954.

Mr. Briggs came to B.C. from Winnipeg, where he was general manager of Winnipeg hydro-electric system.

He had an outstanding record in the scholastic and utility field in his native province of Manitoba.

Born in Killarney, he was awarded the Governor-General's Medal when he graduated from high school in 1919. After taking a first-year arts course at Wesley College (where he won the Memorial Scholarship), he worked for 2½ years in a bank, then took some Normal School training and taught public school for a year.

After receiving scholarships each year at the University of Manitoba, he graduated in 1928 with a degree of Bachelor of Science in electrical engineering, magna cum laude, and was awarded the university gold medal in electrical engineering.

He joined the staff of the Winnipeg hydro-electric system on graduation and progressed steadily through the engineering, construction and operating divisions of that utility.

In 1952, he became general manager.

The following year, he was appointed a member of the City of Winnipeg finance committee's advisory group.

Mr. Briggs is a keen Rotarian and snaps near-professional 35 mm color pictures, which are always in demand for showing to employees, whenever he is on tour of the far-flung B.C. Power Commission system.

He is married and has three children, two sons, who have also pursued engineering careers, and a daughter, at college.

Russ to Stay In E. Germany

BERLIN (AP)—Premier Otto Grotewohl indicated today Russia might be ready for a one-sided withdrawal of its troops from Germany, then suddenly backed down on his announcement tonight.

It appeared Grotewohl had been told by the Kremlin to make it clear Soviet troops will stay until Western armies get out of West Germany.

The East German premier earlier had told a press conference that his regime expected to open talks soon with Russian Premier Khrushchev on the withdrawal of Russian troops from the satellite nation.

Under questioning from Western reporters, he added that Russia "perhaps" would also stick to its old proviso calling for simultaneous withdrawal of Russian and Western troops from Germany.

Tonight an official correction was issued on the transcript of the press conference.

The correction changed the "perhaps" to "naturally" in the Grotewohl statement. This meant that the East German premier now was admitting that any withdrawal of Russian troops from his land depended on Western forces leaving the Bonn republic.

The West repeatedly has rejected this in the past, insisting that Russia first must agree to German reunification through free elections.

Grotewohl's first statement followed weekend demands by Khrushchev that the Western powers withdraw from Berlin.

Grotewohl denounced as "sensational" western speculation that the Communists might be planning a new blockade of West Berlin.

"Berlin," he said, "is one question, but it is not the biggest question."

The biggest question, he said, was peace and German unification.

Victorian Fined As 'Impaired'

DUNCAN — In police court here Monday, George Vernon Ballock, 2460 Quadra Street, Victoria, was fined $100 and costs for impaired driving.

A passenger in his car, Albert White, of Victoria, was fined $10 and costs for being intoxicated.

The two men appeared in court after Ballock's car went off the road at the Cobble Hill cutoff early Sunday.

Teen-Ager Admits Breaking, Entering

NANAIMO (CP) — George Sampson, 19, of Nanaimo, was remanded Monday until Nov. 14 for sentence when he pleaded guilty in police court here to charges of breaking and entering.

An accomplice, Robert George Patterson, 20, was sentenced last Friday to three years when convicted on similar charges.

Economic Domination Charge By CCF

Disclosures by B.C. Power Commission general manager Lee Briggs indicate Premier Bennett's government is involved in "a grand plan to have the B.C. Electric and Wenner-Gren dominate the economic life of this province," CCF Leader Robert Strachan said at noon.

Speaking from his home at Cedar, Mr. Strachan said the Briggs statement speaks for itself.

"It bears out the statements the CCF has been making in the House for years. Now it appears the government and Mr. Bennett are involved in a grand plan to have the BCE and Wenner-Gren interests dominate the economic life of the province and saddle our people with high-cost power."

He added: "I certainly commend Mr. Briggs for his public spirited attitude and absolute honesty in releasing the statement. B.C. cannot afford to lose such a man."

WOODLANDS WAITING LIST

'It's Disgrace' Says Magistrate

NANAIMO—Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts Monday criticized the provincial government for closing a wing of the Woodlands School when there is a waiting list for admission to the institution for mental defective children.

He described the closing of a wing of the school as "a disgrace".

He made the comments after welfare officer Donald Bingham requested the court to rescind an order committing a mentally defective youth to the care of the superintendent of child welfare.

LONG WAIT

It was general knowledge, he told the magistrate, that there is a waiting list and there will be a one or two-year delay before the youth could be admitted.

"The whole thing's a disgrace," said the magistrate.

He said the empty wing at Woodlands would hold 200 children.

He could see no problem of recruiting staff, he added.

The government, he said, was either trying to save money or had some other "obscure" reason for closing a section of the institution.

Owner Unhurt As Cruiser Burns, Sinks

SEATTLE (AP) — The 45-foot pleasure cruiser Sea Bell, of Seattle, burned and sank Tuesday in Fossil Bay, on Sujcia Island, but the owner, C. H. Bell, got off unharmed, the Coast Guard reported.

Bell radioed for assistance about 8.30 a.m. and was picked up two hours later by a Coast Guard patrol boat from Bellingham. He was the only person aboard the cruiser, and was en route from Seattle to Sidney, B.C.

Driver, 14, Crashes Car; Five Injured

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — A 14-year-old motorist and four of his seven passengers are in fair condition in hospital here with injuries suffered Sunday night when their car plunged 20 feet down an embankment and crashed into a tree.

Police said the car was driven by Walter Williams. It was destroyed in the accident.

In hospital: Walter Williams, concussion, fractured arm and ribs; his mother, Elsie Williams, lacerations to the head and a fractured wrist; his brother, Frankie, 5, fractured leg; Clarence Dennis, 16, concussion; and Mrs. June Williams, concussion, facial lacerations and leg injuries.

Released from hospital after treatment for minor injuries were Michael and Simon Williams and John Moses.

Her Boy 'Bothered' By Girls

PORT ALBERNI — Edward Tatoosh, 23, has been sentenced to three months in Oakalla, after pleading guilty to a charge of indecent assault against an 18-year-old girl.

Mother of the accused made a strong plea on behalf of her son, saying that he was continually "bothered" with phone calls from girls, and that he could not help himself.

Evidence showed that Tatoosh entered the bedroom of the sleeping girl and attempted to attack her. She screamed, neighbors were aroused and Tatoosh fled.

SPCA Charges Wild Horses Mistreated

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER—RCMP Monday night turned back a trailer-truck at the U.S. border near Sumas, B.C., after the SPCA complained that 25 wild horses had been kept in the trailer 36 hours without food or water.

Police said one horse was dead and another was in poor physical condition.

The Chilliwack division of the SPCA said it would press charges against the driver of the truck.

The SPCA said the 25 horses had been caught in the Princeton area of B.C.

NEPTUNE IN HUNT

KAMLOOPS—A radar-equipped Neptune aircraft and a twin-rotor helicopter have joined the steadily growing search for a private aircraft with two men aboard, missing in the B.C. interior since last Thursday.

They bring to nine the concentration of RCAF planes taking part in the hunt for the twin-engine Apache aircraft.

Aboard the plane when it disappeared between Calgary and Kamloops on a flight to Vancouver were pilot Fred Royce, 36, and C. J. Janick, 42, both of Cadillac, Mich.

RCAF officials said Tuesday it had been learned that the missing plane had a radar reflector in its emergency kit, and the Neptune aircraft was ordered into the search by Wing Cmdr. J. W. Borden, searchmaster.

WOMAN ROBBED

VANCOUVER — Police throughout the Fraser Valley were searching Tuesday for two youths who robbed a North Surrey woman of $137 and jewelry worth more than $2,000 Monday night.

Mrs. Kay Graff said the youths, one of them carrying an automatic pistol, bound and gagged her after entering her store. They fled after cutting telephone wires.

YOUTH KILLED

A Vancouver youth, David A. Miller, 16, was killed while he and a companion were shooting at elk from the porch of a dude ranch near Cle Elum, Wash., Tuesday.

Miller and Irvin Woodell, about 35, of South Cle Elum, were taking shots at three elk in a field near the Sky Meadows guest ranch in the Peoh Point area, Kititas County deputy sheriff Vic Cusworth reported.

The officer said Woodell told him he and Miller were standing side by side and that when he turned quickly to enter the door his rifle was accidentally discharged. The youth was shot in the left temple.

RCAF Europe Squadrons Face New Role in NATO

OTTAWA (CP)—Future of the 12-squadron RCAF Air Division in Europe should become clearer after the annual NATO council meeting in Paris next month.

Authorities said Tuesday nothing can be decided until Defence Minister Pearkes confers with other NATO defence ministers and military leaders.

They said it is generally recognized that the division will have to be re-equipped, but what form this new equipment will take is still up in the air.

Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme allied commander in Europe, said recently that the number of missile-equipped units will be expanded with a consequent elimination of 30 to 40 conventional aircraft squadrons.

This does not necessarily mean that any Canadian squadrons will be eliminated but Gen. Norstad's statement points that way because, generally speaking, Canada's NATO's partners have more advanced fighter planes than the RCAF.

The Canadian division is equipped with the Sabre and CF-100 jets, both high-altitude interceptors.

The life of these planes could be extended by equipping them with an air-to-air missile, but such a program probably would require extensive modifications in the Sabres and CF-100s.

The role of the air division might be switched to that of army support, in which case the RCAF in Europe would likely require an entirely new plane.

Another possibility is that the division might retain the same role—interception of bombers—but be equipped with ground-to-air missiles.

The decision about the RCAF air division's role and equipment will be strictly up to the Canadian government. But the government naturally wants the air division to mesh smoothly with NATO's air forces.

DEMOCRAT 'BOSS CURLEY' OF BOSTON

. . . two jail terms

BOSTON (AP) — James Michael Curley, last of the big-city political bosses, died today at City Hospital. He would have been 84 Nov. 20.

Curley was a Democratic leader for more than half a century, serving four terms as mayor of Boston, one term as governor of Massachusetts and four as a congressman.

Slowly failing health had marked Curley's last years and he was long under treatment for diabetes.

SONS COME

Mrs. Curley and Curley's two surviving sons, Rev. Francis X. Curley of Holy Cross College and George J. Curley of Boston, were summoned. Father Curley gave his father the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church.

Curley's long career was one of triumph and tragedy.

He won election to the highest offices in his home city and state and once was high in the councils of his Democratic party. But he also served two terms in jail.

Curley first went to jail at about 1900 for conspiracy in connection with taking civil service examinations for another man. He served five months in 1947 in connection with a mail fraud case.
